5-POWER ENTENTE IN MIDDLE EUROPE PLANNED BY BENES

HUNGARY IN FOR SCOLDING

League Will Demand Explanation of Her Machine Gun Smuggling.

POLITIS RAPS THE COUNCIL

GENEVA, Feb. 22.—Following conversations with the leaders of the Security and Arbitration Committee, including Chairman Benes—the only Foreign Minister present—it becomes clear that behind the somewhat fulsome oratory of the assembly hall and the dry technical labors of the subcommittee, probably the biggest political manoeuvre of the year is in preparation.

This, in brief, is the formation of a real Locarno group in the midst of Europe in which Hungary's recent act in destroying the seized machine guns from Italy instead of being a blow to the Council's authority can be turned to advantage. Undoubtedly, extension of the Little Entente to include both Hungary and Austria would reconstitute "Mittel Europa" outside German influence in such manner that Austrian annexation to the Reich could not take place.

Union a War Menace.

In the minds of many European statesmen, such a union—which is almost sure to happen unless something drastic prevents—would be a certain step in the direction of war. In fact, one of the main reasons why the campaign to move the League to Vienna has assumed great proportions is the belief that such a move would be a final blow to German dreams of territorial expansion toward the Adriatic or Aegean.

According to League leaders now in Geneva it is likely that Hungary as a result of the recent machine gun episode will be hailed before the Council in the rôle of a culprit and, despite the fact that the great powers may feel inclined toward clemency, the March Council meeting must end in some form of strong moral condemnation of that recalcitrant nation.

The fact that Hungary purposely destroyed the proofs that were to form the basis of an inquiry here is considered equivalent to admission of the fault. Therefore, Dr. Benes, as one of the cleverest European statesmen, considers the moment favorable to oblige Hungary to come into agreement which would greatly increase League control in Central Europe.

Indulgence by Some Expected.

It is not for a moment overlooked that Hungary is certain to have strong influence at the Council meeting. Italy either as accomplice or otherwise, it is believed, will oppose the plans of the Little Entente. Britain, it is believed, will produce both sentimental and business reasons for clemency. Lord Rothermere's press campaign against the Rumanian claims, as well as heavy British financial investments, has resulted in partiality for this the most truculent State of the Balkans. Also Germany, for obvious political reasons, probably will prefer that the matter be sidetracked indefinitely.

But against all such possible opposition, Dr. Benes's argument is that the present situation means constant threat of war and therefore he is working industriously for extension of the Locarno agreement, to be voted by the next Assembly. Following that he will propose a general security treaty among five Central European powers—Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Hungary and Austria.

That Italy will make secret if not open resistance on the ground that such an alliance would be a renaissance of the old Hapsburg Federation, Dr. Benes does not doubt, also that Germany will regard the move as the end of her plans of annexation. Therefore he is preparing, in case he finds it too difficult to realize a real Central European Locarno to propose bilateral treaties among all these five States.

In any case, interest here has now shifted ahead of the present debate in the Security and Arbitration Committee to the Council meeting the week after next when the attempt to bind Hungary against future infractions of the treaty of Trianon will take definite form.

Not Hungary's First Offense.

Reliable reports have reached the League Secretariat that the seizure of arms at St. Gothard is not the first but the tenth illegal shipment, the others having all safely passed the frontier.

M. Politis, delegate of Greece at the present sessions, who is considered the League's greatest juridical authority, expressed today both criticism and amazement that no move had yet been inaugurated by the Council in the affair of the Hungarian machine guns. M. Politis said that under the Council's right

Population of Italy Rose 853,000 in Last Two Years

ROME, Feb. 22 (AP).—Italy's population increased 444,000 in 1927 and 409,000 in 1926 says a bulletin of the Central Statistical Institute. While the number of births decreased in 1927, the death rate also decreased resulting in a net gain.

Births in Italy for 1926 were 1,134,616 and for last year 1,121,072. The deaths in 1926 totaled 650,074 while in 1927 they were 631,697.

Nearly 500,000 lire [about $25,000] has been subscribed to a fund for scientific study of the population problem and Premier Mussolini has accepted honorary presidency of the committee which will pursue the work.

DR. BUTLER WARNS DEMOCRATS MAY WIN

ASKS FIRM DRY LAW STAND

Successful Candidate, He Says, Must Carry East—Sees South and West True to Form.

Expressing a belief that either Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York or Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland would be nominated for President by the Democrats, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia told a Republican meeting in Jersey City last night that "Republican blundering" might give the Presidency to the Democratic candidate.

Dr. Butelr made a plea for a decisive stand by Presidential candidates on the important issues, particularly prohibition. He repeated that he favored repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and intimated that he thought the Republican nominee should take a similar stand to prevent the election of a Democrat.

The pivotal States in the coming election will be New York and New Jersey, he predicted.

Suggests Campaign Policy.

"Signs multiply that at Houston the Democrats will nominate either Governor Smith or Governor Ritchie," he said. "We must not make the mistake of underestimating the strength of either man. It would be as useless as unbecoming to meet either by personal attack. The only way to defeat such strong candidates is by insisting on the record of the Democratic Party in its incompetence and lack of principle, as constantly manifested in both houses of Congress and on the stump, and its array of McAdoos and Heflins and Upshaws.

"We must maintain and strengthen the record of the Republican Party as the friend and supporter of every just business enterprise, as the protector of labor as well as of capital, and as ready mercilessly to expose and punish corruption and incompetence in public office, whether at Washington or elsewhere.

"I do not believe the Democrats unaided can elect the next President, but Republican blundering might easily put it within their power to do so."

Finds Outlook Clouded.

Recalling that he had attended every national convention since 1888, when Benjamin Harrison was nominated, Dr. Butler said:

"We are preparing for another national convention, to be held at Kansas City in less than four months, and the outlook is less certain, less clear and more difficult than it has been since 1888. Despite the overwhelming majorities of 1920 and 1924, the best opinion is that the election in November next will be very hotly contested and that the result may be very close."

His own judgment, he said, was that the South and West would run true to form. After saying that the pivotal States would be New York and New Jersey, Dr. Butler added, "They are almost certain to be followed by Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Delaware and Maryland."

"If this be a correct forecast," he

COOLIDGE AT FETE AT THE OLD HOME OF WASHINGTON

REVIEWS HISTORIC PAGEANT

TRIP MADE ON MAYFLOWER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—President Coolidge crossed into Virginia today to pay reverence to George Washington, going to Alexandria, the historic town where the first American President attended church and lodge and which was in many other ways intimately associated with his life.

Alexandria had been celebrating Washington's Birthday for considerably more than a century, some of her celebrations having been attended by the first President himself, but perhaps never before on a greater scale than today.

The celebration was featured by two events, a reception given by Governor Byrd of Virginia in honor of the President, followed by a military parade and pageant in which 10,000 persons marched to the stirring strains of two dozen bands.

Business and professional activity was brought to a halt at Alexandria. The program was under the aegis of the George Washington Birthday Association and was attended by many notable guests, a host of Senators and Representatives and members of both branches of the Virginia Legislature.

The city was dressed in gala attire, and streets not roped off for the big parade were jammed by many thousands of automobiles of spectators from all parts of Maryland and Virginia.

Visits the Carlyle House.

Governor Byrd's reception to the President took place in the Carlyle House, the historic home of Colonel John Carlyle of Dumfriesshire, Scotland, one of the founders of Alexandria. It was the house in which Washington had argued with General Braddock against marching troops in military formation against Fort Duquesne, but without sufficient effect to avert Braddock's defeat.

It was also Braddock's headquarters while in Alexandria in 1755 and there the Colonial Governors of New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia conferred with him concerning plans for the proposed British campaign against the Indians. President Coolidge was deeply impressed with the place.

President Coolidge and party made the trip on board the yacht Mayflower, which, on docking at the Naval Torpedo Station wharf at Alexandria, was greeted with a salute of twenty-one guns. The Presidential party was met by Governor Byrd, with J. William May, President of the George Washington Birthday Association and a committee of Alexandria officials, and were escorted to Carlyle House for the reception by the Richmond Blues, Virginia's crack military organization, and later to a luncheon in the George Mason Hotel.

Mrs. Coolidge did not, as originally planned, accompany the Presidential party because of a cold which has kept her indoors for some days.

The President was accompanied by Senator Swanson, Representative Moore and former Representative Carlin of Virginia, Everett Sanders, the President's secretary, and C. Bascom Slemp.

Hoover or Smith Will Be Next President, Gov. Fuller Declares in Boston Address

BOSTON, Feb. 22.—"The next President of the United States will be Herbert Hoover or Alfred E. Smith," Governor Alvan T. Fuller declared today in an address to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company at their annual Washington Birthday luncheon in Faneuil Hall.

"No! No! No!" rose cries in all sections of the hall from men who but a few minutes before had cheered the Governor himself as the "next President."

Thereupon the Governor removed his glasses, dropped his manuscript and above the dissenting cries shouted:

"I'm not asking you; I'm telling you."

This paved the way for the Governor's next assertion, that "if the Republicans put over some candidate nominated by the bosses in a back room at 2 o'clock in the morning, and the Democrats nominate Al Smith, I believe Smith will be elected President of the United States."

Again there was dissent. But some Democrats applauded, while some Republicans continued to cry, "No!"

"Well, if you don't like that one, see what you think of the next one."

Then, continuing his prepared speech, he said:

"If the Democrats do not nominate Al Smith they had better disband or else reorganize the party as a free trade council of the Ku Klux Klan, with Tom Heflin as head Kleagle."

This statement came nearer to receiving unanimous approval than anything else the Governor said. When the applause had died down he remarked:

"If it has done you as much good to listen as it has me to deliver this, you're all feeling elegant right now."

Then he quickly wound up his speech and took his departure to keep other engagements, leaving the Ancients convinced that the present Governor of Massachusetts, whatever faults he may possess, believes in outspokenness on political questions and does not at all consider expediency.

Courtauld Shares Rise $65,000,000 in Value In Ten Minutes on Wild London Exchange

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—The Old Lady of Threadneedle Street, as the Bank of England is called, had a front row seat today at the most spectacular trading performance in artificial silk shares on the Stock Exchange which the commercial world has ever experienced. The fun began almost before the "Old Lady" had properly finished her breakfast, wiped her spectacles and opened her place of business.

The overnight announcement of a £60,000,000 bonus for shareholders of Courtauld, Ltd., artificial silk makers, was the cause of the excitement.

The Stock Exchange is just across the street from the Bank of England. The wedge-shaped quarter acre space in front of the Exchange Building was thronged with brokers, clerks and assistants long before 9 o'clock, which is the official hour. There was so many excited men yelling and calling, wiggwagging with hands and arms, making faces and indulging in other contortions that the stenographers, telephone girls, typists and the thousands of other young women employed in the financial district had fairly to fight their way through the crowds to their offices.

Dealing in Courtauld's stock actually started half an hour before the Exchange opened. As time passed, the crowd was increased by interested persons who came from all directions, and the babel of conversation, shouts and yells became more intense. The crowd swarmed like bees around new honey. Practically every broker of the financial district had clients interested in Courtauld and as soon as these clients had read the news in the morning papers they hurried to the City to consult their brokers and participate in the excitement.

The shares, which closed yesterday at £7 11s 18d, rose today to £9 5s. They afterward fell back slightly, but then climbed again while the brokers scrambled, dodged and wriggled through and around the seething mass endeavoring to reach a nearer position. In a few moments after the Exchange opened, the shares had shot up to £9—in other words, the total market value of the ordinary shares had risen more than $65,000,000 in about ten minutes. The excitement spread like wildfire and affected all other sections of the artificial silk market.

The history of Courtauld, Ltd., is one of the most dramatic industrial developments since the World War. It is estimated that the company now controls 80 per cent. of the world's artificial silk trade. It was organized in 1916 with a capital of only £2,500,000 which has now grown to £32,000,000 without any new subscriptions. The dividend this year was at the rate of 25 per cent.

The fact that the New York Exchange was closed today in observance of Washington's Birthday prevented buying and selling orders from the other side, but, as it was, today's scenes were among the wildest in the history of the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street, who has been on the job in the same place for 234 years. Habitues of the Exchange found a parallel only in the great Kaffir boom in the '90s.

WALKER CANCELS MOBILE SPEECH

HAND OF HEFLINITES SEEN

ABOARD MAYOR WALKER'S TRAIN, MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 22.—Mayor James J. Walker, who was scheduled to deliver an address here tonight, canceled the engagement today with a telegram which explained that he could not stop in this city on account of "the pressure of official business." But this, it was learned, was not the real reason.

Mayor Walker would not keep his Mobile engagement because the plans for his addressing the people here had been changed from an appearance in a theatre, for which tickets had been sold in connection with a theatrical performance which any one could have attended, to a "private" reception which had been arranged by persons who were reported to be unfriendly to Governor Smith.

Biggest Theatre Engaged.

Mayor Walker was invited to Mobile by Mayor Schwarz and City Commissioner Harry T. Hartwell, who were reputed to be friendly to Smith interests. There was, it was said, considerable interest in Mobile in the Mayor of New York, and a committee arranged to have him appear in the Saenger Theatre, the largest public place in the city.

The only way the theatre could be obtained, it was declared, was to give the public an opportunity to buy tickets to the performance at the theatre, and to Mr. Walker's address, at double prices.

Mayor Walker, it was also learned, did not know of this arrangement until today, but he did not object. He felt that if persons paid to hear him they were entitled to as good an address as he could make.

Further, he accepted the invitation to Mobile partly because William H. Todd, wealthy shipbuilder and a friend of Governor Smith, has a shipyard here. Frank J. Taylor, former Sheriff of Kings and now assistant to Mr. Todd, has been a member of the Mayor's party since Monday.

Walker Cancels Acceptance.

The Mayor was eager yesterday to appear in Mobile, but upon receipt this afternoon of a telegram from Mayor Schwarz stating that the committee had altered the plan for a public reception to one for a smaller affair in the Battle House and a private dinner, Mr. Walker changed his plans immediately.

Friends of Mayor Walker, it was said, learned over the telephone that the pro-Smith committee which had arranged the theatre reception had been "argued out of it" by persons unfriendly to Mr. Smith.

Moreover, it was asserted that Mr. Walker did not like the idea of appearing at a private reception when he had accepted an invitation to appear at a public one, and especially one for which tickets had been sold.

He did not like to disappoint those who had bought tickets. But he did not determine what to do, it was learned, until he found out how the plans came to be changed.

One of those who was reported to have been most active in persuading the original Walker Committee to change its plans was Frederick I. Thompson, Mobile newspaper publisher, one of the leading drys of the South, who has been unfriendly to Governor Smith.

Heflin Friends Seen in Move.

The Mayor, it was assumed, did not like the appearance of anti-Smith men using pressure on pro-Smith men to take him away from a reception planned by the latter.

EX-CONVICT ALSO WANTED

Governess, Buoyant on Day of Killing, Drew $9,000, Checked Trunks to California.

New York and New Jersey detectives were engaged last night in a search for a man who is believed to have drugged, robbed and burned to death Miss Margaret Brown, a governess, on Monday after leading her to believe that he was taking her to California on a wedding journey.

James Park Gillespie of 1,103 Park Avenue, near Eighty-ninth Street, who employed the woman as governess for his children, went to Police Headquarters yesterday with other members of his household to look through the Rogues' Gallery for the picture of a man calling himself "Dr." who used to meet Miss Brown in Central Park near the Gillespie home.

According to one account, they identified the man who induced the governess to take from her bank $8,000 in bonds and $1,000 in cash as a preparation for their trip to California. Later it was said that no positive identification had been made.

Had Already Checked Trunks.

Miss Brown told Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie that she was leaving them because she had a sister who was desperately ill in California, and that it was a matter of duty for her to go there at once. She packed up and checked her trunks for California. She went to a beauty parlor and had her hair, which was iron gray, waved. On Monday she took leave of her employers.

Miss Brown, who would have been 41 years old today, had worked as a governess in several well-known New York families, and her reputation had been irreproachable. She was described as quite attractive. She was a horseback rider and frequently rode in Central Park with one of the children of her employer. It was a chance meeting in Central Park which is believed to have led to the tragedy. It was known to members of the Gillespie household that she was occasionally in the company of a man there.

New Jersey detectives were searching yesterday for an ex-convict named Schwartzkopf who, it was hoped, might be able to throw some light on the case. Members of the New York homicide squad who began yesterday to dig into the mystery, asserted that they had not heard of Schwartzkopf in connection with the case.

Doubt Story of Sister.

There was some skepticism about the story of the sick sister, although Miss Brown was known to have a sister in California. The Gillespies wondered a little about the plans of the governess. In this state of mind they became interested at once in the story of the woman who had been burned to death in a wayside stand, near the highway, on the Morristown-Bernardsville road on Monday night. They recognized the description of the clothing, and on Tuesday night Mr. Gillespie reported his suspicions to the police of the 104th Street Station. Yesterday it was thoroughly established that the victim was Miss Brown. A brother and niece identified the burned body in Maxwell's Morgue at Somerville, N. J.

Neither the brother, Ferdinand Brown of 2,054 Fletcher Avenue, Fort Lee, N. J., nor his daughter, Mary, knew anything about the woman's proposed trip to California. She had taken pains to throw them off the trail. On Monday she visited her niece, Mary, at the latter's place of business and told her that she was starting on a Southern trip with the Gillespies. This was the first time since New Year's that she had called on any of her relatives.

The scheme of the man who wanted to rob her and kill her was seen yes-

FIGHT BY GOVERNOR LIKELY

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 22.—The Assembly Judiciary Committee, which in the past has put to death many important bills recommended by Governor Smith, is running true to form this year.

The committee today voted down the Governor's proposal which would double the term of Chief Executive from two to four years, with the elections held in the so-called off years; the Democratic measure providing for a constitutional reapportionment of the Legislature based on population, the Governor's proposal to compel candidates to file their election expenses before election, and that which would compel the submission of all amendments to the Federal Constitution to the voters of this State before they could be ratified by the Legislature.

In addition to sending the Governor's pet measures to their death, the committee voted down two bills which would have permitted women to serve on juries. The vote was 10 to 1, Assemblyman Hofstadter supporting the measures, one of which would have permitted women to serve if they desired, while the other made jury duty compulsory.

The committee also defeated measures asking Congress to call a national constitutional convention to repeal or modify the prohibition amendment, and imposing a State tax of $25,000,000 to enforce prohibition.

Opponents All Republicans.

All of the Governor's bills went down to defeat by a vote of 9 to 2, all Republicans voting against them. The two Democratic members of the committee present voted for the Governor's legislation. They were Assemblyman Cuvillier and Assemblyman Galgano of New York.

The committee's action in killing the Governor's four-year term proposal is expected to precipitate another fight between the Executive and the Republican leaders of the Legislature. In his annual message the Governor said he felt that the Legislature was morally bound to submit the four-year term proposal to the voters again, but with the provision that the election shall be held in the off years.

The Republican leaders have taken the position that because their own four-year term amendment, under which elections would have been held in Presidential years, was rejected by the voters last Fall by more than 700,000 majority, the people are opposed to any measure which would double the Governor's term.

It is expected that the Governor will send the Legislature a special message next week demanding that his four-year-term measure be passed. Republican leaders, however, have let it be known that they have made up their minds not to do anything about the four-year term and that they do not intend to change their position.

Sea Canal Bill Reported.

After the Judiciary Committee had put the Governor's bills to death, it voted to report a bill by Assemblyman Maurice Bloch, Democratic leader of the lower house, asking Congress to have the barge canal used as part of an all-American ship canal from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic.

The committee also reported a bill by Assemblyman Sargent, Republican of Syracuse, which would give a party's State committee, rather than the State convention, the right to determine the make-up of that committee. The purpose of the measure is to have each Assembly district represented on the State Committee of both major political parties by one man and one woman.

West Indies Liquor Trade Shows Big Drop Since Andrews's Deal to Curb Rum-Runners

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—That the British West Indies has been steadily decreasing in importance as source of supply for American rum-runners since the arrangement made in 1926 with the British Government by General Lincoln Andrews was indicated today by detailed figures on British liquor exports for 1927.

It is open for argument, however, whether Canada and other unspecified countries may not have replaced the West Indies, since exports to these designations increased.

Exports of spirits to the West Indies and British Guiana last year were valued at £304,656, compared with £388,208 in 1926 and £3,206,017 in 1925. Exports to Canada were £1,906,595 last year, compared with £1,307,240 in 1926 and £1,994,824 in 1925.

There is a legitimate reason why exports to Canada should increase, since that country, which at one time had large dry areas, has been adding one Province after another to the wet list. The effect of this is shown strikingly by the December export figures, which were £268,217, or more than twice as much as in 1926, when the amount was £104,854.

400 Customs Men Required To Handle Rush From 5 Liners

Four hundred customs officials, including appraisers, were required on the Chelsea piers yesterday to handle the rush of passengers on the five steamships which arrived yesterday forenoon. Since it was a holiday the steamships had to pay $12,000 overtime charges for the inspection of the baggage.

The two most important ships were the White Star liner Olympic and the French liner Paris, which left Cherbourg and Havre respectively on Feb. 15 and docked within an hour of each other.

There were about fifty buyers returning from Europe on each ship, which meant extra work for the customs men in going through the many trunks laden with the latest fashions from Paris, Vienna and London.

The Paris docked first and the buyers on board were elated at getting ahead of their rivals.

$1 DEGREE AN INNOVATION

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Official announcement was made tonight that the Ku Klux Klan had discarded the mask as a part of its official regalia.

A copyrighted statement issued at the organization's headquarters here asserted that "in every Klavern throughout the nation" tonight Klansmen "forswore the mask and made it clear that the order has no political ambitions for itself or for its members."

At the same time, the statement said, tonight's action was in preparation for "new and larger activities in our national life."

"That on and after midnight of February twenty-second, Year of Our Lord Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-eight, no mask or visor shall be upon the helmet of the regalia of any Klansman.

"It shall thereafter be unlawful for any Klansman to wear any mask or visor as part of his regalia, and each Klansman who shall be unavoidably absent from the meeting of a Klan to be held throughout the Invisible Empire on the twenty-second day of February shall, as soon thereafter as possible, attend a regular meeting of a Klan, and there become a member of the Knights of the Great Forest.

"That on and after the said date all Klansmen are forbidden to fraternize with, or remain in klannish fidelity to, any who shall thereafter wear upon his helmet a mask or visor."

New Dollar Down Degree.

Special to The New York Times.

BIRMINGHAM, Feb. 22.—The Alabama Ku Klux Klan discarded the mask tonight and accepted the new K trio, "dollar down" degree, latest invention of Hiram W. Evans, the Imperial Wizard.

With the mask went most of the secret and weird ceremonies of the order. But the membership roll is still held inviolate and the oath and ritual are supposed to be secret, but both the latter have fallen into the hand of "aliens," and probably will be revised.

Administration of a new degree takes little time. The master of ceremonies is the Exalted Cyclops and the password of the "dollar down" order is "patriotic service."

The K degree trio was invented because the Klan is powerful enough now to stand without the mask and is ready to show the world its "mighty purposes," it is declared.

Details of the Ritual.

The ritual of the degree, as administered in several Alabama Klaverns, is simple.

The applicant for the degree, after the meeting is called to order and the dollar is paid, pledges himself to

He Is Somersaulted With Car as It Hits a Wave and Flies 40 Feet Into Sea.

PINNED IN DRIVER'S SEAT

CROWD YELLED FOR 'ACTION'

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 22.—Frank Lockhart, American racing driver, was injured this afternoon while making a trial for a new world's automobile speed record when his small streamlined car swerved from the course as it entered the test mile at 225 miles an hour and, darting across the beach, plunged out into the ocean more than a hundred yards from shore.

He was pinned within the partially crushed machine, which was completely submerged in the water, and narrowly escaped drowning.

A bulletin was issued late tonight from the Halifax Hospital, where he was taken, saying that he had just been removed from the operating room and that he was suffering principally from shock. Three tendons in his left wrist had been severed and he had also sustained severe bruises and other cuts. He was conscious and able to talk to his wife and William F. Sturm, his personal representative.

Sturm said tonight that Lockhart ascribed his accident to low visibility caused by mist which overhung the beach racing course, but he explained that the driver's memory, due to shock, was still hazy.

Sturm added that Lockhart said his tachometer showed that he was traveling at from 225 to 230 miles an hour just before his spill.

15,000 See Plunge Into Sea.

Disaster came upon the youthful candidate for world's speed honors within sight of about 15,000 spectators, the contest officials and newspaper men.

The little white car with its bullet-shaped body was seen approaching the measured mile. The telephone messages reporting the approach of the car over the four-mile start had come in with startling rapidity, barely giving the announcer time to read the reports.

At the five-kilometer post the little car was seen to swerve sharply to the left toward the peopled dunes. As suddenly it swerved back to the right, toward the sea. Plunging bodily into the air in the manner of a leaping animal, it rushed toward the ocean and into the water.

When the car struck there was a wave a few feet deep. The machine sailed for forty feet the surface like a skipping stone, then rolled rapidly over several times before coming to a rest right side up in the breaking surf.

Conditions Were Against Run.

Lockhart's attempt to set a new record was made on a fast beach, but under adverse weather conditions. Occasional rains had fallen all afternoon. The sky was overcast and the beach was covered with mist that reduced visibility to less than one quarter of that of a fair day.

Sturm said tonight that the young driver, new to straightaway speed trials, although experienced on circular tracks, was moved by anxiety from the fact that the sanctioned meet was due to end tomorrow to make his disastrous attempt this afternoon. Contest officials of the American Automobile Association had decided last night that the meet, according to the arranged schedule, would end after Thursday's running.

Lockhart's manager said the accident might have been caused by the fact that the driver, not being able to see through the rain-spattered eye the brake, partly locking the wheels and thus causing a skid. He said: "Lockhart told me, 'I couldn't see where I was going. The next thing I knew I was in the water.'"

The telephone man at the five-kilometer post said the rear wheels appeared to lock.

The accident was witnessed by Governor John W. Martin and his wife, who had arrived here today to attend the annual George Washington's Birthday ball for the Governor tonight at Ormond. In his box were the Mayors of this city and neighboring municipalities.

Get Him Out With Drills.

By The Associated Press.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 22.—Frank Lockhart of Indianapolis, in his plunge into the sea in his Stutz Black Hawk Special, was pinned in the driver's seat of the machine by the steel frame of the side, which was stove in by the violent impact of the waves. The rescuers had to use drills to get him out.

Observers who rushed into the sea and pulled the wrecked machine back to the beach found Lockhart, helpless, but conscious, with water up to his neck. It was necessary for mechanics to cut away the side of the car to release him.

"I'm all right," was his only expression after he had been dragged from the water.

The racer's wife was among the crowd of several thousand persons who witnessed the accident and was one of the first to reach the water's edge. She fainted when she saw that he had been hurt and did not see him lapse into semi-consciousness as he was rushed away in an ambulance.

After two trips over the measured mile, up and down the beach, Lockhart was making the first run, northward. He had a start of several miles before entering the official stretch and was believed to have had his racer virtually wide open. Timers clocked him at the moment of the spill at 225 miles an hour.

Lockhart had decided against the speed attempt today after an earlier trial run had convinced him that weather conditions were unfavorable, but the crowd in the stands yelled so persistently for "action" that he finally reconsidered.

Driving to the far end of the course, the twenty-five-year-old speed king waited an hour for one of the showers that had fallen intermittently throughout the day to past. Finally the roar of his motor became audible long before a blurred streak came into view a half mile from the official starting point. The next thing the spectators knew the little machine had plunged into the ocean.

The same spectators a moment later scrambled and fought each other through the surf to be the first to reach the imprisoned driver. Again and again they were beaten back by the waves before a firm hold was taken on the little racing car and it was dragged with its pilot to safety.

May Have Hit Rough Spot.

Just what caused his machine to veer into the ocean was not immediately determined, but it was considered probable that a rough spot in the beach or any slight obstruction such as other drivers had encountered in previous tests was responsible.

To those who witnessed it Lockhart's escape alive was considered a marvel because of the double threat of instant death in the crash of the car and by drowning. The little car was dented and revealed a definite sag in the middle of the frame. The mechanics' first estimates of damage to it ran from "total wreck" to "not badly damaged."

Lockhart was the only American left in the running for a chance at the new record of 206.9 miles an hour set here Sunday by Captain Malcolm Campbell of England. Since neither he nor his machine will be in a condition to race again before the American Automobile Association's time limit expires tomorrow, the new mark thus will remain, for the time at least, in England, where the previous record of 208.7 miles an hour also was held, by Major H. O. D. Segrave.

J. M. White, Philadelphia manufacturer, who had entered his thirty-six-cylindered Triplex special in the speed event, was barred from competing by the American Automobile Association today because an auxiliary reverse gear installed in his machine did not meet the official body's standards. This will not prevent him from making an unofficial run against time, which he has announced he probably will essay.

Although the Philadelphian had taken steps to meet the specifications, Joe Dawson, Chairman of the association's Technical Committee, announced that the installation did not fulfill the requirement of a "motor-driven reversing mechanism."

Dawson pointed out that White had installed an electrically driven motor, the armature of which would reverse the machine by friction against two auxiliary wheels on the rear of the car, making it necessary to detach these wheels before the machine could run forward under its own motive power.

DEADLOCK INDICATED IN JAPANESE ELECTION

TOKIO, Feb. 23 (Thursday) (AP).—The two major parties of Japan appeared deadlocked as the last scattering returns from Monday's election trickled in today. Home Office figures, the only official ones obtainable, claimed a Seiyukai or Government Party victory by three seats, while vernacular papers declared it was anybody's race until the late vote had been counted.

With some returns from Kyushu, southernmost of the main islands of Japan, still unreceived, the vernacular papers generally stated that the result of the election was so close that either the Seiyukai or the opposition party, the Minseito, might win by one or two seats.

In either case it appeared certain today that the balance of power would rest with the 15 independents and proletarians whose election was shown by the returns.

The early lead of the Minseito, which had amounted to nearly a score of seats in the Diet, was wiped out by later returns from the rural districts, and the Seiyukai obtained a lead of ten seats. Later returns cut this and left the final result in doubt.

Although the electorate in this national election was enlarged for the first time from 3,000,000 taxpayers to nearly 12,000,000, whose sole essential qualifications were that they be sane Japanese males 25 years of age, the new voters fell easily into the old lines.

The new voters flocked to the polls in numbers that surprised observers (early estimates were that 75 per cent. voted), yet they changed the general situation in the Diet but little from its political complexion when Premier Tanaka dissolved it in January. The Government party apparently has gained a little strength over its chief opponent, but it must continue to rely upon the cooperation of the minor groups for a working majority.

longer than the stop at the station en route to Atlanta, his next stop, may be said, therefore, to have been caused by political manoeuvres of adherents in this State of Senator Heflin, Governor Smith's most vociferous opponent.

Immediately after cancellation of the Mobile appearance by the Mayor, his secretary, Charles S. Hand, sent a telegram to Hollins N. Randolph, Chairman of the Stone Mountain Memorial Committee of Atlanta and a delegate to the last National Democratic Convention, that he would spend all day tomorrow in Atlanta. This also was taken to indicate that official business was not the real reason for his not appearing in Mobile.

In New Orleans today the Mayor attended only an inspection of the Pontchartrain Bridge, a five-mile span across Lake Pontchartrain, which completes the link of the Colonial Highway between New York and New Orleans.

He received a gold pass entitling him to free use for life of this bridge, which makes the New Orleans-New York route a day shorter.

Mayor Arthur J. O'Keefe, Eli T. Watson, builder of the bridge, and Colonel James M. Thomson were among those who attended the ceremony.

SINCLAIR WILL FIGHT ON

He, the Burnses and Day Call Shadowing Sentences by Siddons Unjust.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Colonel Robert W. Stewart, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, has been notified to be present when the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia convenes tomorrow morning. A similar notification has been given David S. Barry, Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, who arrested Colonel Stewart two weeks ago, after he had refused to answer questions by the committee investigating the Continental Trading Company phase of the Teapot Dome Naval oil reserve case.

The day following his arrest, Colonel Stewart obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Justice Bailey which stayed his arraignment at the bar of the Senate. The Court has since heard arguments and considered briefs on that question of the right of the Senate to arrest Stewart. It is believed that Justice Bailey will render his decision tomorrow sustaining or vacating the writ. If he vacates the process it will mean that Colonel Stewart will be remanded to the custody of the Sergeant-at-Arms, followed immediately by his arraignment before the bar of the Senate.

Whether or not, in such an event, Colonel Stewart would then make a move to appeal from the lower to the Court of Appeals was a question that remained unanswered tonight.

In the case of Harry F. Sinclair, Henry Mason Day, William J. Burns and the latter's son, W. Sherman Burns, who were found guilty yesterday of contempt of the District Supreme Court as a result of the shadowing and investigating of members of the jury in the Fall-Sinclair criminal conspiracy case, the next move will be the filing of appeal papers in the District Court of Appeals.

Bankers Next to Be Heard.

The Senate Oil Inquiry Committee will resume its sessions tomorrow The witnesses subpoenaed are Graham Youngs, Treasurer of Blair & Co., New York; Robert Ray of the New York branch of the Dominion Bank of Canada and Harold W. Kennell, Secretary and Assistant Treasurer of the Hyva corporation, a company owned by the Sinclair family.

Defense Attacks Siddons Ruling.

H. F. Sinclair, Henry M. Day, W. J. Burns and W. Sherman Burns issued statements here last night attacking the decision of Justice Siddons of the District of Columbia Supreme Court finding them guilty of contempt in the shadowing of the Fall-Sinclair trial jury.

The Sinclair and Day statements were issued from the offices of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, 45 Nassau Street. Mr. Sinclair said:

"It is apparent that it is lawful for the Government to use its great Secret Service in shadowing juries, but unlawful for the citizen to exercise the same right. Heretofore no Court has held the mere act of jury-shadowing to be unlawful. It is conceded that no statute forbids it, and the repeated practice both by the Government and by defendants in courts all over the United States has given it the sanction of usage.

"It is impossible for me to understand why I should be held guilty of contempt when neither I nor any one acting for me came in contact with a single juror or did any act that produced upon the mind of a single juror the knowledge that he or she was being shadowed. Under these circumstances how could a juror be impeded in his functions as a juror?

"In striking contrast to what I, or those acting for me, did in this matter stand the brazen acts of the newspaper man, King, and the street car man, Ackers, who deliberately sought out one of the jurors, offered him whiskey and sought to induce him to talk in violation of the express orders of the Court.

"The acts of these men have been characterized as the rendition of patriotic service. My act is branded as contempt. I shall appeal at once from this decision to the higher courts. I have nothing more to say at this time."

Day Cites Federal Shadowing.

Mr. Day's statement was as follows:

"Justice Siddons has decided that the mere shadowing of a jury for the purpose of being assured that they were not influenced by unlawful contact with others is contempt of court and condemns us for this and nothing more. I did only what I know the Department of Justice and the United States Attorneys throughout the United States had been doing for fifty years.

"Every well-informed man in New York knows it has always been the practice of the Government of the United States in Federal courts in this city. The result of the Judge's opinion is to, in effect, convict every Attorney General of the United States, the head of the Department of Justice, as well as the United States District Attorneys throughout the land of contempt of court whenever and wherever they have done what I did and nothing more.

"It will be interesting to observe what jail sentence will be imposed upon the present or future Attorneys General for continuing the shadowing of jurors, for it is not conceivable that they will abandon their practice because of this decision for the reason that they would not have indulged in the universal practice unless they had been convinced of its legality."

Burns Defends Shadowing.

W. J. Burns said at his home in Scarborough:

"I think that the statement made by Justice Siddons in holding me guilty of contempt of court clearly indicates how unjustifiable was his decision, wherein he stated that although there was no evidence produced to show that I had participated in this matter or had any knowledge of same, still he could not bring himself to believe that because of my deep interest in the detective agency I did not know of this surveillance.

"This astonishing decision clearly indicates that I was not convicted because of any evidence produced but in the absence of evidence and on the personal opinion of the Judge.

"If I had been consulted concerning this employment I would have unhesitatingly advised the acceptance of same, for during my many years of service with the Government I knew of the unbroken practice of Attorney Generals and United States District Attorneys throughout the country of causing Federal juries to be placed under surveillance in precisely the same manner as was done by the Burns Agency in this case.

"I also knew that during this time it was the practice of defendants to have Federal juries shadowed by private detective agencies and the legality of all this has never been questioned.

"I ask the public to suspend judgment until this case can come before an unbiased and unprejudiced court."

Comment by Sherman Burns.

W. Sherman Burns, son of the founder of the detective agency, pleaded in behalf of his father in his statement, issued at the offices of the agency. It follows:

"The conviction of William J. Burns for contempt of court is outrageous.

"Judge Siddons, in announcing his decision, stated that although there was no evidence to indicate that William J. Burns knew of the shadowing of the jury, he had an interest in the welfare of the agency and he, Siddons, just couldn't believe Mr. Burns was not aware of the fact that the work was going on.

"Just imagine a decision such as that from one of our Judges on the bench! What becomes of our constitutional guarantee of presumption of innocence beyond a reasonable doubt?

"As for myself, I admitted shadowing the jury three months ago. I believed I had a right to do so and I still so believe. I have had the illustrious example of my Government before me in that respect. The Government has been shadowing juries for over thirty years that I know of.

"Of course, we were unfortunate in being tried before the Judge who made the mistake in the first instance of not locking the jury up, and he felt he had to justify his action; hence his decision.

"However, his decision does not make what we did unlawful, and all we request is that the public suspend judgment until the upper court has had an opportunity to pass on the legality of our act."

terday in the deceptions which Miss Brown had practiced on the Gillespies and on her relatives. It is believed that the criminal deliberately caused Miss Brown to tell these stories in order that neither the Gillespies nor her relatives would be surprised by her sudden disappearance. There is a sister named Amelia living in Pasadena, but the story of her extreme illness was apparently fictitious.

Her brother said last night that if his sister had a love affair he knew nothing of it.

Brother Had Warned Her.

"I used to warn her about the dangers to a woman living alone, and she would laugh at me," he said. "She thought I was severe in my views, and did not confide in me. I'm afraid that some sweet talker got hold of her. I hope they catch him."

Mr. Brown said that his sister was born at Buffalo on Feb. 23, 1867, and had been all her life in domestic service. At first she worked for families in Buffalo. When a very young woman she came to New York, where she worked as a governess and companion. She was well liked and found positions with well-known families. Nine months ago she entered the employ of the Gillespies. Previous to that she had been four years with the family of Irving L. Bloomingdale of Bloomingdale Brothers at 850 Park Avenue and had been to Europe four or five times with that family.

Miss Brown's relatives did not know that she had $8,000 in bonds, but did know that she was of "the saving kind," they told District Attorney Francis Bergen of Somerset County yesterday.

When she saw her niece on Monday morning Miss Brown carried a large black patent leather handbag. When she was found burning to death that night the leather bag was missing. It is believed to have contained the cash and securities. There is reason to believe, it was said at Police Headquarters yesterday, that the man who later murdered her had driven her to several places in New York in his blue sedan automobile before the fatal trip to New Jersey.

Miss Brown had no relatives or friends in Somerset County, where she was murdered. According to information furnished by Mr. Gillespie, the woman had checked her trunks for California, indicating that she planned to go by train. How she was induced to go on the automobile trip into New Jersey is unknown, but one theory is that the murderer had drugged her.

She Tried to Speak.

After she had been carried out of the burning roadside booth and taken to All Souls' Hospital, Somerville, she became conscious and sought to speak, but died before she could form any words. This proved that she was alive when kerosene was applied to her and the match touched. As she had not been bound or gagged, and as her head showed no evidence of blows which would have caused unconsciousness, Prosecutor Bergen accepted the theory that she had been drugged and ordered an analysis made. The report of this has not been received as yet.

Miss Brown had no hint of the tragedy that was facing her. She was in better than usual spirits on Monday morning, apparently finding it difficult to conceal the joy with which she looked forward to a wedding journey to California.

Was in Buoyant Spirits.

She was in buoyant spirits when she talked to her niece, Miss Mary Brown, and gave her $20 as a present to the latter's brother Lloyd Brown, who was in the hospital suffering from injuries inflicted by a stone crusher.

Mr. Gillespie was accompanied by Mrs. Miller, another domestic employed in his family, when he called at Police Headquarters yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Miller looked over a number of pictures in search of the man who had been seen in the company of Miss Brown.

County Detective Joseph Hanlon of Somerset County and Sergeant Carl Fuchs of the New Jersey State Police accompanied them to the Identification Bureau at Police Headquarters and left hurriedly, with several New York detectives, late in the afternoon. New York police officials declined to discuss the case.

CALLS S-4 INQUIRY BY COURT COMPLETE

Snell Says Naval Board Findings Make Congressional Step Unnecessary.

SAFETY FACTOR IS RAISED

McClintic Wants Action on This Point—Brumby to Be Called to Answer Court's Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—In the opinion of Chairman Snell of the House Rules Committee a Congressional investigation of the disaster to the S-4 is unnecessary in view of the report of the incident made by the Naval Court of Inquiry. Mr. Snell is a member of the Conference Committee now having under consideration the resolutions passed by the House and the Senate on the submarine situation.

Mr. Snell said today that he had read the Naval Court's report on the S-4 and regarded it as "fair and comprehensive."

The Court of Inquiry's report on the investigation of the sinking of the submarine S-4 did not touch on the subject uppermost in the minds of the American people, that of safety devices, Representative McClintic of Oklahoma, a Democratic member of the House Naval Committee, declared.

"The report," he asserted, "did not touch on the vital points of confidential information given me, and that is that the navy, or the Admiral in charge, had no right to have had the S-4 out making runs at this particular time, for the reason that the submarine already had made its required runs."

Brumby Due to Come From Colon.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP).—Rear Admiral Frank H. Brumby, commander of the Control Force of the Atlantic Fleet, is expected to be ordered tomorrow to return from Colon, Panama, to answer charges in connection with the submarine S-4 salvage operations before the reconvened Naval Court of Inquiry.

The Naval Court, in its findings made public last night, held that Admiral Brumby should be removed from command of the Control Force because he "failed to contribute that superior and intelligent guidance, force and sound judgment expected from an officer of his length of service, experience and position" in directing the rescue work on the S-4.

Secretary Wilbur has instructed the court to reconvene and give more definite reasons for the Brumby recommendation.

MRS. JONES ASSAILS REPORT.

S-4 Commander's Widow Calls It Unfair—Criticizes Wilbur.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 22.—The report of the Naval Court of Inquiry which placed the blame for the sinking of the submarine S-4 on the commanders of both the submarine and the destroyer Paulding, which rammed it, was scored today by Mrs. Roy K. Jones, widow of the commander of the submarine who lives near here. In part she said:

"Naturally, I think the decision was anything but fair.

"In a way, however, I was prepared for it, after I learned that Secretary Wilbur, in a speech before the inquiry started, said: 'All responsibility is up to the submarine, either in time of peace or in war.'

"I know in my heart that my husband was not to blame. He was experienced—had been five years in command of submarines. He had just completed Summer and Fall tests and was entirely capable.

"If he wasn't, then not a single man in the navy is fit to handle a submarine."

adhers to the Imperial Wizard's instructions concerning regalia of the Klan. After this the hood of the robe is cut from the applicant by the Cyclops.

The candidate pledges himself to be loyal to the United States and to strive for supremacy of the white race. In a dramatic manner the Catholic Church is injected into the ceremony. A man in the line, who has been initiated, says:

"My mother was a Catholic."

After a long argument he is admitted. This is the only place the Catholic Church is mentioned.

The entire ritual was printed in Birmingham newspapers before even the Cyclops knew what it contained. The move is considered by many as an attempt of the Klan to regain political power lost on account of floggings and other events.

Firm on Ousting Indiana Klan.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 22 (AP).—The fight to oust the Ku Klux Klan from Indiana will go on regardless of the reported reorganization and change of name of the secret order, Attorney General Gilliom said here today.

The Attorney General filed suit recently in a local court, seeking to have the Klan charter revoked and the organization placed in receivership.

Mr. Gilliom was in conference today with Hugh F. (Pat) Emmons, former Cyclops of the Klan, who in a deposition on Monday told a tale of alleged political intrigue involving the Klan and naming the Indiana Anti-Saloon League and horse thief detective associations.

"You haven't heard anything yet," Gilliom declared. "I shall continue to prosecute my case as long as the Klan holds its franchise to do business in Indiana."

UNMASKING RITES HERE.

The unmasking of members of the Major Emmet D. Smith Klan, No. 38, of Jamaica, Queens, took place last midnight at the Triangle Hall, Myrtle and Jamaica Avenues, Richmond Hill, Queens. More than 500 members of the Klan and a number of women gathered in the hall earlier in the evening, had dinner, sang hymns and watched a vaudeville performance, which consisted largely of the singing of songs praising the Ku Klux Klan.

Newspaper men were admitted to the hall during the early stages of the proceedings, but they were not permitted to go near or speak to those persons who occupied seats at the main table on a dais.

At 10 o'clock the newspaper men were asked to retire and were informed that they would be permitted to re-enter at midnight, when the unmasking ceremonies and the ritual attendant on the inception of the new order of the "Knights of the Great Forest" would be carried out.

According to men who said they were officials of the Klan the list of speakers included United States Senator Heflin, Judge Charles Orbison of Indiana, Grand Klokard or lecturer of the Klan; Lloyd Thompson, the New York State Kleagle; Walter Edenburg, Deputy Assistant Grand Kleagle of Houston, and Tex and Al Whitau, Exalted Cyclops of the local Klan.

The only one whom reporters were able to identify was Whitsu, none of the others except Senator Heflin, being known personally to the newspapermen present.

At midnight a guard at the door signaled to the newspaper men to re-enter. During their absence a platform had been placed at one side of the hall, and above this, a cross, picked out in red electric lights, blazed, while a smaller fiery cross was placed directly below the smaller one. Three masked and robed Klansmen stood in front of the platform. Twelve strokes were tolled on a bell and group of rangers advanced from the rear of the hall, carrying an American flag and the Klan banner.

The walked to a position in front of the platform, and then Orbison walked from the main table and ripped the mask off each of the hooded men announcing that from that time on the mask was to be discarded by Klansmen throughout the country. Thousands of Klansmen throughout the country, he said, were discarding their masks at this time.

As a prelude to the day's activities of the Klan, four members of the order appeared at sunrise yesterday at the Sailors' and Soldiers' monument at Hillside Avenue and Merrick Boulevard, Jamaica, Queens, and raised an American flag on the flagstaff. They said they were delegates from Klan 38.

A fiery cross about nine feet in height was burned on the railing of the New York Central Railroad tracks at Bronxville early this morning. The cross was tied to the railing directly opposite the police station and the flames attracted a number of persons. It was extinguished by the police.

At Mount Kisco, Pleasantville and Chappaqua fiery crosses were burned in outlying sections of the towns shortly after midnight.

SOCIALISTS HERE PLAN FOR FALL CAMPAIGN

The Committee of One Hundred, known as the "Action Committee" of the Socialist Party of New York, formulated plans yesterday for active participation in the Presidential election of 1928 and laid a foundation for what officials of the committee termed the "turning point" in the history of the Socialist Party.

Several working committees for the year's program, including an executive committee with Morris Hillquit as Chairman, were elected to formulate definite plans for an overthrow of the Republican and Democratic Parties.

"This meeting will assume historic proportions for the Socialist Party," Mr. Hillquit said. "Through the movements which we are initiating to-day we will once again make Socialism a political power in the United States. The time is now ripe for a revolt against the two old parties."

Mr. Hillquit in opening the meeting said the "impotence" of the Democratic and Republican Parties was to be blamed for "the bursting of the prosperity bubble with resultant widespread unemployment."

Following election of the Executive Committee a representative of Il Nuovo Mondo addressed the members with a request for financial assistance for the publication, which he said had declined in recent years due to the "contrary influence of Premier Mussolini and the activities of the Fascisti of Italy and the United States." The paper had dwindled in size and resources due to the active efforts of anti-radicals to keep advertising from its columns, it was said. The request was tabled and referred to the Executive Committee for action.

This committee will meet at 10:30 A. M. Saturday at the home of Norman Thomas, 206 East Eighteenth Street.

The subcommittees formed yesterday and the Chairmen elected to head them are: Committee on Trades Unions, Abraham I. Shiplicoff; Committee on Fraternal Organizations, Joseph Weinberg; Committee on Individual Contributions, B. C. Bladeck; Entertainment, G. August Gerber; Public Meetings, Louis Waldman; Publicity, Dr. Norman Thomas; Membership and Organization, former Municipal Court Justice Jacob Panken.

TWO BROOKLYN YOUTHS HELD IN CHERBOURG

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—Two Brooklyn youths, Charles C. Gall and Clarence Carlson, after touring to Paris upon $20 between them, spent tonight in Cherbourg jail when they were caught by the authorities trying to slip aboard the liner Berengaria, homeward bound.

The boys had neither passports nor funds with which to buy tickets. According to their story they came across as stowaways on the Ausonia, which left New York on Feb. 4. They were discovered and arrested by the ship's officers but when the liner touched at Havre they succeeded in escaping ashore by sliding down a line thrown over from the ship's bows.

"Then," they said, "we beat our way to Paris on the railroad, and had been there ever since. We had a fine time."

The consular authorities are investigating the case. Both boys gave their age as 20. Gall said his address was 237 Ninety-first Street and Carlson said he lived at 702 Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn.

MECHANICAL MAN DOESN'T MISS A CUE

FLUTE HIS MASTER'S VOICE

Televox, the mechanical man, stood alone on the dais last night in the auditorium of the Level Club, 253 West Seventy-third Street. It was his first experience at a dinner and his immediate jobs were to run a vacuum cleaner, start an electric fan, light a few lights and pull the American flag shroud from the picture of George Washington in his Masonic costume. His bright little eyes gleamed at the six or seven hundred guests, and the five green lights on his chest—creme de menthe color, they were—showed that his heart was in the wrong place, being on the right side. Yet for all his queer appearance, this mechanical man was bound that he was going to do nothing wrong. He had performed satisfactorily at a rehearsal on Tuesday and he wasn't going to fail now.

And he didn't. When Peter Schmuck, Sublime Leveler of the Level Club of the National Masonic League, blew a certain note on a flute into a telephone, Captain Televox pulled the cord that unveiled George Washington. R. J. Wensley, an engineer of the Westinghouse company, who invented the robot, performed like a virtuoso on the mechanical man. Using different series of notes on a flute, he caused Televox to start the vacuum cleaner, the electric fan and turn on electric lights. The notes traveled through a telephone wire to the left arm of Televox, and from then on the scientific magic brought forth fruit in the form of action. Mr. Wensley humorously denied that he had any rabbits up his sleeve or any invisible aides concealed inside of Televox's battleship-gray form.

Mr. Wensley said he foresaw the day when the housewife would bless Mr. Televox. He envisaged the woman away from home calling up her mechanical man over the telephone and telling him to shut the windows and keep out the rain. He intimated that a mechanical man could be used to throw out that first baseball at the Yankee Stadium in the Spring.

Theodore F. Kuper, Past Master of Garfield Lodge, introduced Mr. Wensley and Televox to the audience and to Judge Schmuck. He recalled that George Washington was a Mason. Mr. Wensley recalled that George Washington was also an engineer.

GUARDS WATCH HOMES OF CHICAGO CITY HEADS

To Prevent Bombings, Police Protect Thompson and Aides, but Lack Clues.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22 (AP).—Adherents of the political faction headed by Mayor William Hale Thompson and Robert E. Crowe, State's Attorney, were described in news stories tonight as terror-stricken, with armed guards flanked about their homes, not knowing who would be next on the bombing list.

Frank J. Loesch, head of the Chicago Crime Commission, conferred with Police Commissioner Michael Hughes, and reported the Police Department head had admitted "the police are without 'clues'; we don't know where to start."

Among the homes under police guard tonight were those of Mayor Thompson, State's Attorney Crowe, Charles C. Fitzmorris, City Controller; Commissioner Hughes, Bernard F. Barasa, former Municipal Judge Daniel A. Serritella, City Sealer, and Dr. William H. Reid.

The homes of Fitzmorris and Dr. Reid were the first of the residences of Thompson Administration men to be bombed. Then followed an attack upon the undertaking establishment over which resides Municipal Judge John S. Barbaro, formerly an assistant to Mr. Crowe, and an attack upon an apartment house in which resides Lawrence Cuneo, brother-in-law and secretary to Mr. Crowe.

Mr. Loesch said he had suggested to Commissioner Hughes that protected gambling might be at the bottom of the bombings.

"Scarface Al" Capone was reported to have returned to Chicago a week ago and since then to have been the object of a concentrated police search.

NEED MILLION MORE FOR STATE BUILDING

FOUNDATION $425,000 EXTRA

Fiscal Leaders Confer With Governor on Way to Meet Unlooked For Situation.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 22.—With the cornerstone of the State's new office building here to be laid by Governor Smith Tuesday and the invitations already in the hands of the guests, the Governor has just learned that the thirty-two story structure, before completed will cost at least $1,100,000 in excess of the original estimate furnished by the State Architect.

Of this amount $425,000 was "borrowed" from funds set aside for construction work above ground, to complete the foundation after the contractor had encountered unlooked for difficulties growing out of the peculiar clay formation on Capitol Hill.

But the remainder, from $600,000 to $700,000 as nearly as the State Superintendent of Public Works, Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, can make an estimate, is regarded as due to an error in the estimate of what it would cost to complete the structure. An allocation of $2,500,000 has been made by the Legislature for the building out of this year's allotment of the $100,000,000 bond issue for permanent public improvements.

Colonel Greene today sent William E. Haugard, the newly appointed State Architect, to New York City to have estimators go over the specifications and furnish an exact estimate of what it will cost to complete the building.

Governor Smith got his first information that the $2,500,000 would not be sufficient on Monday when he had summoned Senator Charles J. Hewitt and Assemblyman Eberly Hutchinson, fiscal leaders of the Legislature, to the Executive chamber to talk over financial matters.

The Governor told the two Republicans that there was a $462,000 balance of bond money left over as a result of the low figure of a contract for the State office building in New York City and economies effected on some other public improvement. The Governor told them that he would like to see that money applied to the purchase of the old Albany Academy building on Capitol Hill for $350,000, and suggested that the rest could be devoted with advantage to park development on Long Island.

Senator Hewitt told the Governor that the money would be needed to put the "borrowed" $425,000 back for above ground construction, if the building was to be completed.

Colonel Greene, over the telephone, confirmed the statement made by Senator Hewitt, and added:

"It looks as if we would need some $700,000 of new money to finish the job."

It developed that the calculation of cost for the interior of the building and its fittings had probably been made on a cubage basis without taking consideration of certain costly units of equipment. But Colonel Greene said that until he had checked more carefully on an itemized unit cost basis, the error would remain a puzzle to him. He was unwilling to place responsibility on the retired State Architect.

The legislative leaders have given Colonel Greene two days in which to furnish them with a new estimate. If they remain in their present frame of mind, they will not withhold the necessary funds to complete the building without undue delay.

The original estimate on the cost of the building was $6,100,000.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 22.—The heavy demand for tickets to the public hearing next Wednesday at which Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh will speak in behalf of pending aviation legislation has caused those in charge to forbid any distribution to the general public. The 201 legislators will get the bulk of the admission cards and consequently are likely to have the bombardment of requests shifted to themselves.

Announcement of this arrangement was made on the floor of both houses today by Senator J. Griswold Webb of Dutchess County and Assemblyman Herbert B. Shonk of Westchester, who are handling the aviation bills.

Four hundred State troopers, they said, would be on hand to guard Colonel Lindbergh, 200 at the landing field and 100 around the Capitol. The Assembly chamber, where the hearing will be staged, will hold from 1,500 to 1,600 people. All of them must have admission cards and those without cards may be banned from any part of the Capitol.

Colonel Lindbergh is expected to arrive at the Albany airport at 12:30 P. M., where he will be met by Mayor John Boyd Thacher and escorted to the capitol to be greeted by the Governor before he goes to the hearing.

Senator Webb this afternoon telegraphed to Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, the aviator's mother, asking her to stop at Albany and join her son at the hearing.

HOUSE GETS TWO BILLS TO HONOR LINDBERGH

Kvale Measures Would Provide $500,000 Medal Issue and Book for Schools.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Coincident with the introduction in the House today of a bill by Representative O. J. Kvale of Minnesota to authorize publication of documents narrating the achievements of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh for distribution among educational institutions, the Coinage, Weights and Measures Committee reported the Kvale bill to authorize the minting of gold medals and the purchase of the Lindbergh homestead at Little Falls, Minn., as a means of commemorating the air exploits of the "Lone Eagle."

The documents Mr. Kvale would print under his bill would contain a brief biographical sketch of Colonel Lindbergh and such other educational matter as may be deemed appropriate." The bill introduced today provides that a copy of each Lindbergh document shall be distributed to every public and private school, college and university in the United States and its possessions.

The other Kvale bill reported today provides for the issue of 10,000,000 medals, the proceeds to be used to raise money with which to buy the Lindbergh home and establish it as a museum for the deposit of the "Lone Eagle's" trophies. The proposed issue of medals has been approved by Secretary Mellon.

HITS POLICE RETIREMENT.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 22.—The practice of New York City police officials who have been retired on a pension at a good salary, and who then move to near-by counties such as Westchester and Nassau and become Deputy Sheriff or Chief of Police, was denounced today in the Assembly by Assemblyman Cuvillier.

A bill which would give the Chief of Police of Nassau County broader power was under discussion when Mr. Cuvillier brought up the retirement question.

"The people of New York City," said Mr. Cuvillier "are getting tired of paying some of their retired police officials a good salary and then find out that they have moved to some near-by county where they are acting as police chiefs, sheriffs or in some other capacity.

"Take the case of former Inspector Underwood. He was retired at a salary of $6,000. He always was a good Tammany Democrat while he was on the New York police force, but when he moved to Westchester County he became a Republican and now he is the Sheriff of that county, receiving a salary of $16,000."

Washington Day in Budapest.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WILLIS OPENS RACE FOR OHIO SUPPORT

Senator Declares His Opposition to 'International-Mindedness' in Foreign Policy.

HITS LEAGUE OF NATIONS

And Says American People Will Not Consent to Any War-Debt Cancellations.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Feb. 22.—Senator Frank B. Willis today opened his campaign to win support of his own State for the Republican nomination for President. He spent the day in conference with Republican leaders of northeast Ohio and this evening he delivered a radio address following a dinner tendered him by the Union League Club, the American Legion and alumni of Ohio Northern University at Ada, where he was once Dean of the law school.

"We want no international-mindedness in the shaping of American foreign policy. We want loyal American-mindedness, tempered with a disposition to be helpful and merciful to all foreign nations so far as this can be consistent with justice to our own people.

"The year 1918 was an exceedingly important year in the maintenance of American foreign policy. Many powerful leaders urged at that time that immediate entrance into the League of Nations, without reservation, should be had. It is most fortunate that that advice was not followed, and it would be unsafe to turn the destinies of the country over into the hands of those who gave such advice and entertained such ideas.

"Our people, though descended from various nationalities, have a permanent and regnant interest in the development of our own country. This is not a narrow, selfish view. It is predicated upon the idea that if a nation does not take care of itself, no other nation is likely to do so. It does not mean that America is unwilling to aid other nations. Our sacrifices in the World War, our contributions in men and money prove that the United States is unselfish.

"Furthermore, the generous terms of the debt settlements, some think too generous, are further demonstrations of the attitude of the American people. However, we have gone as far as we shall go, and as far as we ought to go. The clamor for modification of the debt settlements, and in some instances for final cancellation of the debt, will not be favorably received by the American people. These debts are just and honest. The settlements made are more than generous.

"Further reduction of the foreign debt, or cancellation of it, would be a crime against the American taxpayer not to be tolerated."

GAUGE HOOVER BACKING HERE

Although it had been expected that Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover would remain in New York over yesterday to confer with his political managers, Mr. Hoover changed his mind and returned to Washington Tuesday night.

His personal representative, George Akerson, conferred with the New York State Hoover leaders yesterday, however, and was reported well satisfied with the Hoover-for-President movement here. Mr. Akerson, who was formerly Mr. Hoover's private secretary and before that a Washington political writer, spent most of the day going over the situation with former Representative William H. Hill of Binghamton, head of the Hoover organization in the State.

Mr. Hoover was said to have gone back to the capital convinced that the situation in New York was all that could be expected, in view of the opposition of State Chairman George K. Morris and National Committeeman Charles D. Hilles to organization support of any candidate.

It is understood the Hoover leaders had declared that a goodly bloc of New York's ninety delegates would be for Hoover from the first, and that among the unpledged organization delegates he would have many friends who would swing to him at the first opportunity.

The Hoover organization claims practically all of northern and western New York and the southern tier. Little support is expected in the Hudson River counties or in New York City, and that part of the organization which is best controlled by the State Chairman and national committeeman is in these counties.

C. C. Hamlin, editor of The Colorado Springs Gazette, returning from a West Indies cruise on the Anchor liner California yesterday, expressed the belief that Secretary Hoover not only would receive the Republican nomination but would be elected. Mr. Hamlin is a Colorado Republican National Committeeman and he was confident that the Colorado delegation at the convention "will be for Hoover."

MORRIS ASKS HARMONY AND BIG VOTE UP-STATE

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 22.—A plea for action to assure a full Republican vote outside New York City in the national election was voiced here today by George K. Morris, Republican State Chairman, in an address before the Martha Washington Republican Women's Club. He declared that a Republican majority of 500,000 can be rolled up through united efforts.

"We must not enter the campaign with the words up-State or down-State in our minds," Mr. Morris said. "This is no year for personal jealousies or personal ambitions of any kind. The results are far too important to be endangered by those who would put personal ambitions above party harmony."

Adhering to his previously announced policy, Mr. Morris declared himself in favor of an uninstructed delegation from New York.

"It is too early just now to commit one's self to any candidate," he declared. "As far as those already in the field are concerned, Herbert Hoover is a good man. So is Frank Lowden of Illinois. So are the other men, but I wouldn't advocate tying to any particular candidate right now. It's better to wait and see how things shape up.

"We can defeat any candidate the Democrats put up," Mr. Morris added, "and that goes for Al Smith."

Governor Smith's program of bond issues was criticised by State Senator Seabury C. Mastick of Westchester, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment.

SOUTH DAKOTA VICTORY SEEN BY SMITH MEN

County Proposal Conventions Are Said to Insure New Yorker the State's Endorsement.

PIERRE, S. D., Feb. 22 (AP).—South Dakota's political pot came to a boil today with the compilation of lists of State Proposal Men chosen by Republicans, Democrats and Farmer-Laborites in yesterday's county conventions.

Meeting in separate State Conventions here March 6, the proposal men will endorse Presidential candidates, select State nominees and formulate a platform.

Most positive of the several claims evoked by the action of the county conventions was the assertion by the "Smith for President" Committee that the New York Governor was assured the Democratic Presidential endorsement in South Dakota.

Holton Davenport of Sioux Falls, State Chairman of the Smith committee, said the New York man would have "at least 50,000 of the 95,000 votes" represented in the State Convention. No counter-claims from Smith opponents were available tonight.

URGE WELFARE LAW CHANGE

Fifty Social Workers Back Bill Relating to Poorhouses.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 22.—Homer Folks, President of the State Charities Aid Association, headed a delegation of fifty social workers who appeared today at a public hearing before the Senate General Laws and Assembly Internal Affairs Committees to urge the passage of the Fearon Public Welfare law reorganizing the system for caring for the poor throughout the State.

The bill would abolish the office of town Overseer of the Poor and substitute county for town organization, providing a Welfare Commissioner and assistants in each county.

Defending a section of the bill which would permit the State Board of Charities to condemn and close a poorhouse, Mr. Folks disclosed that a serious condition existed in some of the institutions. Proceedings in Sullivan and Putnam Counties had been instituted against buildings under the present law, he said, but the process was too slow.

Walter Caughlan, New York City, Assistant Corporation Counsel, said that the city was still opposed to some features which would be pointed out in a memorandum later.

NIGHT SCHOOL BILLS LOSE.

Assembly Committee Defeats Measures Educators Protested.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 22.—Six bills which would have permitted pupils to attend evening schools in place of part time or continuation day schools today were defeated in the Assembly Education Committee.

At a recent hearing on these measures Dr. Frank P. Graves, State Commissioner of Education, and educators from all parts of the State voiced strong protest against them. Dr. Graves, in a brief filed with the committee, declared that passage of the measures would virtually mean the end of the continuation schools.

The Education Committee postponed action on a bill which would fix the age limit at which boys and girls must attend the continuation schools at 16 instead of 18.

Advocates of reducing the age limit have pointed out that there have been cases where a youth of 17, although married, was forced to attend the continuation schools.

CEMETERY LAW ADVOCATED.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 22.—To preserve the sanctity of orthodox Jewish burials, Senator A. Spencer Feld and Assemblyman Harry A. Samberg, Democrats, of New York City, announced today that they would introduce a bill banning a requirement which is in force or under consideration by certain cemetery authorities.

The measure would prevent such authorities from demanding that they receive twenty-four-hour notice of a burial so that they may have latitude in preparing a grave. The legislators point out that an orthodox burial must be made within twenty-four hours after death. They are confident that the cemetery employes can act more quickly than the requirement in the rules would indicate.

REED URGES UNITY IN KANSAS SPEECH

Assails Those Who Favor Controversial Planks, but Mentions No Specific Issue.

ATTACKS COOLIDGE REGIME

He Tells Democrats at Topeka That Honesty Must Be Restored at Washington.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 22 (AP).—Democratic leaders who insist upon platform planks on which the party is divided were bitterly assailed tonight by Senator Reed of Missouri before a State-wide rally of Democrats.

Without mentioning names or the issues to which he referred, the militant Missourian declared that the "man who seeks to divide the party to force into the platform issues upon which there is great division, is the best assistant the Republican Party can have.

"The efforts to coddle and attract all sorts, classes and opinions have alienated the votes of thousands who would willingly give loyal adherence to the great principle for which we stand," he said.

Since opening his Western campaign, Senator Reed has said off the platform that he believed the party has "bigger fish to fry than prohibition," and again tonight he declared the issue, in his opinion, was "purging of the public business; the cleansing of the departments; the expulsion of the sinister lobby and the restoration of honesty and decency at the Capitol."

"That is the crying need of the hour," he shouted. "That work can only be done by the Democratic Party. When that task is accomplished, it will be time to debate and divide upon other questions.

"Without hesitation I declare that the strata of the Republican Party which has for the past eight years controlled the Government is the most corrupt, the most venal and the most vicious body of men by which this nation has ever been afflicted."

Denouncing the "light terms" allowed this country's war debtors, Senator Reed called attention that France had not agreed yet to any settlement of its debt. He was cheered as he said: "She will pay it if we have an American President some day."

Senator Reed's visit here coincided with the meeting of the Kansas Democratic Club and most of the party leaders were on hand. A host of Democrats and friends from his home town, Kansas City, Mo., as well as from Kansas City, Kan., brought him here on a special train from his home, which he reached in time for breakfast today after an over night trip from Tulsa, Okla.

ENTERS JERSEY RACE AS A 'WRINGING WET'

E. W. Gray Is Fifth Candidate for Republican Nomination as United States Senator.

Edward W. Gray, a former Representative in Congress from Newark, said yesterday that he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator from New Jersey. He said he would make formal announcement of his candidacy during the week and added that his platform, in the event that he is nominated, would be "wringing wet."

Mr. Gray is the fifth Republican candidate to enter the contest for the Senatorship. The others are former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former Governor Edward C. Stokes, Hamilton F. Kean, former National Committeeman, and Mrs. Lillian F. Feickert, who is an outstanding dry.

Discussing his forthcoming announcement, Mr. Gray said:

"There are 75,000 wet Republicans in New Jersey who never have had an opportunity to vote on the prohibition question in connection with the election of a Republican Senator in this State. I believe that if these Republicans are given an opportunity to vote for an out-and-out wet candidate they will bring victory at the polls. My platform will be based on a demand for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and, should I obtain the Republican nomination, I feel certain of election."

PINCHOT DECLINES TO RUN.

Eliminates Himself as Possible Candidate for Senator Reed's Seat.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22.—A second prospective Republican challenger for the Senate seat held by David A. Reed eliminated himself from the primary campaign today when former Governor Pinchot, in a letter to one of his lieutenants in Harrisburg, declared he had reached the conclusion that "the general situation makes my candidacy at this time unwise."

Leaders of the Vare machine in Philadelphia, the Mellon organization in Pittsburgh and lesser Republican factions are preparing for a now anticipated battle between Senator Reed and Representative John M. Morin.

continued, "then the responsibility resting upon the Republicans in New Jersey and New York is especially heavy. We cannot afford to play with fire or blindly to overlook the most significant manifestations of public opinion. The voters next November will not be particularly influenced by the formal, unctuous and pussy-footing declarations of party platforms.

"They will be much more likely to ask what sort of man is your candidate and where does he stand on the things that we are interested in, namely, the prohibition problem, the protection of the peace of the world, the relief on sound economic grounds of the agricultural situation, the protection of the dwellers in the lower Mississippi Valley against the destructive floods, the supervision in the public interest of the nation's remaining natural resources, and finally support of those policies identified with the name of President Coolidge, of economy in the conduct of the public business and of resistance to the tendency to build up a huge and highly centralized governmental bureaucracy at Washington."

The meeting was held at People's Palace, Jersey City, and was under the auspices of the Hudson County Republican Committee. About 500 persons attended.

REPUBLICANS KILL 4 SMITH MEASURES

Judiciary Committee, the term of election commissioners would be increased from two to four years. The measure was sponsored by Assemblyman Cooke, Republican of Erie. A bill by Assemblyman Alterman, Democrat of New York City, which would require lights in the halls of all buildings more than three stories high, was favorably reported.

A bill by Assemblyman Saul Streit, Democrat of New York City, providing for the establishment of Summer vacation camps for poor children by County Welfare Boards, was favorably reported by the Judiciary Committee.

Two bills urged by the Baumes Crime Commission were voted down. One would permit a defendant in a criminal case to waive a trial by jury, unless he was charged with murder. The other would require that every Justice of the Peace be a lawyer.

A bill by Assemblyman Cuvillier which would give disabled World War veterans preference in the taking of Civil Service examinations, was favorably reported. The world war bine in the Legislature recently voted to support this proposal on the floor of the Legislature.

FOR WATER POWER VOTE.

Democrats to Demand Referendum on Smith Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 22.—Democratic leaders will soon introduce a bill in the Legislature proposing a referendum this Fall to ascertain whether the voters prefer Governor Smith's proposal to have the State's vast hydroelectric power resources developed by the State through a power authority or if they favor the Republican plan of private development under State regulation.

The proposal, which is identical with one which was rejected at the last session by the Republican legislative leaders, will be sponsored by Senator Bernard Downing and Assemblyman Maurice Bloch.

Unless the Republican leaders have a change of heart during the few remaining weeks of the session there is little chance that the Democratic referendum proposal will receive any more consideration than it did last year.

Under a bill which is being drafted by Assemblyman John Boyle, Republican of Suffolk, the stock transfer tax will be increased from 2 cents to 4 cents on every 100 worth of stock. Under the present tax the State, during the last few years, has been reaping a yearly revenue of about $15,000,000. The bill proposed by Mr. Boyle would double the State's revenue from this source.

Enactment of the bill, according to Assemblyman Boyle, would pave the way for the abolition of the direct property tax, the present rate of which is one mill. It is understood some of the Republican leaders have intimated the bill might receive their support.

The Assembly Codes Committee today favorably reported three of the bills sponsored by the Baumes Crime Commission. Two of the measures are the so-called fence bills. The other crime bills reported to the lower house would permit a District Attorney to comment to a jury on the failure of a defendant to take the stand in his own defense.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN REVIEWED BY SMITH

IS BOOMED FOR PRESIDENT

King's County volunteer firemen to the number of 3,000, four of them more than ninety years old and five more than eighty, and big delegations of firemen from Wilmington (Del.), Newcastle (Pa.) and Philadelphia, were reviewed yesterday by a visiting fireman, Alfred E. Smith. The Governor, a member of Hook and Ladder 1 of North Greece, N. Y., wore his fireman's hat as he watched the thirty-seventh annual parade of the county association from a stand in front of Borough Hall.

Red shirts, highly polished helmets and shining fire trumpets made a brilliant spectacle. Nassau County exhibited its new motorized apparatus. Other companies drew with pride the ancient hand trucks and other primitive vehicles with which their sires fought conflagrations half a century ago.

Sixteen bands along the line of march stirred the paraders with martial ardor, all playing "The Sidewalks of New York" as they passed the reviewing stand.

Behind the Governor was a banner bearing the words, "For President, Alfred E. Smith." Every speaker at the luncheon which followed the parade asked him to be the next President.

Refuses to Talk Politics.

William H. Todd, Honorary Deputy Chief of the association, was Honorary Grand Marshal and his aides were Honorary Battalion Chiefs Edward J. and William F. Kenny. John H. Conk was Grand Marshal.

The nine volunteer firemen who had passed their eightieth year were on hand when the Marshal assembled the vanguard at Henry and Pierrepont Streets at 11 o'clock. They were Joseph J. Early, 96, of the Harry Howard truck; William H. Vance, 92, of Hose No. 20; Bartley Flanagan, 96, of Engine No. 19; George Tilt, 92; James Shannon, 81, of Engine No. 2; Edward Bassett, 84, of Hose No. 8; George W. Collier, 87, of Engine No. 29; William A. Wellwood, 82, of Engine No. 14, and Thomas Lavin, 85, of Engine No. 4.

Led by the New York Fire Department Band and mounted police, Fire Commissioner Dorman stepped off first. With him were Chief William Lutz of Wilmington, Del., and Alfred Steers, George W. Rhodebeck, John P. Kelly, Peter Fortmyer, Edward Dittich, John J. Barling, William A. Halloran and Ambrose P. Rikeman, who were special aides.

Prominent places were given to the 100 men and twenty-five women in the Wilmington delegation, to the Philadelphia volunteers, headed by Ross Davis, chief engineer of the Philadelphia Fire Department, and to the Newcastle firefighters. Among the Long Island fire departments represented were Long Beach, Freeport and Lindenhurst

Nassau County City Urged.

Governor Smith spoke briefly at the annual luncheon of the firemen held in the Hotel Bossert after the parade. Using the organization of fire departments as a standard of measurement, he said that Nassau County would have to become a city within a few years because government in the small towns and villages of the county was cumbersome and expensive.

Reviewing his own relations with fire-fighters, the Governor recalled that as a small boy he had been a "buff" on Engine 32 in John Street, Manhattan. Through training his memory so that he could call the location of a fire as soon as the alarm came in, he said he was allowed to ride on the engine, while "the other kids had to ride on the hose cart." He told Fire Commissioner Dorman that the fire department lost much of its romance when the horses were withdrawn from service.

Justice Lazansky of the Appellate Division in Brooklyn and Supreme Court Justices Callaghan, Byrne and Hagarty, the other speakers at the luncheon, expressed the hope that Governor Smith might be the next President.

350 NEWSBOYS GREET SMITH.

Governor at Dinner Advises Them Not to Waste Their Youth.

Governor Smith made his annual Washington's Birthday visit to the Brace Memorial Newsboys' House, 344 William Street, yesterday afternoon. As he passed down an aisle between two rows of tables, where newsboys were waiting to eat a dinner in memory of Randolph and Eliza Guggenheimer, he was forced to shake so many young hands that he used both his right and his left to make his progress swifter. "East Side, West Side, All Around the Town," hawled 350 young throats at the Governor.

The newsboys had waited more than two hours for the Governor to appear. They had heard other speakers, they had listened to songs and watched entertainment, and they had played furtively with the biscuits on their plates, which they were not supposed to eat until the Washington's Birthday celebration was over. They showed some enthusiasm, but it was nothing to the demonstration which greeted their old friend from Oliver Street.

Before the Governor had left he had been made an honorary member of the Frank J. Gardella Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. Quartermaster Stephen C. Parker read the ritual and the newsboys watched the Governor as he swore to "bear true allegiance to the Government of the United States of America."

Newsboy Introduces Him.

Michael Severino, a newsboy no bigger than General Tom Thumb, introduced the Governor. "Meet a man," he trebled into the microphone, "who stands four-square to all the winds that blow, our Governor, Al Smith." The youngsters out in front ceased crumbling their biscuits, stopped fencing with their table knives, and turned to listen.

"Sure it's my old district," the Governor said, "I was born about five blocks from here. That was in 1873 —figure it up.

"There's been quite a change come over the city since then," he went on, "but boys are pretty nearly the same as they were in my time."

The Governor told his young friends not to waste any time during their youth. "Your country," he said, "offers you the greatest opportunity. There is no limitation placed upon you. You can aspire to any position you make up your mind to attain."

Then, shifting from advice to remembered days in Park Row, the Governor said that when he was a newsboy the cry was:

"Daily News, Post and World, Sun, Commercial, Mail and Express."

He gave it the newsboy twang, and the youngsters laughed and said he was pretty good at it. He told the boys that Henry George's single tax paper, The Leader, was sold to newsboys for two for a cent. "I could only find one customer," he said, "so I took the other copy home to my mother."

Better Chance Than a Prince.'

The address of welcome was made by Antonio Dinero, a fourteen-year-old Demosthenes. Representative LaGuardia told the juvenile audience that the "prospects for a newsboy in America are better than those of a crown prince in Europe." He said that newsboys owed these prospects to the pioneer work of such as George Washington.

Louis Wiley, business manager of THE NEW YORK TIMES, said he was "also in the business of distributing newspapers." H. V. Kaltenborn, associate editor of The Brooklyn Eagle, led the boys through an anagram dependent on the name of Washington. Father William E. Cashin of St. Andrew's Church, an old friend of the newsboys, was another speaker, as were Herbert F. Gunnison of The Brooklyn Eagle, Richard H. Waldo, advertising counselor of John Wanamaker's, and William Lewis Butcher, Chairman.

On the platform were Major General William N. Haskell of the New York National Guard and John J. Raskob, Vice President of General Motors. They were introduced by the Governor as "Exhibits A and B —both ex-newsboys."

H. Randolph Guggenheimer recalled to the newsboys that it was the first dinner at the house since the death of Eliza Guggenheimer, his mother, the widow of Randolph Guggenheimer. The dinner had been provided every year by Mrs. Guggenheimer in memory of her husband, who originated the custom. This year it was the son who gave the dinner.

Priest Found Smith Wide Awake in Church; Once Commended a Sermon as 'Damn Good'

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 22.—Governor Smith is a good churchman who doesn't go to sleep during the sermon, according to his former pastor, the Rev. A. J. Keane, now of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church at Scarsdale, N. Y., and formerly assistant pastor of St. James's Church in New York City. Father Keane, who admits that if he had not been a priest he would like to have been a moving picture actor, said the New York Governor also was an outspoken critic of addresses from the pulpit, on one occasion complimenting the priest by remarking at the conclusion of the service:

"Father, that was a damn good sermon."

By the same token, Father Keane said, he was delivering a sermon that was not quite up to the mark, and he noticed the Governor take out his watch, look at it and then look up at him.

"I brought my sermon to a close forthwith," the priest said.

Father Keane said that Arthur Smith, son of the Governor, was called upon in school one day and asked what he knew about civics. The reply was, "Nothing." He then was asked who the fifty-seventh Governor of New York was, and the reply was that he didn't know.

"Do you know your father?" was the next query, Father Keane said.

"Yes, but I didn't know his number," was the reply.

The Presidential campaign this year will bring about a crisis in religious life, Father Keane believes. It will prove healthy for the Church, he held, because talk on religious issues will cause more thinking about religion. He does not believe that the Catholic vote will be the leading factor in Governor Smith's support.

"It has not been the Catholic vote that has elected Al Smith to the Governorship of New York all these years," the priest said. "The Catholic vote in New York is only about one-sixth of the population. I believe, though, that Governor Smith will receive about 80 per cent. of the Catholic vote if he runs, and besides that many non-Catholics are anxious to see him nominated and elected, to prove once and for all that religion does not play such a part in this democracy as some would think."

HERRICK REPROVES EUROPEAN PRESS

He Tells Latin Americans That Papers Misinterpreted the Havana Conference.

THEY ARE LUNCHEON GUESTS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—Ambassador Herrick in welcoming the diplomatic representatives in Paris of the Latin-American republics at the annual Washington's Birthday luncheon given at the embassy in their honor, took occasion to express deep regret that portions of the European press should so gravely misunderstand the sentiments which prevail between the various American republics and should misrepresent the intentions which animate their relations one to another.

The Ambassador had just referred to the Havana conference and the studied effort of certain organs on this side of the Atlantic to make a clear case of imperialism against the United States.

Mr. Herrick's remarks were listened to very attentively by his guests, who included the Ambassadors, Ministers or Chargés d'Affaires of every South and Central American country except Ecuador, which has not participated for several years. The only other guest was Philip Roy, the new Canadian Minister to France. The staff of the American Embassy also attended.

Stresses Spirit of Conference.

The Ambassador began by saying that every one with the interests of the Pan American Union at heart naturally had been apprehensive that some fundamental difficulties might arise which would affect the future of that body.

"There were differences there, as there would be here," he said. "But to me the great thing is that we do get together and do discuss whatever concerns our Continent in an atmosphere of peace instead of conflict and seek in friendly spirit to arrive at conclusions of benefit to all.

"Considering the long life of national independence of us all and our racial differences and temperament, it would be a miracle if there were no variant views, friction, hot discussions and even misunderstandings at times, but who can say that the Pan-American Conferences have not resulted in a tremendous forward reach of the Western Hemisphere?

"My personal impression is that while all may not be wholly satisfied with the accomplishments of the present conference they will see later that progress has been made and that the usefulness and tranquillity of the Pan American Union has not been affected.

"To be sure the aspirations of the various countries interested in the union have not all been realized. However, it may be that some of these aspirations have been rather too ambitious and I am inclined to draw the conclusion that, after all, the organization should be satisfied with its accomplishments and encouraged to continue the earnest efforts which we know have been fraught with so much good in the past.

"As I see it, this is the spirit which prevailed at Havana. I know this is the spirit which inspired President Coolidge and it was the basis of his instructions to those he left in Cuba to carry on the conversations.

Two Hemispheres Contrasted.

"The nations which occupy the Continent of Europe have developed their political institutions, their boundaries, their languages, their habits of thought, through long ages of splendid effort marked by a persistence and courage beyond all praise. The countries on the other side of the Atlantic have grown up in a wholly different atmosphere, responsive entirely to different influences.

"In the century of their independence how many wars of conquest have marked the history of the American republics? How often has one of our nations sought to impose its system upon another or to take for itself its neighbor's land merely because it felt itself stronger?

"Our statesmen have persistently worked within their own borders instead of constantly casting their eyes beyond. Internal development has ever involved their care to the almost total exclusion of external aggression.

"And so, Americans who live and work on this side of the water are often surprised and sometimes shocked to see themselves measured by this Old World yardstick. They should not be. It is inevitable; history and environment made it so. But they should not allow it to influence their conceptions or change the measure of their mutual confidence.

The Latin-American diplomats applauded the Ambassador's comments regarding the Havana sessions, but replying on behalf of his colleagues the Brazilian Ambassador carefully refrained from political observations.

Speaking tonight at the annual Washington's Birthday dinner at the American Club, Ambassador Herrick defended the "debunking" of Washington, which he declared dragged the national hero from the artificial pedestal upon which he had been placed and brought him nearer to the people.

Just before the Ambassador started speaking a statue of Washington, cast in ice, was brought into the dining room. Pointing to the statue, Mr. Herrick said:

"There be those who with stories of Washington kneeling beside his horse in the forest in silent prayer or chopping down a cherry tree would have us believe that he was temperamentally like this. But we know he was no superman, happily. Through the debunking process he emerges with a depth of humanism that even previous extravagant fancies failed to attribute to him."

Marshal Joffre, General Gouraud, Minister of Marines Leygues were among those present at the dinner. M. Leygues in a brief speech praised America's ideals of liberty and representative government.

EXTOL WASHINGTON IN DIVERSE TRIBUTE

WREATHS PUT ON STATUES

Dr. R. U. Johnson Derides His Critics —Freethinker Calls Valley Forge Prayer Picture "a Lie."

The 196th anniversary of the birth of George Washington was celebrated yesterday in all parts of the city with patriotic exercises, religious services, luncheons, dinners and other demonstrations in which thousands of persons participated.

Orators were busy with holiday praise of the first President. The career of the nation's founder was reviewed and some speakers delivered innovations in characterization of the man who was "first in the hearts of his countrymen."

United States Senator C. C. Dill of Washington termed the first President as radical, and he linked Washington's name with that of Lincoln and Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. At a Boy Scout demonstration, Washington was described as a Scout and an outdoor man. Joseph Lewis, President of the Free Thinkers Society, took the occasion to declare that a picture showing Washington on his knees in prayer at Valley Forge was "a lie."

The coincidence of Ash Wednesday and Washington's Birthday was the keynote of a sermon by Bishop Manning at midday Lenten services at Trinity Church, Broadway and Wall Street. "The coincidence is a happy one," said Bishop Manning. At other religious services this coincidence was cited as significant.

Observance in Carnegie Hall.

Many of the speeches of the day were broadcast by radio.

Senator Dill spoke at a celebration at Carnegie Hall in which more than a score of patriotic organizations participated. It was held under the auspices of the Sons of the Revolution in the State of New York.

"George Washington and Abraham Lincoln were the radicals of their time" he said, "if it be said of Washington that he belonged to the property owning class, how can we explain his failure to join the Tories? What shall we say of his devotion to his ragged, suffering soldiers at Valley Forge? A man does not endure such suffering and such danger except his heart be stirred by a deep passion for a great cause.

"His monument is this great Republic and its future. His monument is at last in the hearts of the people the world around who love liberty and who devote their lives to duty and to truth and who believe that every people have a right to create their own government and work out their own destiny."

Speaking of February as the favorite birthday month because it contained the birthday of Lincoln as well as Washington, he called attention to the fact that it contained also the birthday of another American, "more widely known and more glorified than any other human being on this earth today, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh."

"The fact that an unknown and unnoticed mail pilot can attain and keep such fame," Senator Dill declared, "is the latest illustration of the fact that the avenues of opportunity created by Washington and enlarged by Lincoln are still open to American boys."

Scouts Join in Tribute.

Hundreds of Boy and Girl Scouts in the crowded auditorium joined with others in singing "America" as the exercises opened, using tiny flags as batons to keep time with the music furnished by the Police Band and the double quartet of the Police Glee Club. Led by field music of the Veterans Corps of Artillery, whose members were garbed in bright red coatees and tall shakos, color bearers of the various societies marched to the stage and massed the colors. George A. Zabriskie, President of the Sons of the Revolution, greeted the assemblage. A delegation of the Society of Tammany, headed by the venerable John R. Voorhis, was prsent. Station WNYC broadcast the exercises.

Washington was praised as a Scout and an outdoor man by Daniel Carter Beard, founder of the Boy Scout movement, at a memorial service in the Colonade of the Hall of Fame at New York University, where Boy Scouts filed to the base of Washington's bust to stand at attention while a wreath was placed there.

Dr. Johnson Rebukes Critics.

Dr. Robert Underwood Johnson, director of the Hall of Fame, derided as nearsighted critics of Washington and declared that the cherry tree story must have had "some truth in it somewhere." Mrs. George E. Owens, President of the Government Club; Arthur G. Morse of the National Security League and Major Richard A. Charles, Director of the American Defense Society, also spoke.

In attacking the picture of Washington on his knees at Valley Forge, Joseph Lewis declared, at a celebration held by the Freethinkers' Society at 226 West Fifty-eighth Street, that the "lie" had been circulated for propaganda by the clergy of the time. Mr. Lewis quoted from a letter said to have been written by Washington's pastor in which the pastor said that Washington, in his opinion, was not a Christian. Mr. Lewis highly praised Washington.

Exercises were held by the Washington Headquarters Association in the historic Colonial dwelling at Edgecombe Avenue and 160th Street used by Washington as military headquarters in 1776. United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle eulogized Washington and Lincoln as "two of the great fixed stars in the zenith of our national firmament." He also praised Colonel Lindbergh. Lieut. Col. C. A. Secane, officer in charge of the Army Signal Corps Pictorial Service here, delivered an attack on pacifist organizations, which, he said, were responsible for the expected halving of the $800,000,000 naval building program now being considered in Washington.

Services at St. Paul's.

The annual services of the George Washington-Sulgrave Institution were held at noon at St. Paul's Chapel, where the pew used by Washington is still preserved. Father S. C. Hughson, head of the Order of the Holy Cross at West Park, N. Y., said:

"The name of Washington is a synonym of greatness throughout the world and America stands among the free nations just because he did not believe in the slogan 'My Country Right or Wrong' and refused to accept the fatal principle that no moral standard should be regarded save those dictated by a changing majority." Father Hughson also pleaded for cancellation of the interallied debt.

Bishop Ernest M. Stires of the Long Island Diocese spoke on "George Washington the Christian" at a breakfast at the Hotel St. George in Brooklyn following the annual corporate communion of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. The communion, attended by 1,300 members of the Diocesan Assembly, was held at St. Ann's Church, Clinton and Livingston Streets.

"Washington always spoke of God and of every attribute of God with profound respect and veneration," said Bishop Stires. "He always kept alive in the heart that spark of celestal fire called conscience."

Former Judge G. F. Wahle, another speaker, attacked what he termed the "cesspool school of biographers" and spoke of Washington's married life, which was happy, he said, "because in those days there was no such thing as companionate marriage."

The Washington Crusaders of America laid a wreath at the base of the Washington Statue on the steps of the Subtreasury Building in Wall Street at noon. Dr. Lincoln Casell, whose likeness to Lincoln has given him the title of "Lincoln's double," wore clothing of Lincoln's time in taking part.

About 600 of the 1,000 veterans of the United States Veterans' Hospital 81 at 130 West Kingsbridge Road, the Bronx, attended services in the chapel of the institution and heard speakers extol the first President. The Williamsburg Patriotic Committee held its annual exercises at the Washington Statue in the Williamsburg Bridge Plaza, Brooklyn. More than 1,000 were present.

The Merchants' Association, through its Industrial Bureau, revealed that an investigation covering holiday practice in 805 offices, stores and factories in the city had shown that 740 closed all day, 41 part of the day and 24 remained open all day.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22 (AP).—On a football team including Hercules, Samson, Ajax, Thor, Charlemagne, Richard Coeur de Lion and Ulysses, George Washington would have been the triple-threat backfield star, Dr. James Hosmer Penniman said today in commenting on the athletic prowess of the first President.

Dr. Penniman, brother of the Provost of the University of Pennsylvania, produced well-worn books, pamphlets and his own writings to add an interesting page to the story of the Father of His Country.

"Not only was Washington first in peace, first in war and first in the hearts of his countrymen," said Dr. Penniman, "but also he was first in matters of physical prowess—first to stop a fight, first to start one if conditions warranted and first when any of the sporting events of his day were being staged.

"We are too apt to think only of the stately Washington that Stuart portrayed, with gray hair and a black velvet suit. When Charles Wilson Peale went to Mount Vernon to sketch Washington when the latter was 40 years old, he found a group of young fellows pitching an iron bar [a favorite sport of the day] on the lawn. Peale narrated how Washington appeared on the scene, took the bar and, without stripping off his coat, toed the mark. He sent the heavy bar through the air far beyond the mark of the others and, upon retiring, said:

"'When you beat my pitch, young gentlemen, I'll try again.'

"That Washington was the swiftest runner of all the boys in the neighborhood is the contention of John Fitzhugh, a friend of his youth. He also declared Washington excelled in jumping, wrestling and pitching quoits.

"Then there is the story that Washington threw a stone across the Rappahannock River at Fredericksburg. Nobody else had been able to clear the river. He is also credited with throwing a stone into the Hudson from the Palisades.

"Jacob Van Braam, a Dutchman, taught the youthful Washington the art of swordsmanship, in which he was proficient. As a youth, too, he rode wild horses. He was tireless in the saddle, and in the battle of Long Island he remained astride for forty hours without rest.

"Tossing his heavy tent into a wagon as if it were a bundle of straw, aiming a musket like a pistol with one hand, squeezing the boastful Indians' hands as they tried to do the same to him upon greeting, George Washington's fame spread throughout the Colonies. He stood 6 feet 2, weighed 210 pounds and possessed muscles that stood out like a blacksmith's.

"I find that Washington never used tobacco, drank little wine and retired early. His endurance was such that he could ride sixty miles a day on a horse."

DENOUNCES ANTI-CATHOLICS.

Priest Says 'Keep the Church Out of Politics' Slogan Is a Blind.

The slogan to keep the church out of politics is only a blind, the Rev. Alexis Cunneen, a Passionist Father, declared yesterday in the presence of more than 2,000 men assembled in St. Patrick's Cathedral at the annual memorial mass on Washington's birthday by the New York Chapter, Knights of Columbus, for the fellow Knights who had died during the year. Presiding in the sanctuary was the Right Rev. John J. Dunn, administrator of the Archdiocese of New York.

"Under the very cloak of Christianity Christ is being betrayed into the hands of notorious conspirators," said Father Cunneen. "Under the name of zeal He receives a blow in the face for speaking to the high priests of commerce, the high priests of society, the high priests of education. Under the guise of public worship He is rejected for very Barabbas that is dug out of the dungeons of ignorance and crime. Under the plea of 'amor patrae' and simon-pure citizenship He is treated as a seducer and enemy of Caesar. His Immaculate Spouse—His Church—is publicly scourged in the Senate of the nation. His loyal subjects are crowned with the thorns of the hatred and calumny of organized bigotry.

"The Catholic Church knows her place," he said. "She does not interfere in politics—except when politics and politicians dare to interfere with the sanctity and majesty and worship of Christ. Then she does interfere! Then she does resist unto the death a Caiphas, a Herod, a Nero and an Atilla, and a Henry the Fourth, a Bismarck, a Calles.

"'Keep the Church out of politics'—Are you not Christly enough to see that this slogan is only a blind, and that the true meaning of it is Keep Christ out of politics, and out of the nation? Away with Him, crucify Him; we want no King but Caesar!"

"Oh, do not be deceived, brethren! Christ has no place in politics, or business or society or marriage or family or education! He is the despised Nazarene—the hated Galilean—the rejected King of Truth and Love! He is sneered at and cursed—not only in Mexico, but in every hamlet of the world where there is any offspring of that group who raged against Him on Calvary!"

MANNING CALLS FOR LOYALTY.

Washington's Idea of Liberty Not Anarchical One of Today, He Says.

The coincidence of Ash Wednesday and Washington's Birthday was the keynote of a sermon by Bishop Manning yesterday at midday Lenten services at Trinity Church, in which parish, at old St. Paul's Chapel, Washington was a communicant when he was in New York.

"The coincidence is a happy one," said Bishop Manning, "for the service of our country and our fellowmen is inseparable from the service of God; and the life of George Washington illustrates those great principles of human life of which Ash Wednesday and Lent speak to us.

"We think of George Washington as standing for human liberty, and he does stand for this most nobly. But he stands for liberty in its true meaning, not for that false and foolish idea of it of which we hear so much today. Liberty does not mean doing whatever we please without regard for God or man. That is not liberty, but anarchy, which is the destruction of liberty. Liberty must be safeguarded by law, and human liberty must be safeguarded by the law of God."

As something higher than liberty, Washington stood, Bishop Manning said, for duty, responsibility and loyalty to the obligations of life.

What is needed for happiness, he declared, is not "the freedom of the gutter or of the sewer, which is what some of our present-day literature is offering us, but the freedom of the Kingdom of God."

SPENDER FOR REVISION OF MARITIME LAW

He Urges an Anglo-American Doctrine of Sea Power and Its Uses.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—"America and Britain should find a common doctrine of sea power and its uses," J. A. Spender, ex-editor of The Westminster Gazette, urged tonight at a Washington's Birthday banquet of the English-Speaking Union. "Trying to reach an agreement by balancing tonnage will lead us nowhere. The road toward agreement lies in revision of our formulae of maritime law."

The former editor, who recently returned from a tour of the United States as the holder of the first senior American Newspaper Fellowship in memory of Walter Hines Page, paid a tribute to the American newspaper profession for never once betraying his confidence "after the frankest exchange of British and American views on world peace, naval and other problems."

He declared it was regrettable that the failure of the Geneva conference had disarmed both Britain and the United States for their common aim of leading the other nations of the world toward disarmament, arbitration and peace. The prestige of both had suffered.

"It is regrettable that the failure came at an unpropitious moment before the elections in America," he said. "There is no hostility on the part of the American people toward Britain, but the coolness between the Governments is bound to persist till after the election."

He told his hearers that his chief impressions of America were an amazing display of power and wealth from coast to coast, which brought home keenly Europe's loss of youth due to the World War; a spiritual fraternity which gave unrivalled opportunity to all to make the most of themselves regardless of class distinctions; a scheme of life based on the creation of new wants by mass production and instalment buying on a scale which left the European breathless.

The oft-spoken American policy, "Hands off Europe and its quarrels," he said, was Britain's policy before the logic of events caused the creation of the Entente Cordiale. Perhaps the fact that America had greater economic interests in Europe than any single European nation might bring her to advance similarly and such questions as revision of the Dawes plan and evacuation of the Rhineland, obstacles to European peace, might find their settlements in Washington.

John W. Davis, American Ex-Ambassador to Great Britain and now President of the English-Speaking Union of the United States, stressed the importance of the press as a medium for advancing international understanding and good-will, in a letter addressed to the Marquis of Reading, who presided last night in London at a dinner of the English-Speaking Union of the British Empire.

The letter read in part:

"That your gathering should be held on the anniversary of the birth of George Washington is fitting and significant. That day is coming to symbolize the common heritage and interdependence of our peoples.

"Mr. Spender is a strong connecting link. He is quoted here today, in a press dispatch from London as reporting on his return to England that the American people have nothing but good-will for Great Britain. That we knew to be true, and we are glad to know that Mr. Spender has found for himself that it is true.

"To assemble on Washington's Birthday to greet a distinguished compatriot who brings back such a message of good-will is indeed a happy and timely observance of the day."

GOV. FISHER PRAISES COOLIDGE RETIREMENT

Echo of Washington's Spirit, He Calls It at U. of P.—Mellon and Others Get Degrees.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22.—The spirit which prompted George Washington to refuse to be considered for a third term as President "still dwells in the White House when the latest of his successors echoes it in the simple statement, 'I do not choose to run'," declared Governor John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania, speaking today at the University of Pennsylvania's one hundred and second commemoration of Washington's birth.

Following the Governor's address eulogizing the first President, honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws were presented by Dr. Josiah H. Penniman, the Provost, to Governor Fisher, Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury; Effingham B. Morris, President of the Girard Trust Company of Philadelphia; Samuel T. Bodine, Chairman of the Board of the United Gas Improvement, and Frank B. Noyes, President of The Associated Press and publisher of The Washington Star.

Upon Dr. Robert Tait McKenzie was conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Fine Arts in recognition of his contributions to sculpture, culminating last Summer in the unveiling of his Scottish-American war memorial at Edinburgh, Scotland.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22 (AP).—In paying tribute to the achievements of Mr. Noyes as editor, manager and publisher and his long service as President of The Associated Press, Dr. Penniman said that The Associated Press was recognized as the "greatest organization in the world for the dissimination of news."

Coolidge Reviews the Parade.

After the reception and luncheon President Coolidge and his party and Governor and Mrs. Byrd went to a stand at Queen and Washington Streets to review the parade through streets over which Washington himself frequently rode and passed old brick mansions, shaded by tall trees and with ivy-covered walls, in many of which the first President had been a guest at dinners, dances and receptions.

An outstanding feature of the parade was the presence of the famous Richmond Light Infantry Blues in command of Major Mills F. Neal and headed by a navy band.

Many regulars passed in review before the President, the army being represented by the Thirteenth Engineers, Twelfth Infantry, Sixteenth Field Artillery, each with its own band; the Third Cavalry, with mounted musicians; a battalion of the First United States Marines and detachments of bluejackets from Washington.

Tribute was paid earlier today to an Unknown Soldier of the Revolutionary War, whose body lies in the cemetery of the Old Presbyterian Meeting House at Alexandria. A tablet, a copy of a stone memorial to mark the site, was unveiled.

The graves of twenty-six fellow-Masons of George Washington in the graveyard of the Presbyterian Meeting House were decorated by a committee of Grand Masters of the Grand Lodges of ten States representing the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Association, which convened today at Alexandria.

Among the Colonial and Revolutionary brethren of Washington whose graves were decorated were the Rev. James Muir, Chaplain of the Alexandria-Washington lodge which conducted the funeral of George Washington; Colonel Dennis Ramsay, one of his pall bearers; William Hunter Jr., junior warden of Washington's lodge in 1789; Dr. James Craik, personal physician to George Washington and Martha Washington and Surgeon-General of the Revolutionary Army, and Dr. James Gilles, Worshipful Master of Washington's lodge from 1795 to 1797.

DENIES WASHINGTON FEARED THIRD TERM

Dr. Lewis Declares He Did Not Decline Because of Any Detriment to Our System.

REASONS PURELY PERSONAL

Washington's refusal to be drafted for a third term as President of the United States was prompted by purely personal motives and carried with it no such political significance as has been attributed to it by opponents of the third term, according to Dr. William Mather Lewis, President of Lafayette College in an address at the Washington's Birthday dinner of the Sons of the Revolution, at the Waldorf last night.

Dr. Lewis compared Washington's resolution "to decline to be considered among the numbers of those out of whom a choice is to be made," with President Coolidge's famous "I do not choose to run." He declared that although it has been said of President Coolidge that he was simply assenting to the policy inaugurated by George Washington, that Washington himself had not inferred that a third term would be detrimental to the system of Government.

"It might be well for the public at large, and the Senators who so recently quoted Washington in justifying their position that a President should be ineligible for a third term," said Dr. Lewis, "to realize that George Washington was thinking in purely personal terms and not in terms of Government welfare when he made his declaration. He expressed no fear that three terms would be detrimental to our system of administration. He was simply a tired man seeking surcease from the cares of office. His words might as truly be taken as warning against a second term."

The speaker referred to the "third term bogy" as a weakness in our present form of Government. As soon as our Executive Officer is trained in the duties of handling the ship of State, he is made to walk the plank and a landlubber is called upon to take over the wheel, he declared.

"Instead of inveighing against a third term," continued Dr. Lewis, "statesmen should study the question of lightening the load on the President's shoulders and of conserving his energies for the really important affairs of State. The barbarous practices of hand-shakings and political spoils pressure should be eliminated."

Besides Dr. Lewis, the guests included Major Gen. Hanson E. Ely, Colonel Thomas Denny, Major Gen. William Haskell, Rear Admiral Louis M. Josephthal, the Rev. Howard Durfield, who offered the invocation, and representatives of other societies and military organizations.

REPLIES TO DREISER ON SOVIET REGIME

'NO BREAD THERE,' HE SAYS

The statements attributed to Theodore Dreiser, the novelist, that there were no bread lines in Russia, were contested yesterday by J. Robert O'Brien, Chairman of the Americanization Committee of the S. Ranken Drew Post of the American Legion.

Mr. O'Brien addressed a crowd of about 300 persons in Columbus Circle on "The Ideals of Washington as opposed to the Ideals of Karl Marx."

Mr. Dreiser told of his impressions of Russia on his return to this country on Tuesday. Mr. O'Brien's answer was the first of a series of "American soapbox orations" which the legion is planning to give throughout the city, especially in sections where radical speakers usually talk.

Members of the Workers' Party and the Rand School were invited by the post to attend and feel fully at liberty to ask questions or even "heckle" the speaker.

"Dreiser's visit to Russia was one of those personally conducted investigations we all know about," Mr. O'Brien said, answering a questioner who described himself as "from the Rand School."

"His interview states that he was given two secretaries who traveled around with him all the time he was in Russia. That reminds me of the personally conducted inspections we used to have every Monday when I was in the marine corps. Specially prepared food was set before the officer, and he was able to say truthfully that it was good enough for any one. I don't believe Dreiser got near enough to real conditions to know much about them, and only a few days before THE TIMES published an article which said that bread lines were increasing in Russia.

"Yes, there are bread lines here in New York, too, but they have this advantage over the Russian ones, that you get bread at them instead of just waiting for nothing at all."

ABOARD S. S. CARONIA, Feb. 22.—Washington's Birthday was celebrated aboard this ship tonight 1,200 miles out. British and American flags hung side by side in the dining hall.

The ship's orchestra, all British, struggled gamely through "Hail Columbia" and other American patriotic songs. The passengers, including many British-Americans, stood during "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

MOSCOW, Feb. 22.—Isadora Duncan's Plastic Art School, organized in 1921 to foster esthetic dancing in public schools in Russia and carried on since Miss Duncan's death by one of her original pupils, Irma Duncan, has been abolished.

The Moscow Board of Education, after an investigation, says:

"The school will be reorganized as an ordinary primary school. The grown-up girls will be separated. Medical supervision will be organized immediately."

It also recommends an investigation of the activities of the former director, M. Schneider.

NATIONALISTS TELL NEW FOREIGN POLICY

Minister Declares Nanking Will Seek Treaty Revision as Soon as Possible.

HE STRESSES FRIENDLINESS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 22.—The opinion that the Nanking Nationalist Government is angling for a revival of the China customs conference, possibly during this year, which has arisen from the recent advocacy of tariff reform by members of the Nationalist Cabinet, gained ground this evening with the issuance at Nanking of a long public statement on his policies by the new Minister of Foreign Affairs, General Huang-fu, who was inaugurated yesterday, succeeding Dr. C. C. Wu.

General Huang-fu's appointment was long expected and was confirmed a few days ago, the former Peking official taking his post formally yesterday. His statement opens with this declaration:

"In international relations the Chinese are always dominated by a spirit of good faith and neighborliness, which is most dearly cherished and very deeply rooted."

Foreign Relations Outlined.

"Because China's relations have been shackled by unequal treaties for the past eighty years, the growth of natural, friendly relations has been greatly hampered," he says.

"In view of the possible continuance of such unfavorable conditions, the Nationalist Government is prepared to revise all the unequal treaties with the powers in accordance with usual diplomatic procedure."

This indicates that General Huang-fu does not favor abrogation of the Peking treaties by force, although he declares in concluding his platform:

"With regard to those powers seeking to impair China's social institutions, the Nationalist Government will be constrained to adopt and enforce the most suitable measures to deal with the situation."

Observers here are inclined to believe that this hits at the Soviet and indicates that the new Foreign Minister heartily approves the anti-Red stand of General Chiang Kai-shek, the Nationalist Generalissimo. The Minister outlines a foreign policy with the following points:

"With a view to hastening early abrogation of China's treaties, now universally recognized to be unequal, the Nationalist Government will make all necessary preparations in the hope of opening negotiations at the earliest possible moment with the powers for the conclusion of new treaties on a basis of equality and mutual respect for territorial sovereignty.

Friendly Aims Declared.

"Pending the conclusion of new treaties, the Nationalist Government is prepared to maintain and develop friendly relations with the powers in such a manner as to be able to meet the altered circumstances of the present time and to remove all sources of difficulties and misunderstanding. The Nationalist Government, equally, will recognize all treaties or agreements concerning China made between or among the powers, provided they are made with the participation of the Nationalist Government.

"With reference to important outstanding cases, the Nationalist Government is prepared to settle them on any appropriate occasion in a spirit of fairness and mutual understanding."

It is believed here that this last provision refers to the anti-foreign outrages at Nanking which have not been settled, the demands of the powers on China being still unmet and their consular officials, except those of Japan, refusing to return to Nanking until reparation and apologies are made.

Incidentally, military movements by the South along the Northern front appear to be under way, and it is significant that conflicts with the Northern Military Alliance are regarded as imminent in Shantung as well as in the Honan and Shansi sectors.

General Huang Fu was Foreign Minister in the Peking Government in 1923. He was afterward Acting Premier, envoy to Germany, head of the national railways, and Mayor of Shanghai. He resigned as Mayor in August when Chiang Kai-shek withdrew temporarily from the revolution.

EXECUTION OF 1,700 REPORTED BY CANTON

Victims Were Alleged Reds Seized Monday—14,000 More Said to Be Besieging Kweilin.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 22 (AP).—Dispatches from Canton say that 1,700 alleged Communists, both men and women, have been executed by Canton troops after their capture east of the city on Monday.

The Cantonese also captured 600 members of a girls' Communist corps in the same area, but these have not been executed. Northward of Canton 800 Reds were made prisoners and hundreds of rifles captured.

Pang-pai, widely known Communist organizer in Fukien Province, is said to have been murdered by villagers in his native town, who photographed his body and then cut it into pieces for exhibition. His head was sent to Canton with the idea of discouraging Red activities.

The Central Bank in Canton has repudiated all notes issued prior to 1928 and is issuing $1,000,000 (Mexican) new notes.

CANTON, Feb. 22 (AP).—Fourteen thousand Communists from the Province of Human are reported to have laid siege to Kweilin, the old capital of Kwangsi Province, and the city's capture is believed imminent.

The Government of Canton is rushing all available troops toward Kwangsi, denuding the Province of Kwangtung of soldiers who have been loyal to the Canton régime. It is feared this may expose Kwangtung to renewed Red activities.

DEFEAT THREATENS NEW FRENCH DUTIES

OUR SYSTEM AN OBSTACLE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—Unless considerable Government pressure is exercised, it seem possible tonight that the revised schedule of French import tariffs which has been proposed may not be passed at this session of Parliament.

In the Chamber of Deputies there is strong opposition to the changes on two grounds, one of which is electoral and the other international. The proposed tariff increases, which are of a limited nature, would benefit the French farming industry, and there is a natural division between those sections of the Chamber which represent rural and city voters. The latter argue that what benefits the former will harm the latter, causing an even further increase in the cost of living.

A second difference of opinion which is likely to cause delay in passage of the measure is that on whether the French system of maximum and minimum tariffs meets present day conditions.

The Chamber began passage today of all commercial accords, such as the Franco-German compact of last August, all of which are approved. It is the situation with regard to the United States which is causing uneasiness. All of these accords have been made on the basis of reciprocity treatment. Even the Belgians, with whom an agreement has at last been reached, have consented to grant, in the accord which will be signed tomorrow, special privileges to French wines and other products.

In the opinion of the majority of the Deputies it is right that those countries which grant facilities to French exports should obtain minimum tariffs. But this system of two tariffs does not in fact work out satisfactorily.

When the German accord was signed in August it raised an immediate protest from the United States, which held that there was discrimination in it against American products. A temporary arrangement was reached by which American imports received what amounted to minimum tariff treatment in exchange for some small technical amelioration of the system controlling the entry of French exports into the United States.

That temporary arrangement has, of course, lasted, though there was an understanding that it should continue only during the arrangement of a definite Franco-American trade agreement.

But the majority of the French Deputies are critical of the Government which has permitted the situation to develop in this way. They hold that those countries which do not exclude or hinder French exports by heavy import duties should get an advantage over those, like the United States, which have high tariff walls, or that a single tariff should be applied to all.

Thus the situation is highly complicated and the complication is increased by rival electoral claims and interests. The Government, by attaching to the bill for ratification of the various trade agreements which have been signed, its proposal for raising certain tariffs seemed to wish to smuggle the new measures through.

This has provoked strong difference of opinion between the two commissions of the chamber directly concerned, the Commission on Commerce deciding against the new increases while the Commission on Customs favored them.

During today's debate it became clear that the opposition was so strong that M. Bokanowski, the Minister of Commerce, had to ask that at least the first of the six articles of his bill dealing with the commercial accords be adopted today and that the question of disjunction from the bill of the tariff question be voted on on Friday.

5-POWER ENTENTE PLANNED BY BENES

By WYTHE WILLIAMS.

of investigation—authorized by itself a year ago last December—it should, immediately after the protest of the Little Entente powers, have sent a League representative to St. Gothard to see that the five cars containing the guns were properly sealed.

He said also that the Chinese Ambassador to Paris, who presided at the last Council and therefore still is acting President, should yesterday have sent a strong protest to the Hungarian Government.

The Greek delegate expressed regret that nothing had been done as such strong action now would form a good precedent in future cases.

Britain Kindly to Soviet Plan.

"It must be treated with every consideration and not dismissed merely because it comes from Moscow."

He added that the British Government would give the document serious study before the meeting of the Preparatory Commission in the middle of March and he thought all the Governments would be wise if they pursue the same course, inasmuch as public opinion might become seriously disturbed if the proposal were summarily dismissed.

Of the new scheme in the Russian plan, dividing up the oceans of the world into sixteen zones and giving different nations maritime mandates, Lord Cushenden merely remarked:

"I wonder what the United States will think about that."

The British delegate then explained the attitude his Government has taken toward the proposals made by Finland, favoring financial assistance to any League nation the object of unprovoked aggression. He said the League's Financial Committee was working upon the British suggestions and hoped to report on them before the adjournment of the present security meeting.

The British thesis was that $250,000,000 should be the maximum to be subscribed by all nations in any event, of which sum the British were willing to take responsibility to the amount of 7½ per cent.

Latin-American Objections.

GENEVA, Feb. 22 (AP).—Support for regional compacts was again evidenced in the concluding stage of the general discussion of the League Security Committee today.

The delegates of Argentina and Chile displayed an anxiety to avoid European entanglements. Both welcomed an extension of the principle of arbitration, but intimated there would be difficulty in following along Locarno lines in backing up coercion measures.

Treaties which would suit Europe, they argued, would not suit South America. Other methods would have to be sought, both for psychological reasons and owing to special conditions affecting certain Spanish-American States by absence or relaxation of their relations with the League of Nations.

The German delegate put forward three concrete proposals tonight. These were that members of the League, parties to a dispute, shall agree in advance, first, in case of a dispute, to accept provisional recommendations for preventing the extension of such dispute; second, in case of danger of war, to accept the League Council's recommendations to re-establish or maintain the military status quo existing normally in peace time; third, in case hostilities have broken out, to accept the Council's recommendations for an armistice.

DURING THE BRISK MORNING HOURS—

CAPES will be seen fluttering gaily along the avenues. Short, medium or long capes! They appear attractively in suits of English tweed. A leather belt interlacing in an interesting way is the feature of one model at $75. Another tweed costume at $165 has three dimensions—a silk blouse, a sleeveless cardigan and a three-quarter cape.

* * *

Paris has sent forth her favourite—the O'Rossen tailleur, $65—as a definite contribution to Spring modes. A silk blouse at $10.50 with a dainty frill will satisfy Fashion's demand for the feminine note.

WOMEN'S SUITS—THIRD FLOOR

MORE RADIANT THAN EVENING LIGHTS—

IS the glow that suffuses a woman as she appears, en robe du soir, conscious of her loveliness—serene in the knowledge of being supremely gowned.

The young fashionables take on new dignity in their long, sweeping frocks. A white taffeta bouffant model at $185 has its skirt attached to the bodice quite low on the hips, which is a new note. The hem is lined deeply with a bright green silk to match a large bow at the waistline.

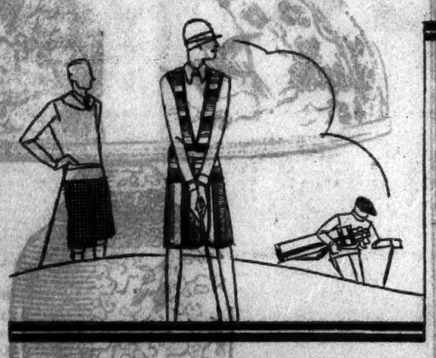
Apple Green Chiffon, in tiers of circular ruffles that radiate from the side-front and fall almost to the ground at the back, is a new and charmingly youthful model at $75.

MISSES' DRESSES—THIRD FLOOR



A SILHOUETTE WHICH TEES OFF SMARTLY—

IN four shades of brown, with stripes running in contrary ways, is an assured success. A broken belt-line, smartly conceived, overlapping of skirt panels, a blouse of jersey fastened at collar and cuffs with brown leather buttons, are all unique ways of achieving a distinguished affair for sports. The frock is priced $125.

* * *

A drive from the first tee, under the eyes of admiring bystanders, may be technically not quite up to form, but little may it matter—for after all a modish outfit will carry one serenely after the caddy with an air of triumph.

SPORTSWEAR—THIRD FLOOR

IN THE CONVIVIAL INTERIM—

WHEN smart femininity braves the appraisal of sophisticated eyes, while chatting at the entrance of a favourite teatime rendezvous, casual they may seem, and calm in the consciousness of glances of approval and even envy.

AND WHY NOT?

Nothing more flattering—certainly not more correct—than black chiffon flowered in all colours, as a medium for a clever little coat that ties snugly over a sleeveless frock. Chiffon petals, drooping carelessly at one side, effect a dipping hemline which carries on to greater extremes at the back. Who might not wear with assurance such a frock? $161.

WOMEN'S DRESSES—THIRD FLOOR

SHE MAY STEP WITH AUTHORITY FROM HER MOTOR

IF she be wrapped in an intriguing way in rich gold lame of just the limited length to reveal the charming and wayward hemline of her frock, for evening gowns have a brazen way of refusing to be entirely covered this season.

Molyneux is not satisfied with gold cloth alone, it must take on rich embroidery of delicate pink and a lining of blue georgette to create an exquisite evening wrap. And then a scarf that throws itself in soft folds over both shoulders adds just the happy touch at the neck. It is priced $325.

AFGHAN KING ENTERS BERLIN AMID POMP

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—King Amanullah of Afghanistan, the first monarch to visit the German Republic and the first one whom the Germans have had a chance to greet in fifteen years, received a royal welcome from scores of German officials headed by President von Hindenburg and thousands of Berliners in a holiday mood when, with his handsome Queen and glittering retinue, he entered Berlin today amid martial pomp vieing with anything ever done in honor of visiting potentates when Wilhelm Hohenzollern ruled in imperial splendor over Germany.

For hours before the time set for the King's arrival Berlin was full of expectant excitement. The Lehrter railway station and all the streets leading from there to the Prince Albrecht Palace, which was set aside for him during his Berlin stay, were gay with elaborate decorations and packed with enormous crowds.

Huge pylons decked with green leaves gave a festive appearance to the beautiful Parisen-Platz, and there as well as everywhere else along the triumphal way from the station to the palace, black, red and gold banners of Republican Germany alternated with the black and white standard of Afghanistan while hundreds of Reichswehr soldiers in khaki and trench helmets stood in rigid array and big squads of policemen kept the crowds back.

Crowd Cheers Hindenburg.

At 11 o'clock President von Hindenburg, towering as always over those around him and straight and hale despite his eighty years, arrived at the Lehrter Station. After greeting a group of other notables assembled there, he strode down to the middle of the platform, over which was stretched a long red carpet, accompanied only by his son and aide, Major von Hindenburg, and State Secretary Meissner. As he took up his post at the point where the royal train was expected a small crowd shepherded by policemen into one corner of the station gave him a friendly cheer.

Punctually at 11:15 o'clock the royal train arrived. King Amanullah, resplendent in a blue and red uniform with a white plume clasped to his military headgear by a sparkling jewel, and surrounded by high Afghan officials in equally splendid array, stepped from the train and shook hands cordially with the German President.

Then Queen Suraya of Afghanistan alighted, followed by the ladies of the royal entourage. She received from President Hindenburg a fine bunch of orchids which the venerable Field Marshal handed her with a deep bow.

After all the Afghans were presented to the President, his son and State Secretary Meissner, they walked along the platform toward the station entrance, the gorgeous uniforms of the Afghan men and the Parisian finery of the women making a striking contrast to President von Hindenburg in his sober black coat and tall black hat.

Salute of 21 Guns Fired.

At the end of the platform the visitors were introduced to other officials gathered to greet them, including Vice Chancellor Hergt, several Cabinet Ministers, General Heye, head of the Reichswehr; Admiral Zenker, commanding the German Navy, Reichstag President Loebe and others. Chancellor Marx was absent because of illness.

Several Afghans were also there, including a dusky little girl who, blushing shyly, handed a bouquet to the Queen. Standing out in contrast to the Germans were the Persian Minister to Germany and members of his staff in gala diplomatic uniforms surmounted by black fezzes with the golden Persian lion.

As the royal retinue emerged from the station stern Reichswehr officers bawled the stentorian command of "Present arms!" and the regiment drawn up on the square outside stiffened to instant obedience while a battery near by banged a salute of twenty-one guns.

King Returns Students' Salutes.

Suddenly a girl stepped forward and handed her liege lord a packet tied with gold ribbon containing a gift for him. This he acknowledged with a special salute and smile, and handed it to an aide walking behind him, while more shouts of "Ullah" rang out.

And all the while the strange melancholy strains of the Afghan national hymn, which a German military band had been practicing assiduously for days, sounded as the musicians blared it forth courageously. One Afghan student, carrying a banner of his native land, swung it high over his head in loyal patriotic fervor.

A few minutes later the King, seated beside President von Hindenburg, was whisked away in a motor car toward the centre of Berlin with an escort of German cavalry clattering behind, while other visitors followed in a string of luxurious official cars.

Children Alone Are Unawed.

After a triumphal progress through the Brandenburg Gate and along Unter den Linden to Wilhelmstrasse, King Amanullah was escorted by President von Hindenburg into the Prince Albrecht Palace and left there for luncheon and a brief rest.

Immediately thereafter the ceremonies in his honor were resumed. Between crowds lining both sides of Wilhelmstrasse the Afghan monarch and his gorgeous retainers—without the Queen this time, for she was too tired—sped in a motor car to the Presidential Palace to pay an official visit to President von Hindenburg.

Again officers barked "Present arms!" as King Amanullah arrived before the palace; again the Reichswehr soldiers obeyed with rigid precision; again a band struck up the Afghan anthem.

And while a crowd with craned necks pressed against the police lines, a little group of children on the palace balcony, consisting of several of von Hindenburg's grandchildren and their playmates, jumped up and down in a frenzy of excitement, shouting, laughing and waving handkerchiefs, utterly oblivious of the frozen dignity into which the adults all around them had fallen.

The King stayed a full half hour in the Presidential Palace. When he emerged there was more presenting of arms, more playing of the Afghan national air and more irrepressible enthusiasm from the delighted group of children leaning out over the railing of the balcony. Then the Afghan ruler whisked back to the Prince Albrecht Palace to spend the afternoon receiving Vice Chancellor Hergt, representing Chancellor Marx and members of the Diplomatic Corps, including American Ambassador Jacob G. Schurman and the American Embassy staff.

DR. HIBBEN STRESSES NEED

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 22.—Announcement of an immediate drive for an endowment of $2,000,000 to increase salaries of the Princeton Faculty, the nomination of six candidates for the Princeton Board of Trustees and the award of the highest general honors to a Princeton undergraduate featured the Alumni Day activities of Princeton University here today.

The $2,000,000 drive is to last until July 1 and is intended to raise immediately the scale of salaries of the Faculty members. Walter L. Johnson, Chairman of the Princeton Graduate Council, which has assumed control of the campaign, announced that $106,000 had already been pledged and that the class of '21, with a subscription of $35,000, was the first class to pass its quota.

H. Chapman Rose of Columbus, Ohio, Chairman of the Princeton Student Council and of The Daily Princetonian, receive the Pyne Honor Prize award from President John Grier Hibben for the highest degree of "excellent scholarship, manly qualities and effective support of the best interests of Princeton University" of any undergraduate in the university.

Approximately 500 alumni and 250 fathers of Princeton undergraduates were in attendance at the varied activities today. The trustees' room of Nassau Hall was filled to overflowing for the meeting of the National Alumni Association at 11 o'clock this morning.

President Hibben, addressing the meeting, urged the great need for higher teachers' salaries, declaring that members of the Princeton Faculty were continually receiving calls from other universities and business associations at a much higher salary rate, but "they have remained in Princeton because they believe in Princeton and like the intellectual atmosphere of the university."

Dean Luther P. Eisenhart also spoke.

Nominations for election to the Board of Trustees include from the Northern New England district James Gibson, '94, Albany, N. Y., Deputy Attorney General of New York State; James L. Crane, '99, Buffalo, N. Y., President of the Hope Lumber Company, Ltd., and Thomas A. Wilson, '13, Binghamton, N. Y., Vice President of the Empire Grain Elevator Company. Spruance, '94, Wilmington, Del., business man and financier, and John C. Cooper Jr., '09, Jacksonville, Fla., attorney.

William A. Jameson of Washington, D. C., a freshman, won first prize of $100 in a debate on companionate marriage in Alexander Hall this morning. An oratorical prize was divided between Gerhard P. Van Arkle of Haddonfield, N. J., a junior, and Henry P. Abbott of Baltimore, a freshman.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Feb. 22.—As a result of having been attacked by her landlord Mrs. Ella Lindfag of 5 Fay Street has a two-year rent-free lease and $200, while the offending landlord must pay a $500 fine and spend six months in jail.

FORGER UNDER ARREST LEADS PRAYERS ON SHIP

Isidore M. Knauer, alias Abraham Berger, 40 years old, married and a naturalized citizen of the United States, returned yesterday on the French liner Paris from Vienna in the custody of John P. Donlon, secretary of District Attorney Banton, and Detective James L. Leech of the New York Police Department. Knauer formerly had operated a chain of stores in Brooklyn and pleaded guilty in 1926 to forging a note for $10,000. While awaiting sentence he had jumped his bail of $15,000 and fled to Europe.

During the voyage on the Paris from Havre Donlon and Leech were first-class passengers and their prisoner roamed about freely in the second cabin, where his polished manner, intelligent conversation and skill at all kinds of games made him popular. There was no rabbi on the Paris and some of the pious Jews in the second class requested Knauer to read daily prayers to them, which, they said, he did with the correct religious intonation. It was a shock to many of them yesterday morning when they went to the cabin to say good-bye to him to find that he was in the custody of two detectives from the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station and was going to be locked up. After clearing his baggage, the detectives took Knauer in a taxicab to Police Headquarters.

Would Law's Delay destroy the profits of her voyage?

MANY a romantic tale has been told of Roman galleys, bursting with Sicilian wheat; of full-bellied Spanish galleons, staggering under the weight of gold in the trade winds; of slim Yankee clippers, flying like gulls to Singapore . . . but it is doubtful whether any or all of them ever surpassed in picturesqueness or importance the busy little "tramp" steamers of today, plowing their way through the Seven Seas . . . . . .

One day a sturdy Scotch vessel nosed her way into the East River. She was to discharge her cargo here, and proceed promptly to other ports.

The boat had been at the dock only a few hours, however, when an officer of the law appeared. The skipper was served with an attachment—a libel had been filed by a New York firm having a claim against the owners of the vessel. The good ship might be held up for weeks.

A delay meant heavy loss to the owners.

Port charges, wages and keep for a crew would pile up expenses rapidly—this in addition to probable claims for damages for failure to deliver merchandise on time.

What was to be done?

The bank is called upon

At this juncture the American Exchange Irving Trust Company came into the picture. A correspondent bank abroad cabled, requesting that the New York bank obtain the release of the steamer.

An officer of the American Exchange Irving Trust Company conferred with the representatives of the libellants and offered to cooperate in such a way that their client could be protected without the necessity of holding the ship. This proposal was at once agreed to and the hard-working vessel was permitted to proceed on its way on scheduled time. Thus, heavy losses, both to the owners of the ship and to the consignees of the cargo, were avoided.

LABOR LEADER JOINS EMPLOYERS' GROUP

WILL "SERVE BOTH SIDES"

Union Official Was One of Organizers of Labor National Bank of Jersey City.

Theodore M. Brandle, President of the Building Trades of New Jersey and long active as a labor leader in that State, has accepted the position of director general of the Iron League of New Jersey, an organization comprising more than one hundred firms employing union labor. His duties, according to the announcement made yesterday by the league, will be "to bring capital and labor together and to create a more friendly feeling between their organization and organized labor, and to promote the general welfare of the Iron League of New Jersey."

A testimonial dinner was given for Mr. Brandle by the league at the Hotel Vanderbilt, last Thursday night, when the offer of the job was made to him. He reserved his decision at that time.

The Iron League of New Jersey was organized two years ago and for the announced purpose of "protecting and advancing the interest and general welfare of the firms engaged in structural and ornamental iron work as employers." In the engagement of Mr. Brandle, the employing firms say they "have created a most unique situation, one without precedent in the country, which brings together the employer and organized labor on common ground, one man representing both interests for the betterment of both principals."

Brandle is Fourth Vice President of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers' Union; is President of the Ironworkers' District Council of New York and New Jersey, President of the Hudson County Building Trades Council, President of the Joint Arbitration Board of Building Trades Councils and head of the Material Men's Association.

He is also head of a real estate and insurance and contract bond business in Jersey City, and he was one of the principal movers in organization of the Labor National Bank of Jersey City, which began business in 1926. He is President of the Union Labor Investment Corporation, a member of the Journal Square Association, consisting of bankers and business men in Jersey City.

ARRESTED AS ROBBER OF SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

Young Negro Caught in Vestibule Where Man and Wife Were Attacked Last Week.

Samuel Johnson, a young negro, was held in $3,500 bail by Magistrate Dodge in the West Side Court yesterday for a hearing tomorrow on a charge that he was the burglar who on last Friday morning attacked Simon Hirsdansky, Principal of Public School 4, the Bronx, and his wife, Dr. Sara Hirsdansky, in their ground floor apartment at 100 Morningside Avenue. He had been arrested in the vestibule there early yesterday morning by Detectives Van Valkenbergh and Hennessey of the West 100th Street Police Station.

The detectives said Johnson had a screwdriver and three pass keys in his clothing. They also said that a cap, found with a blood-stained chisel in Morningside Park on the morning of the robbery, fitted him. They added that he had served three months in the workhouse for impersonating an officer and also a term for unlawful entry.

Mr. Hirsdansky was attacked when he found a burglar in a closet. His head was slashed with some sharp weapon in the struggle and his wife was bitten on the hand when she went to his aid. They overpowered the intruder and he agreed to depart peaseably and went out of a window, taking $60.

The detectives said they saw Johnson walking along Morningside Avenue yesterday morning, looking in areaways and glancing furtively behind him. He told them he had no home and that he was on his way to answer an advertisement for help at an address ten blocks distant and had gone into the vestibule because he was cold.

IDENTIFY Y. W. C. A. SUICIDE.

Friends of Miss Elizabeth Bogt Say Body Is Dressmaker's.

The body of the young woman found hanging from a pipe in the hallway leading to the roof of the Y. W. C. A., 610 Lexington Avenue, Tuesday morning, was identified yesterday at the Morgue as that of Elizabeth Bogt, 35 years old, a dressmaker, of 1,606 First Avenue. Three friends, Emma Renschle of 1,502 Macombs Road, Elizabeth Niemann of 463 West Sixty-fourth Street and Mary Deffley of 6 West 103d Street, made the identification.

Miss Niemann, who is known to her friends as Lulu, said she was the Elizabeth to whom Miss Bogt's farewell note was addressed.

The three girls said that Miss Bogt had brooded at intervals since her mother died in the State Hospital for the Insane at Central Islip twelve years ago. Four months ago, they said, she tried to take her life with illuminating gas, but she was prevented from carrying it through. She was taken to Bellevue at the time and later removed to Manhattan State Hospital. Then she spent some time in the country.

HOOVER EXPERIENCE IN RUSSIA STRESSED

KNOWN TO ALL, HE SAYS

Speaker Tells Engineers That Russia Will Yet Turn to America as an Old Friend.

Herbert C. Hoover's Russian experiences might prove invaluable to the nation in the near future, Charles W. Stuart of New York declared yesterday as 500 mining engineers, meeting in a routine session of their annual convention here, applauded the suggestion.

"America will surely play the foremost part in the rehabilitation of Russia," declared Mr. Stuart in an address on "Engineering Problems in Russia." "America will exert the guiding influence, whenever a constructive effort is made. This is a position which no other nation can possibly assume.

"The preference for America goes back to the traditional friendship between the two countries, to the prevailing Russian admiration for our accomplishments, to the unselfish and able effort to assist them following the revolution and to their ingrained confidence in our sense of fair play.

"Mr. Hoover's relief work in Russia has proved a foundational factor in the tremendous good-will and kindly feeling which American engineers have found existent wherever their footsteps have led them in Russia during the past two years. This assistance came spontaneously from the whole American people, and the impartial, kindly and efficient manner in which it was administered has made Mr. Hoover's name a household word throughout Russia.

"Incidentally, it should be remembered that Mr. Hoover prior to the war was engaged in some very important engineering work in Russia, in connection with the Kyschtim mines, which afforded him a substantial basis of background for his great relief work and for his future responsibilities in the American Government's relations with Russia."

The President of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the Soviet representative in America, applauded Mr. Stuart's remarks, as did a group of Soviet engineers who have been attending the convention.

Dealing with the present-day situation in Russia, Mr. Stuart said:

"They regard us as capitalistic, but capitalistic in the most progressive sense of all nations, because they feel that all classes participate in our capitalism as they do nowhere else in the world."

At a dinner of the Institute of Metals Division last night, at the University Club, 1 West Fifty-fourth Street, W. H. Bassett of the American Brass Company declared that advertising and the development of certain new industries were responsible for "a remarkable" increase in copper alloy demands. He discussed recent developments in copper smelting processes and the usefulness of some new copper alloys. Electrical refrigeration, radios, automobiles, and even safe wiring systems were requiring more copper every year, he said. Paul D. Merica, retiring Chairman, presided.

The election of the following officers was passed upon: S. Skowronski, Chairman; W. M. Corse, Secretary; Zay Jeffries, Vice Chairman; J. E. Freeman Jr., R. S. Archer, E. C. Bain, F. L. Wolfe, L. W. Spring and Paul D. Merica, members of the Executive Committee.

LOFT IN BROADWAY SWEPT BY A FIRE

A spectacular four-alarm fire in a six-story loft building at 547 Broadway, near Spring Street, attracted large crowds shortly before last midnight and endangered many near-by buildings. The blaze started on the second floor, spreading so rapidly that fifteen minutes after the first alarm had been sent in all the floors above the roof were enveloped in flames.

The origin of the fire is not known. The manner in which it spread, however, caused Fire Commissioner John J. Dorman and Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy to open an investigation into its cause.

The building runs back from Broadway to Mercer Street and is in the middle of a district devoted to clothing manufacturing. All the firms in the burned-out floors were such manufacturers and their goods, by the time the blaze was under control, were almost all burned.

After the fire had been partly subdued on the Broadway side of the building it began to blaze up fiercely once more.

Fire Chief John Kenlon responded on the fourth alarm, as did the Fire Commission and Fire Marshal. Deputy Chief Henry Helm was in charge on the Mercer Street side of the building, with Deputy Chief Thomas Dougherty on the Broadway side.

All traffic on Broadway was shut off between Fourth Street and Grand Street. The police reserves from the Oak, Beach, Elizabeth and Mercer Streets Stations were called to handle the crowds.

Next door to the burning building is the ten-story structure of the Charles Broadway House, Inc., two floors of which were somewhat damaged. It was on the site of this building, forty years ago this month, that one of the worst fires the city has ever known, took place. Chief Kenlon, a rookie at that time, almost lost his life when a wall collapsed.

SAYS FORD NEEDED BEAUTY.

Sir Lawrence Weaver Asserts Artists Aid Industry.

Henry Ford is a conspicuous example of the great industrialist who has had to turn aesthete in order to maintain his market in modern competition, according to Sir Lawrence Weaver, a director of the London Press Exchange, who spoke last night to a group of artists and manufacturers at a dinner given for him at the Architectural League Club by Alexander B. Trowbridge, Director of the American Federation of Arts.

"Industry is beginning to realize that the saturation point in efficiency and service, as well as practicability, is quickly being reached, and that the public must be attracted in another way," he said. "The public must be attracted by beauty of design.

"But before beauty can be incorporated in the products of mass production, the artist must be taken in as a partner in the enterprise from the start. He must study the problems which complicated machinery presents and must be willing to drop the old idea that industry and art are relentless enemies."

After long exposure to bad weather, after sudden changes of temperature, after mingling with crowds—gargle with Listerine, the safe antiseptic, when you get home.

This pleasant precaution has nipped many a cold and sore throat in the bud, before they became serious.

Listerine, being antiseptic, immediately attacks the countless bacteria that lodge in the mouth and throat where so many colds start. It is important, however, that you use it early—and frequently.

Most of the fall and winter months are "sore throat months" and for your own protection use Listerine night and morning. It is a good habit to acquire. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

DEFENDS CLOSING WOMEN'S INFIRMARY

Lack of funds is not the only reason for the Board of Trustees' decision to close the New York Infirmary for Women and Children, 321 East Fifteenth Street, on July 1, it was learned from a member of the board yesterday. There is no longer any necessity for a woman's hospital, run entirely by women physicians, she said. For that reason, when an attempt to raise the necessary money to keep the hospital in operation failed, the trustees decided that it no longer has a public appeal and its continued maintenance was not justified.

"When an appeal was issued for money to run the hospital," said the trustee, who does not want her name used, "not even enough money was raised to pay the expenses of the appeal. After careful consideration at a great many meetings it was finally decided that we were not justified in going into our principal to keep the hospital running. The idea of closing the infirmary was discussed a year ago, at which time the argument was made that it should be kept open until the Gotham Hospital, a new organization which will be staffed entirely by women doctors, is built. However, almost nothing has been done toward effecting that scheme, and its completion is far in the future.

"The trustees feel that the day of segregation of women doctors is over. There are opportunities for women doctors in many hospitals of New York, such as the Presbyterian, Woman's Hospital and Bellevue. For that reason a hospital for women doctors is no longer the crying need it was when the New York Infirmary was originally founded. In those days women doctors were not admitted to hospitals, and some place had to be provided for them.

"It is not a fair representation of the trustees' views to say that the hospital is being closed only because of lack of funds. Until recently the hospital was not by any means full. We have therefore come to the conclusion that to keep our institution open, and use up our funds, would not be justified."

The Women's Medical Association is still protesting against closing the infirmary. Dr. Elain P. Ralli, one of its officers, denied that the hospital did not have a great public appeal. She said that not only women physicians but the public is going to suffer if the hospital is closed. Dr. A. Eleanor Conover, also an officer of the association, said that it is very difficult for women doctors to get hospital affiliations even in institutions which do not exclude women. Such hospitals are not likely to appoint women when they have a long waiting list of men to satisfy, she said.

POLICE TO STUDY SOCIOLOGY

Fordham Will Begin Classes Tonight for Men and Women.

Men and women members of the New York Police Department will attend their first session of the Police Institute in the Woolworth Building at 8 o'clock tonight. These classes are being conducted under the auspices of the School of Sociology and Social Science of Fordham University. The Rev. William Duane, S. J., President of the University; the Rev. Matthew L. Fortier, S. J., Dean of the school; Chief Magistrate McAdoo and Police Commissioner Warren will greet the students and outline the course which covers the social service features of police court procedure and detection of crime.

This education of New York's policemen and patrolwomen is a free contribution of Fordham to the city, said a statement issued yesterday by the school. Leaders from other schools and agencies will participate in the conferences.

"Our aim is not to make sociologists of policemen but to give to such as are assigned to the work a somewhat broader 'social sense,' an outlook in the performance of their duty," said Father Fortier. "The experiment has already been commended by prominent members of the judiciary and members of the bar."

The first conference will be on "Society, its Definition and Divisions."

INVITE STUDENTS TO ITALY.

Universities Suggest Americans Stop There to Study.

The Casa Italiana of Columbia University during the past few weeks has received almost thirty messages from various Italian institutions of learning urging that American students going abroad visit Italy to study. The messages will be placed on exhibition in a few days.

To Italians living in the United States: In the name of the great Italian navigator who gave the world a new continent, this Royal University sends warmest greetings in the hope that they, in their hospitable and noble country, will maintain the tradition of the fatherland by promoting better understanding and amity between the two young and vigorous nations.

ASTORRE LUPATELLI, President.

The letters were sent to the Casa Italiana at the suggestion of Emilio Bodrero, Under-Secretary of State at the Italian Ministry of Education, and with the approval of the Italian Government. Special privileges for foreign students in Italy have been arranged in the form of reduced railway rates and other similar measures.

PLAN ORPHAN DRIVE IN ALL THE STATES

HOME INFLUENCE STRESSED

Committees will be formed in every State of the union to work for the welfare of orphans and other dependent children, under the terms of a resolution adopted yesterday at the closing session of the Child Welfare Conference at the Commodore.

The committees will urge uniform laws for the pension of poverty-stricken mothers to enable them to care for their children in their homes rather than in institutions, and measures to provide home life for destitute children.

This resolution, along with others aimed to help children who would otherwise lack the benefits of home life, were approved by delegates from every State and from twenty-four foreign countries.

Speakers at yesterday's session continued to emphasize the value of home life, and some predicted the day would come when institutions for destitute children would be replaced by organizations which would obtain "foster homes" for them.

"Various types of children do not thrive in institutions," declared Justice Samuel D. Levy of the Children's Court here. "On the contrary, they frequently become more and more retarded or fail for other reasons to respond to the group treatment. Another trouble with children in institutions is that they frequently become institutionalized, and leave the institution wholly unfitted to take their place in society.

"In private homes supervised by foster parents the child is given an opportunity to develop along normal lines and become a normal human being, and is fitted to go out into the world and fight life's battles. All the mechanics and artificialities of institutional life are happily lacking in the private home."

Mrs. Winifred Kemeran of Massachusetts said that mothers' aid laws there had proved successful.

The Chairman of the convention was A. George Dick, President, of Ossining. Among the speakers were Miss Marjory A. Martin of East Orange, N. J., Young People's Secretary of the Society of Congregational Church Women, who led the discussion on missionary work.

EXPLAINS GRAY REFUSAL.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—The much-discussed case of refusal by the British Ministry of Labor of a permit for Miss Allen Gray, an American actress, to appear in "Married Bachelors" at a theatre in London, came up in Commons today.

Sir Arthur Steel Maitland, Minister of Labor, stated that the permit was refused because Miss Gray's employer had not satisfied the department that every effort had been made to obtain the services of a British artists for the part. A large number of American and other foreign artists had received permits, he added, but in the case of ordinary parts which could be filled equally well by home talent permits were refused.

3 MORE MAGISTRATES GET POISON IN MAIL

Three more Magistrates reported yesterday that on the day before they had received small quantities of a powder, believed to be nitrate of silver, by mail. Magistrate Maurice H. Gottlieb, sitting in the Essex Market Court, said that the envelope containing the powder, received at his home, 17 East Eighty-fourth Street, was addressed in the same child-like hand with which similar envelopes had been addressed the day before to Chief Magistrate William McAdoo, Magistrates Edward Weil and August W. Dreyer, Justice Carroll Hayes of the East Harlem Municipal Court and clerks in both courts.

Mrs. Gottlieb, not knowing of the receipt of the envelopes by the other Magistrates, opened the one sent to her husband. There was no writing inside, but when she smelled the powder she was seized with a sneezing attack, which lasted five minutes.

Magistrate George W. Simpson reported the receipt of an envelope containing supposedly similar powder at his home at 337 Convent Avenue at about the time the envelope was delivered at the Gottlieb home. He did not open the envelope until he reached his court and, not being aware that envelopes had been received by the other jurists, threw its contents into the wastebasket. He was one of the Magistrates who received similar powder by mail last October.

Magistrate Frank Giorgio of Queens also received one of the letters containing the powder. The envelope was addressed to "F. Giorgio esq., of 90-05 188th st., Hollis, Long Island." It was postmarked at the Grand Central Station at 3 P. M. on Feb. 20. Detectives of the Jamaica Squad have joined the search for the sender. The powder has been sent to the District Attorney's office in Queens for analysis.

Warner Feddern, 26 years old, of 688 Hudson Street, who was arrested at the time on suspicion of having sent the missives, was held for trial in Special Sessions by Magistrate Simpson, but later was discharged. Feddern, in pleading not guilty at the time, told Magistrate Simpson that he believed acquaintances had sent the missives, some of which bore his name and address, as a practical joke.

SETS FIVE RECORDS ON ANTIPODES HOP

BREAKS 4 OTHER RECORDS

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Five aviation records were broken today by Harold (Bert) Hinkler, Australian flier, when he landed in his collapsible one-man airplane at Port Darwin, Australia, after fifteen and a half days of flight from Croydon. He had accomplished the longest solo flight ever made, the longest flight in a light plane, the first non-stop flight from London to Rome, the fastest journey from England to India and had cut twelve days from the previous record in flying from England to Australia.

Hinkler's feats are hailed here today as worthy to be set beside Lindbergh's historic crossing of the Atlantic. British leaders in statecraft as well as in aviation called it "a landmark in the progress of the empire united." It is expected that the young flier, nicknamed "the human bird," because of his habit of singing while at the controls, will receive a knighthood, such as rewarded Cobham, Ross, Keith Smith and other pioneers of British aviation.

Striking Features of Flight.

Scarcely had the news of Hinkler's exploit reached England when Sir Sefton Brancker, Air Vice Marshal, announced that a time-table was being worked out here for a regular seventeen-day service of larger passenger mail planes between England and Australia and a ten-day regular service between England and Cape Town across the British corridor in Africa, where Sir Alan Cobham is now charting a route.

Numerous striking features of Hinkler's exploit make it unique in the annals of aviation. In the first place, the plane in which it was accomplished has collapsible wings capable of being folded back so that the machine may be housed in any average garage. It has a special undercarriage, so that Hinkler required no help of mechanics in wheeling it about various landing fields along the journey. It has been, "as much as Lindbergh's, a one-man performance."

Cost Less Than Boat Trip.

Hinkler has used the same plane for various jaunts over Europe, racing it in numerous competitions. It is a standard model Avro-Avian, with a six-foot wing spread, propelled by a stock thirty-horsepower Cirrus engine. Its cruising speed is between ninety and 100 miles per hour. The plane costs less than the higher class automobiles, about $3,000, and the expense for gasoline, meals and hotel accommodations for the Australian flight are said to have been less than $250, or less than it would cost to go to Australia first class by boat. The boat trip from London to Freemantle, the nearest Australian port, takes thirty-two days.

The flight has surprised everybody here. When Hinkler left Croydon at dawn of Feb. 7 to go to Australia, few thought he would arrive. He had started once and failed. But after he reached Rome in a non-stop leap, Lloyd's refused to bet with the young airman's friends that he would not reach his goal, and aviation circles sat up and took notice. The day before his start Lloyd's was willing to grant a policy which would have netted Hinkler $12,000 today for a premium of $750.

He Plans to Land at Mother's Door.

Hinkler let the chance go. He was more interested in accomplishing the stunt of flying home to his widowed mother's gateway at Bundaberg, Australia, where he is due Friday. He had promised her in 1926 that the first chance he got he would fly home to see her. Dispatches tell of the plans for his home town's triumphal reception there Friday with bells pealing, bands playing and a clear way made through the street for the flier to land exactly at Mrs. Hinkler's door. The distance which Hinkler has flown is about 10,000 miles in a straight line, but it is nearer 12,000 by "the great circle" which the airman followed. The last lap was a thousand miles, across Timor Sea from Bima on Sumbawa, Dutch East Indies. This was the most anxious part of the flight, according to a radio message from Hinkler to The Evening Standard here this afternoon. The message reads in part:

"Australia at last. I arrived at Port Darwin after five hours of flying over the open sea. It was the most anxious part of the trip, for I was warned that rainstorms were breaking all along the route and at Bima I went over my machine with a flash lamp while the rain poured on the ground and lightning lit the nearby jungle. But despite an occasional storm, the engine ran perfectly, never missed a beat, despite her thousands of miles. Throughout the crossing, I saw no ship. The sea was absolutely deserted. But after five hours, I saw the coast of Australia and glided down on the airdrome packed with a cheering crowd."

The flier's wife sat up all last night to get the news of her husband's arrival. "I am the proudest woman in the world," she said today, "It was a great relief when the news came."

Although Hinkler is thus far no financial gainer by the flight he won a small wager from a friend, Francis Berles, Australian motorist, who is making an automobile journey to Australia. Before Berles started three months ago, Hinkler bet him that he would beat him home.

Bruce Congratulates Him.

A message of congratulations sent to the Royal Aero Club by Premier Bruce of Australia today says:

"Hinkler's flight is the greatest single-handed feat in the history of aviation. Hinkler's program day after day was maintained consistently, regularly and efficiently."

The High Commissioner of Australia, Sir Granville Ryrie, also compared Hinkler's exploit to that of the great American aviators. "It ranks with Lindbergh's as the greatest achievement in the history of aviation," he said.

The daily log of the flight shows the following stops, with straight line distances: Feb. 7, Rome, 900 miles; 8, Malta, 420 miles; 9 Tebrock, 650; 10 and 11, Ramleh, 650; 12, Basra, 800; 13, Jask, 700; 14, Karachi, 600; 15, Cawnpore, 600; 16, Calcutta, 600; 17, Rangoon, 750; 18, Victoria Point, Burmah, 450; 19, Singapore, 750; 20, Bandoeng, 600; Bima, 850; 22, Port Darwin, 870.

In each case the distance actually flown was much greater and for the total of 12,000 miles means ninety hourly. The total flying time was 134 hours, or six days continuous, night and day.

In a cable to the Air Press Agency Hinkler says his narrowest escape was in taking off at Singapore from a wet field, when he barely cleared an obstruction at the end of the airdrome.

Hinkler Is Australia's Hero.

PORT DARWIN, Australia, Feb. 22 (AP).—Bert Hinkler, a native of Australia, who has just completed a solo air voyage from England to this place, is the hero of the hour.

"I feel as I imagine Lindbergh felt when he landed in France," said the aviator today.

Congratulations have poured into Port Darwin from various parts of the world. He was the guest of honor at a dinner of the citizens tonight, and blushingly remarked that he did not deserve it when informed that the Naval and Military Club of Melbourne had started a movement with the object of having the commonwealth Government make him a grant of £10,000.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Feb. 22.—Cuttings of ivy taken from the Queen's Building at Rutgers University will be planted around the new Science Hall at the college of Puget Sound, Tacoma, Wash. Both were graduated from Rutgers in 1913, and one of the slips was taken from ivy planted by that class.

LINDBERGH TAKES 4 ON SURPRISE FLIGHT

SAYS VISIT IS "PERSONAL"

Flier "Would Like to Drop Out of Public Life"—Report Says He Will See Edsel Ford.

SELFRIDGE FIELD, Mount Clemens, Mich. Feb. 22.—Declaring that he would "like to drop out of public life," and apologetically avoiding newspaper men and photographers, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who made a surprise hop from St. Louis to Selfridge Field today, declined to discuss his trip after he landed here at 3:50 o'clock this afternoon.

Although Colonel Lindbergh gave no indication as to the purpose of his trip, except to say that it was a personal matter, it was widely rumored here that he had made arrangements with Edsel Ford for a conference on aviation matters.

"I don't want any of you boys to feel hurt," the Colonel said to newspaper men, "but I do not wish to give out any interviews, or have any pictures taken. I would like, instead, to drop out of public life. This is a purely personal trip and I would much prefer that you did not say anything about it."

With Colonel Lindbergh were four of the backers of his New York-to-Paris flight, H. M. Bixby, President of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce; Harry K. Knight, President of the St. Louis Flying Club; Frank H. Robertson, head of the Robertson air mail firm which formerly employed Lindbergh, and B. F. Mahoney, President of the Ryan Air Lines, makers of the Spirit of St. Louis.

Colonel Lindbergh landed at the far eastern side of the field. He was met there by army officers, who rushed him to the home of Major Thomas G. Lanphier, commander of the First Army Pursuit group.

Ten minutes after Colonel Lindbergh arrived Major Lamphier, flying from Buffalo, landed at the field. He immediately went to his quarters, where he greeted Colonel Lindbergh.

When Colonel Lindbergh hopped off from St. Louis at 10:12 o'clock this morning, neither he nor any of his party hinted at their destination except to say they were going east. They flew in a new Ryan cabin plane.

On Feb. 29 Colonel Lindbergh is scheduled to fly to Albany to address a special committee session of the New York Legislature on aviation, and on March 1 he is to meet his mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh, in Boston. Mrs. Lindbergh is to fly Monday from Detroit to Boston, where she will be a guest of honor of the National Education Association Convention.

THOUSANDS ATTEND PALM BEACH DANCE

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 22.—The thirty-fourth annual Washington's Birthday ball at the Royal Poinciana Hotel, given in aid of local charities, surpassed in splendor and in attendance any of its predecessors. Guests of the hotel, which is filled to capacity, guests of other hotels and residents from all the near-by resorts made up the thousands who attended.

American flags decorated the hotel and a portrait of George Washington was hung in the main lobby. The great ballroom, transformed to represent the ancient city of Babylon in King Nebuchadnezzar's time, was ablaze with color. Lining the "processional way of Babylon" were the odd-shaped temples of the gods.

Two orchestras played for continuous dancing and at midnight supper was served in the dining hall adjoining the ballroom. Many dinner parties before the ball were given in the Poinciana Garden Grill.

Washington's Birthday was also celebrated with special dinner and supper dances at the new Palm Beach Hotel, at the Vineta, in the Venetian Gardens, at Le Montmartre, in the Muleteer grill of the Alba and at many other of the hotels and clubs.

The Palm Beach Yacht Club regatta, which began Sunday, ended this evening with the yachtsmen's dinner at the club, when trophies were presented to the winners. Many pennant-trimmed craft in Lake Worth, gayly decorated buildings along the lake front and at night thousands of colored bulbs on the boats and buildings have presented an air of festivity throughout the week.

In the fourth of the series of current events lectures this afternoon Will Durant spoke on "Is Progress a Delusion?" before a large gathering of members and their guests in the music room of Mr. and Mrs. Paris Singer's apartment in the Everglades Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grainger Smith entertained at dinner in the Orange Gardens of the Everglades Club in honor of Mrs. George Fitch Hatton, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vernon Skiff. Nearly fifty guests were present.

Mrs. E. L. Clarence Jones, who is spending the season at Whitehall, gave a dinner this evening at the Everglades Club.

Arrivals at Whitehall included Mrs. Q. A. Shaw 2d of Boston, Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman Jr. of Hamilton, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Leonard of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Corroon of Massapequa, L. I., gave a birthday dinner at Whitehall for James Reeves of New York, who with Mrs. Reeves is spending the season there.

Mrs. G. Grant Mason Jr. arrived tonight at the Everglades Club, joining her mother, Mrs. Lyman B. Kendall of Washington; she will remain until after the Everglades Club costume ball on March 1. Mrs. Mason came from Havana by airplane.

Hosts at the Wednesday dinner-dance at Whitehall, attended by more than 400 persons, included Mr. and Mrs. John Motley Morehead, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hopkins, Elwood E. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. David B. Gann, Mrs. Henry McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. William McNeill, Mrs. Henry McSweeney, Mr. and Mrs. Finley Peter Dunne, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Holden, W. B. Banks, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hutton, Richard K. Mellon, C. H. White and many others.

Mrs. Frederick L. Richards gave a dinner-dance this evening at La Colmena, the home of her father, Jules S. Bache. Dinner was served in the dining hall and many additional guests came later, when Jimmie Downey's Orchestra played for dancing.

Mrs. E. E. Wetherill of Philadelphia is a guest of Mrs. Raymond T. Baker at Chiora.

Mr. and Mrs. Collier Platt, Miss B. Ives of New York and Miss Anne Shiras of Pittsburgh are guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wight at their lake front home.

MRS. LEEDS, HOSTESS TO ANASTASIA, BACK

Mrs. William B. Leeds, the former Princess Xenia of Russia, who invited Anastasia Tchaikovsky to be her guest for six months, returned yesterday on the Anchor liner California after a pleasure cruise to the West Indies.

Mrs. Leeds left the liner on a special tug chartered by her husband. As far as could be learned, her Russian guest, who is believed by some to be the daughter of the late Czar, was not on the tug.

Mrs. Leeds and her sister, the Princess Chavchavadze, received a surprise when, on boarding the tug, they met Mr. Leeds, who had made a hurried trip from the Pacific Coast. Mr. Leeds, it was said, had journeyed from San Francisco by airplane to take a train that would get him here in time.

Mr. and Mrs. Leeds departed apparently for their home in Oyster Bay. Servants at the home said the couple had not arrived and were not expected. Inquiry at hotels at which they usually stop also failed to reveal them and friends said they believed the couple had probably joined Mme. Tchaikovsky, who has kept in seclusion since her arrival from Europe.

Emanu-El League Dance Tonight.

The young members of the Emanu-El League, an organization associated with Temple Emanu-El, will give a supper-dance tonight aboard the liner Paris, which is docked at West Fifteenth Street and the North River. The advisory board is headed by Mrs. Simon Frankel and Henry M. Toch. Mrs. Joseph Stroock is Chairman of the patronesses committee and Mrs. Louis Fisher is assisting with the arrangements.

FRANCE ABANDONS GLOZELIAN FIELD

Arts Ministry's Action Is Blow to Those Who Held "Relics" There Were Neolithic.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—The Ministry of Fine Arts has abandoned the project of listing Glozel as a domain of scientific interest under Government supervision. This announcement was made yesterday by Edouard Herriot, the Minister, in a letter addressed to the Prefect of the Department of Allier, in which Glozel is situated, and in duplicate letters sent to Dr. Moriet, a Vichy scientist, and Emile Fradin, on whose farm the alleged neolithic discoveries were made.

When the controversy first developed over the inscriptions on tiles and relics which were dug up at Glozel the Ministry of Fine Arts had already expressed interest in the investigations and ordered the Glozel field temporarily listed pending inquiry as to whether it would be permanently classified. Meanwhile the excavations, with the exception of those conducted officially by the international committee of scientists, were suspended.

Following the announcement of the Ministry of Fine Arts yesterday, the Fradin family and Dr. Morlet declared that they would resume their excavations in an effort to unearth indisputable proof of the authenticity of the finds.

The Government's action is a hard blow to the Glozelians and even to their lawsuit, set for the end of this month, in which archaeological authorities will be called to testify. However, the Glozelians are marshaling their "proofs" now with almost daily finds in other parts of France, which they hold reveal inscriptions identical with those found at Glozel.

Most important of these discoveries, it is declared, are those made by Dr. Depéret of the Academy of Sciences in subterranean galleries at Puyravel, not far from Glozel, which the savant asserts, have every appearance of authenticity and are similar to the Glozel finds.

The inscribed tablets, pottery and other materials dug up at Glozel were first given to the world as evidences of the work of neolithic man, but the international committee of archaeologists which examined them declared some were fakes and the others genuine but of relatively recent origin.

The Fradin family threatened to sue two savants who accused them of fraud by "planting" the materials, and M. René Dussaud, an expert, has filed suit charging fraud in connection with the committee's report.

Meanwhile José Théry has announced that he will ask the Court at Vichy next week to appoint a committee of experts to re-examine the finds.

DR. ERSKINE HEADS JUILLIARD SCHOOL

IS ACCOMPLISHED PIANIST

The election of John Erskine of Columbia University as President of the Juilliard School of Music was announced yesterday by the directors of the institution, who said the trustees of the Juilliard Musical Foundation had confirmed the election. The school has hitherto been under the immediate direction of an administrative committee. Professor Erskine bade farewell to his classes in English literature at Columbia the first of the year, at which time he announced that he would take an extended leave of absence from the university. Last May 19 he was elected Chairman of the Committee on Administration of the Juilliard School, which included two other members, Paul M. Warburg and John M. Perry. Since that time Professor Erskine has been active in the affairs of the institution, which also administers the Juilliard Graduate School and the Institute of Musical Art. The work of these organizations in the field of musical education was made possible by the gift of more than $10,000,000 by the late Augustus D. Juilliard.

In his student days Professor Erskine studied music at Columbia with Edward MacDowell and composed songs and hymns, one of the latter having found a place in the Episcopal prayer book. After twenty-six years of teaching he became famous also as an author by his novel, "The Private Life of Helen of Troy." At the same time he resumed his study of music and appeared early in 1927 as pianist at two public concerts for the benefit of the MacDowell Colony at Peterborough, N. H. This month he also appeared in Ann Arbor and Buffalo as soloist with the New York Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Walter Damrosch.

"In granting Professor John Erskine indefinite leave of absence in order that he may assume the Presidency of the Juilliard School of Music, we feel that he is not in any true sense severing his relation with Columbia University, but merely changing the form and field of his educational activity. We hope very much that ways and means will be found to bring about close cooperation between the work of Columbia University and that of the Juilliard Foundation, since it is our earnest desire to contribute whatever we may to strengthen and develop the movement to raise the standard and broaden the field of influence of the fine arts in American education and American life.

"The Juilliard Foundation offers perhaps the most notable opportunity that has yet developed in the United States for the study, the appreciation, and the wide understanding of music. Professor Erskine's rare combination of intellectual gifts and accomplishments makes him the ideal executive to set so important an undertaking on the right path."

HAMMERSTEIN PLANS PRODUCTIONS ABROAD

Arthur Hammerstein arrived in New York yesterday from Palm Beach and will sail tomorrow night on the Olympic to produce "Rose-Marie" in Berlin. Mr. Hammerstein will be accompanied by his wife, Dorothy Dalton.

"Rose-Marie" will open about April 1 at the Admiral's Palast in Berlin, and will probably be followed in the Fall by "Golden Dawn." While abroad, Mr. Hammerstein will also arrange to produce "Golden Dawn" in both Paris and London.

The German "Rose-Marie" venture will be unique in that Mr. Hammerstein will not be associated with a foreign producer but will operate as an individual. Mr. Hammerstein declares that he will follow a like plan in his other foreign activities, and to this end will establish "producing headquarters" in Paris, London and Berlin.

'STILL WATER' ON SATURDAY

An organization entitled The Mayfair Art Players will produce their first play on Saturday night of this week at the Village Playhouse, 45 Grove Street, in Greenwich Village. The play, "Still Water," is the work of I. R. Franklyn. It will be followed by another play by Mr. Franklyn, "South Side," in which James Kirkwood will have the chief rôle.

The Mayfair group will specialize in "plays by unknown writers of American origin." Each play will be presented for four weeks—nightly, including Sundays, and with Saturday matinees.

"Behold, the Bridegroom" to Move.

George Kelly's "Behold, the Bridegroom," which was scheduled to close at the Cort Theatre on Saturday night, will instead move to the Majestic Theatre next Monday night. Mr. Kelly's play, which Rosalie Stewart is sponsoring, opened at the Cort Theatre on Dec. 26.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Chicago" will follow "The Spider" at the Century Theatre, opening on March 12.

Lew Fields's next musical production, written by the Messrs. Fields, Rogers and Hart, will be entitled "Present Arms." It will go into rehearsal tomorrow and is scheduled for presentation at the Mansfield Theatre.

John Hunter Booth's "Wolves" will probably open on Broadway the week of March 12. It will be seen the preceding week at the Bronx Opera House.

The Amec-Artlee production of "The Merchant of Venice" will end its run at the Broadhurst in another two weeks. It will begin a tour March 19 in Washington.

"These Modern Women" will be published by Boni & Liveright.

THE PLAY

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

Lynching Melodrama.

ROPE, a play in three acts, by David Wallace and T. S. Stribling based on the latter's novel "Teeftallow." Staged by Frank Merlin; setting by Cleon Throckmorton; produced by James W. Elliott, by arrangement with Mr. Wallace. At the Biltmore Theatre.

Out of the raw stuff of a Southern village and the violent tyrannies of human relations there, David Wallace and T. S. Stribling have fashioned a stirring melodrama, "Rope," mounted at the Biltmore last evening. They have written it, for the most part effectively, from Mr. Stribling's novel "Teeftallow," which had considerable vogue two or three seasons ago. In an embarrassed curtain speech Mr. Stribling confessed that the viciousness of life in a small Tennessee community had been considerably accented for purposes of stage melodrama. Let the blame rest on his own head. Playgoers will be content to know that, after an awkward beginning, the play flames with the brutal passions of lynching mobs and masked gangs of floggers. As a pious female revivalist declares in nasal tones: "Courts are all right in their place, but they have no place when a real crime has been committed." Under cover of darkness the "garage gang" relieves the officers of law of unpleasant responsibilities.

All these venomous barbarities the authors apparently lay at the door of a hysterical revival. Driving sin out of Irontown, the salvationists upset the tranquillity of the villagers and ignorantly rouse passions that are translated into the lynching of a murderer and a likable negro, the flogging of a local gang leader and persecution of all undesirables.

But the motives, counting for less than the ferocities, become less apparent as the play moves on. Against a background of local affairs discussed on the veranda of a dingy hotel, "Rope" collects the laborers, the Sheriff, the village boss, a milliner and a Yankee engineer who speaks recklessly of Southern customs and of religion. With the friendliest of intentions, this Yankee, Mr. Ditmas, provokes innumerable animosities. The revivalists deplore his infidelity. The local gang leader, Abner Teeftallow, resents his attentions to Nessie Sutton. And every one snarls at his cool indifference to established traditions.

Yet, as crises come burning around the village square, it is this engineer who understands the inhuman forces at play, the perils of a tense moment, the prejudices and suspicions that keep the air electric. Although he cannot prevent the lynching of Peck Bradley, he saves Nessie from stripping and stoning by the white caps when gossip has branded her as a strumpet. And he narrowly avoids a flogging himself after he has publicly denounced the lynchers as cowards and murderers.

Making the most out of its material, "Rope" shows the lynchers hustling their screaming victim across the square at night. The rope and the noose, flung across a branch behind the hotel, coil a smoky, menacing shadow in the ghastly glare of automobile headlights. Struggles in the darkness, the black forms of the night mischief makers, furtive meetings, loose gossip, a shotgun wedding, catcalls, taunts, leering insults, sanctimonious busy-bodies, prying, plotting, and the spectacle of Nessie Sutton thrust out of the hotel and harried by a parcel of malevolent rascals—all these scenes and incidents make amends for the preliminary awkwardness of the play.

Employing the idioms of melodrama, the acting is picturesque and nervous. Crane Wilbur keeps the heroics of the Yankee engineer well in hand in an authoritative bit of acting. As Teeftallow, Ben Smith, a graduate of the Dallas Little Theatre, catches the rude strength and ignorance of a hill boy. He is well cast, and he makes the most of a rich opportunity. Mary Carroll, as the hounded Nessie, plays the heroine attractively although without much originality. As the malicious chatterbox, angular and acid, Elizabeth Patterson makes the female revivalist a positive figure in the play. Whether Ralph Cummings was fumbling with his lines last evening, or whether he was playing his part that way intentionally, defied the combined researches of the first-nighters. It was an academic point at best. For his Railroad Jones, mealy-mouthed, subtle, whining and evasive, was a colorful piece of type-impersonation, generally enjoyed by the audience.

Cleon Throckmorton has designed a striking yet patently serviceable setting of a grimy hotel and ratty village store-fronts. Without being artful or imaginative, Frank Merlin's direction turns the last half of the play into good, serviceable melodrama. And behind the pyrotechnics of "Rope" there is always a suggestion of native drama and true character portraits.

German Doctor Tells How Miss Cavell Died; She Did Not Faint, Despite Official Report

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—Edith Cavell was shot at the stake and death was instantaneous, Dr. Gottfried Benn, eyewitness to the shooting, asserted today in a special article in the Achtuhr Abendblatt. Dr. Benn was serving as chief surgeon in the Brussels area for the German Army and was called upon to be present at the trial of Miss Cavell and at her execution. He pronounced the nurse dead and placed her in her coffin, he declares.

This version is entirely different from the German report that Miss Cavell fainted while being taken to the execution ground and was shot in the head by an officer while she was unconscious. Dr. Benn believes that he is the only person now alive who witnessed both the trial and the execution, and he has broken his long silence regarding the Cavell affair on account of a recent English film depicting the life and fate of the Englishwoman.

Dr. Benn asserts that Miss Cavell admitted in court that she was the moving spirit in an organization to help Belgians and British escape into Holland and that at least 300, virtually all able-bodied men, were delivered from the Germans in the course of one month. She also confessed that the organization had worked more than a year before she was arrested in the Summer of 1915. Her Belgian lawyer made no effort to prove that his client was innocent, but appealed to the mercy of the court.

Of seven who were condemned to death in this trial, only two, Miss Cavell and an engineer named Brocque, paid the penalty. Dr. Benn was ordered on a date in the Autumn of 1915 to take an auto to the outskirts of Brussels early in the morning. There he saw two squads of twelve men each facing a wall near which two stakes had been freshly driven. Miss Cavell, accompanied by a preacher, walked to one stake, Brocque to the other, where they were blindfolded and their hands tied to the stakes. Dr. Benn says that twelve bullets hit Miss Cavell and she suffered instant death, although she remained standing, tied to the stake.

Dr. Benn then felt Miss Cavell's pulse and, having pronounced her dead, he said, untied her hands and placed her in a waiting casket. The burial place was kept secret, he says, on account of the fear of an uprising among the Belgians and demonstrations at the nurse's grave.

BUYS INTO UNITED ARTISTS.

Special to The New York Times.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 22.—Sam Goldwyn, motion picture producer, has bought a substantial interest in the United Artists Corporation and has been elected a director of that corporation, according to announcement today by Joseph M. Schenck, President.

Goldwyn thus becomes a business partner of Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Schenck, Charlie Chaplin, Gloria Swanson and D. W. Griffith.

Goldwyn adds Vilma Banky and Ronald Coleman to the United Artists galaxy which already includes John Barrymore, Dolores Del Rio, the Talmadge sisters and Edwin Carew.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP).—Florenz Ziegfeld said tonight that he did not think there would be another "Follies."

The producer, here in connection with the opening of a musical version of "The Three Musketeers," declared that actors' salaries and the cost of production made it virtually impossible to realize a profit on the "Follies" and that he intended to devote his efforts to musical plays instead. Then, too, he continued, he did not wish to be classed "with those responsible for the present day vulgar reviews."

To Fight Showing of Cavell Film.

The Board of Directors of the United German Societies of the City of New York, at a special meeting yesterday, decided to take such appropriate steps as might be advisable to prevent the showing of the Edith Cavell film, "Dawn," the American production rights of which have been obtained by Arch Selwyn.

BERLIN HAS LONDON BAN IBANEZ FILMS

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—It became known today that, in addition to the film "Dawn," shewing the martyrdom of Nurse Cavell, other war pictures revealing the Germans in a bad light have been objected to with success by the German Government. The manager of the Metro-Goldwyn Company announced today that "Mare Nostrum," which shows German U boats in action, has already been withdrawn because of complaints, and "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" may also be taken off for the same reason.

The producers of "Dawn" assert that they will persist in their attempt to show it, but T. P. O'Connor, President of the Board of Film Censors, who sailed to New York today on the Berengaria, declared before his departure: "I daresay efforts will be made to secure an exhibition of the film despite the ban, but unhesitatingly say I think they won't succeed. I believe the Home Office has the same objection as the Foreign Office and ourselves. I have had only one letter criticizing the action of the board and that was from my good friend George Bernard Shaw, who is always wrong. The board naturally is bound to consider the opinions of many of the most eminent statesmen of Europe and in doing so have very directly attempted to bring about a spirit of pacification in Europe which would be most helpful in preventing future wars. It was the theme we objected to rather than the manner in which it was played."

The Johannesburg correspondent of The London Times says the Deputy Commissioner of Police of Witwatersrand has advised all film firms within his district not to negotiate for the right to show "Dawn," which is banned.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

FIRST 'MIGNON' SUNG TO HOLIDAY THRONG

MISS TALLEY AS PHILINE

MIGNON, opera in three acts and four scenes, from Goethe's "Wilhelm Meister." Book in French by Barbier and Carre. Music by Ambroise Thomas. At the Metropolitan Opera House.

Mignon	Lucrezia Bori
Philine	Marion Talley
Wilhelm Meister	Mario Chamlee
Laerte	Angelo Bada
Jarno	Paolo Ananian
Frederic	Ellen Dalossy
Antonio	Louis D'Angelo

Conductor, Louis Hasselmans.

Between the holiday crowds of Washington's Birthday and the customary turn of a quieter social season at Ash Wednesday the Metropolitan was twice packed to the doors for yesterday's pair of operas, "Mignon" by day and "Aida" by night. There was a matinee line of standees around the block from Broadway.

Beniamino Gigli's name was canceled owing to illness and Mario Chamlee sang the tenor in this year's first hearing of Ambroise Thomas's tuneful opera, with Lucrezia Bori, Marion Talley, Clarence Whitehill and others heard in a fresh and charming revival last year.

Miss Talley, on her mettle after wild rumors as to a renewal or otherwise when her three years' opera contract should expire next May, sang the actress Philine's air, "Je suis Titania," in the castle park of Act 3, to an ovation. There were echoes backstage, where the previous day's rumors were frankly imputed to malicious meddlers or "fool friends." Out in the audience room seasoned operagoers declared the young soprano had distinguished herself by yesterday's artistic performance.

Miss Bori, whose Mignon took its place last season among the happiest personal revivals of a classic rôle, was applauded from her first-act "Connais-tu le pays?" to the last scene in the home of the restored Lothario. Mr. Whitehill had the old minstrel's part, again showing his fine mastery of the high traditions of French art, Miss Dalossy also had her neat moment as the boy Frederick in Philine's dressing room, as did Bada in the business of the actor-manager and, in other rôles, Ananian and d'Angelo.

Chamlee, singing for the first time here, in the Wilhelm Meister of Goethe's old-time romance, though he has appeared in it in the West, proved his versatile worth as a lyric artist in one after another of the melodiously familiar tenor airs. He sang with freedom in high range, with flexibility of poetic phrase and with lover-like ardor. Ruth Page, too, who had danced before only in "The Bartered Bride," returned with the ballet in a gypsy dance arranged by August Berger. Mr. Hasselmans conducted a rare performance, that brought memories of French opera "when Grau was consul."

Jeanne Gordon rejoined the Metropolitan stars in last evening's performance of Aida," in which the tall and comely contralto was seen as Egypt's royal Amneris for the first time this year. Miss Mueller, Messrs. Jagel, De Luca, Pinza and Gustafson sang again and Mr. Serafin conducted. An official announcement was made of tonight's "Faust," in which Mme. Alda as Marguerite will make her last appearance this season.

"UNDER THE RED ROBE."

New Operetta Has Walter Woolf and Evelyn Herbert in Chief Roles.

"Under the Red Robe," an elaborate operetta based on Stanley J. Weyman's novel of the same name, will have its first performance in Hartford on March 5 under the auspices of the Shuberts. The leading rôles will be played by Walter Woolf, who recently appeared here in "Countess Maritza," and Evelyn Herbert, last seen in "My Maryland." The others in the cast will include William Danforth, Bartlett Simmons, Gloria Foy, Zella Russell, Harry K. Morton, Arnold Korff and Joe Wagstaff.

Harry B. Smith made the adaptation from the novel and also supplied the lyrics, while the music has been composed by Jean Gilbert, who wrote the score for "Katja." J. C. Huffman is staging the production. After several weeks on tour "Under the Red Robe" will open the new Forrest Theatre, now being completed, in Philadelphia. The attraction may not come to New York before next season.

Maria Kurenko in Benefit Concert.

Maria Kurenko, Russian soprano, formerly a member of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, gave a benefit concert in the Town Hall yesterday afternoon for the Russian Orthodox Church of Christ the Savior. Her audience, made up for the most part of the singer's compatriots, applauded her enthusiastically in a program that ranged from classic Italian airs and operatic selections through modern French and English songs to works of Tchaikovsky, Glinka, Moussorgsky and other Russian composers. Mme. Kurenko was assisted by Pierre Luboshutz, pianist; Mme. Savitzky, harpist, and Nicolai Berezowsky, violinist.

Newcomers in English "Martha."

The Misses Vasa an Oelheim were popular newcomers in Flotow's crystalline quartets, duets, arias and ensembles of English "Martha" at the Gallo Theatre last evening, following the American Opera Company's eleventh performance of "Faust" at a crowded holiday matinee. As in the previous evening's premiere, "Martha" was no polyglot costume-concert last night, but a musical play that recalled vividly the English light operas of the last century's later decades. Once again young voices blended in many a remembered cadence and the English words carried clearly over Conductor Balaban's quick and lively orchestra. The revival is repeated for this week's four remaining performances, and a seventh time next Monday.

'LE CONCERT SPECTACLE' AIDED BY TITTA RUFFO

Titta Ruffo's admirers to the number of a thousand or so waited for the opera baritone in a holiday concert of a half-dozen artists held last evening in the generous spaces of Carnegie Hall. A Metropolitan stage setting borrowed from the first act of "Lucia" lent color to the scheme of this "first American performance" of what was said to be a French idea, known as "Le Concert Spectacle." Europe, it was said, had devised some such varied personnel and scenic background of an outdoor musicale, as a means of "giving the classical concert a new lease of life" in an age of jazz and radio.

Mr. Ruffo, magnificent in poise and unique in voice, despite a reported cold, appeared just before 10 o'clock to great applause, singing an Italian opera air and songs in French and English, with Antony Paganucci at the piano. He filled the hall with ease and his songs, though they were not in the order of the printed bill, gave unusual representation of the famous artist in an unfamiliar field.

Mario Corti, an Italian violinist of ability, now resident here and lately heard at Wanamaker's, played his share of the program before the vocal star, instead of at the evening's end, assisted by Vito Carnevali as accompanist. Others in their turn were the Misses Lucia Carlino and Evelyn Hagara, singers; Boris Resenfield, piano soloist, and Sandra Ratti, a dancer.

EMANU-EL CHOIR IN CONCERT

Varied Program Well Given Under Lazare Saminsky's Leadership.

The Emanu-El Choir of New York, conducted by Lazare Saminsky, gave a concert of old and new choral music last night in Town Hall. Assisting artists included Ruth Rodgers, soprano; Nancy Hitch, mezzo-soprano; Henry Clancy, tenor; Carl Schlegel, baritone; Lilla Kalman, violinist, and Gottfried Federlein, organist.

The long and interesting program was made up of works of widely varying types, ranging from medieval Russian church music of the eleventh century and early English, French and Italian madrigals to works of contemporary composers. Many of the choral pieces were arranged by Mr. Saminsky from manuscripts collected in the Near East, and there were also three of his original compositions, "Adon Olam," sung in Hebrew, an arrangement of Psalm 137, and "Rachelina," a song based on a Spanish-Hebrew melody.

The singing of the choir was notable for fine quality and volume of tone, precision of attack and artistic phrasing. There was in everything they did a spirit of high musical idealism that communicated itself to a sympathetic audience and won deserved applause.

MAX DAREWSKI HERE.

Composer Comes From London to Complete Score of "Dream Dress."

Max Darewski, well known as a composer of light opera music, arrived yesterday from London on the Olympic to complete the score of a musical comedy that will be produced by the Shuberts. The show, Mr. Darewski said, will be entitled "The Dream Dress," and is the work of Edward Knoblock. Mr. Darewski will be in this country for two months.

Also on the Olympic was Richard Rodgers, composer of "Peggy-Ann," "A Connecticut Yankee" and various other shows. Mr. Rodgers said that he is now working on the music of a new production, the scenes of which will be laid in Italy.

Mark Hambourg, Pianist, Arrives.

Among the artists who arrived yesterday from Southampton via Cherbourg on the White Star liner Olympic was Mark Hambourg, the pianist, who said he had not played in New York since 1915. He has just ended a tour of 120 concerts and is going to Canada, commencing his season at Toronto on Saturday night.

CODIFYING, LIMITED.

Senator BORAH has frequently expressed himself on the urgency of codifying international law. Before he would consent to have the United States join the World Court he would insist upon having a completely new international code for the judges to administer. Apparently, he has at times seemed to think that this great work could be done overnight. That is not the opinion of jurists. They see the necessity of going slow and spending much time and labor on the recasting and restatement of the law of nations. But Senator BORAH has now seen the desirability of first taking up one section of it. His resolution introduced in the Senate for a recodification of maritime law is a proposal at once moderate and timely. It falls in with the ideas expressed by several public men of England. Nor would the Senator now put an impossible time limit on the undertaking. He will be content if it can be achieved before 1931, when reconsideration of the Washington Naval Treaty will be coming due, and may lead to a further limitation of the strength of the fighting fleets.

Such a consummation would be helped and hastened if order could be brought into the present chaotic condition of the law of the sea. It was sharply challenged, and in some ways seemingly brought into contempt, during the great war. The blame for this rests upon no particular nation. If Great Britain and France began it, the United States soon became their eager imitator. The undoubted result was to create a great deal of uncertainty regarding the rights and protection of ships of commerce in war time. As THE TIMES has pointed out, this clouding of maritime law has been a powerful if unavowed influence in the revival of plans, whether in Great Britain, on the Continent or in the United States, for much larger navies. If international law on this limited subject could be made definite and sure, a part of the motive for making ships of war more numerous and more powerful would be taken away. Senator BORAH rightly perceives that this is a work which can be done only by agreement among the leading maritime powers. His resolution, with the debating of it, which is bound to come in this country as well as abroad, certainly points to a step in the right direction.

NO SNAP HIGHER FARE.

Out of the "maze of technicalities" in which the transit suits are involved, subway users will hail one development with gratitude and relief. The Interborough will not arbitrarily put into effect a higher fare. It will wait for the permissive order of a competent court. It is to be hoped that even if the Federal Court takes jurisdiction, it will find it possible to make some sort of disposition of the case which will preserve the five-cent fare pending final determination of the matters in controversy.

There is a difference between this case and the ordinary public utility dispute which will appeal to the layman, if it does not to the lawyer. The client of a gas company is put to no great inconvenience in the adjustments a pending rate case may require in his monthly bill. But to make the millions of men and women using the subways every day change their habits as well as their dimes, and go to the bother of keeping rebate slips against the day the Court might possibly decide in their favor, would be an imposition on the public not to be tolerated if it can be fairly avoided.

Tokens, rebate slips, adjusted turnstiles, refurbished ticket-boxes, recruited ticket-choppers have all figured in the stories of the woes to come. These weapons savor too much of flame-throwers in war. Judicial process should be able to do without them, and Mr. RANSOM'S promise is an earnest of a reasonable attitude on the part of the company officials. No layman can hope to follow the legal intricacies of the present controversy. But he could well wish for a greater spirit of moderation than that which characterized some of the earlier utterances and threats emanating from both sides of it. The issue is joined, public officials and the courts are presumably competent to protect the citizen's interests, and he will have to possess his soul in such patience as he can command while the lawyers have their say.

TIME AND THE CRIMINAL.

There is some moral satisfaction in seeing SINCLAIR, that master architect of fraud and corruption, found guilty of criminal contempt and sentenced to jail. As in the lesser matter of contempt of the Senate, he can stave off imprisonment for one knows not how long. He can spend still more on lawyers and legal proceedings. The Court of Appeals and, if that is unkind, the Supreme Court, which has described his major transaction as "fraud" and "corruption," will be asked to protect his tender innocence. There is just impatience because a rich malefactor, after four years of prosecution, still goes unwhipped of justice and is now able to postpone it for his collateral but characteristic effort to debauch a jury as he had debauched an Executive Department.

Tardiness of justice and legal means to obstruct it are a familiar blot upon the American system of criminal law. Murderers are not usually rich; but they are often able to make their road to the chair a long one. Bribery, an attempt upon the moral life of a State, is in its intentions and its consequences, if it remain hidden or if, exposed, it goes unpunished, a crime more disastrous to the Commonwealth than many murders. It breeds imitators and successors. It leads to a cynical and despairing view of governmental affairs. Wealth honestly gained and used is suspected and hated by the shallow. The world of business and the world of politics become subject to unreasonable suspicion. The Sinclairs and Doheny's and Falls seem like monstrous anachronisms. After a period of necessary purification, figures which seem to come from the dark days of GRANT'S Administration loom up, as crude, as sinister, and with incomparably ampler means to buy whatever they want.

Our indignation because for some time SINCLAIR can continue to buy time and keep out of prison shouldn't make us forget that he has been getting stiff social punishment. Speedily sentenced and locked up, he would have been forgotten. He has protracted his infamy. New and damning details have been elicited and will be used in the trial of him and FALL next April. He has lost his great oil lease. That may not bother him; nor his lengthening roll of fees and expenses and handouts to his various henchmen. But every month and year of delay, every proceeding and trial, however dilatory, add matter to his indictment and reveal the man in fuller repulsiveness.

He is in contempt of the Senate. He is in contempt of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Most of all, he is in contempt of the American people. They know him. They will remember him. What if the turnkeys are tired waiting for him? By bars none the less real because invisible he is shut out from the community of honorable citizens. He is a convict for life, if as yet he hasn't donned prison garb.

THE S-4 COURT.

Extraordinary are the findings of the naval court summoned to inquire into the sinking of the submarine S-4 in collision with the Paulding. The commanders are held to be "jointly responsible." Admiral BRUMBY, in charge of the salvage work, is condemned for failing in "superior and intelligent guidance." On the other hand, the Navy Department is praised for making full and energetic preparations to save the officers and men of the submarine. The emphasis upon departmental efficiency is in painful contrast with the severity of the judgment upon the naval officers.

As to Admiral BRUMBY, the stigma will leave an indelible mark upon his career if he cannot prove that he has been unjustly treated. He should welcome a court-martial. Unless by his orders or omissions he was responsible for a sacrifice of life, he seems to have been harshly judged. It is true that the court found his replies to questions about the construction of submarines and the management of salvage vessels unsatisfactory. Yet it says that "the plans he approved, conceived by an expert staff, of which Captain KING was the senior, were logical and intelligent, and were diligently executed with good judgment and the greatest possible expedition." This admission must have struck the Judge Advocate General of the Navy, for he points out that the court itself erred in not making Admiral BRUMBY a defendant in the inquiry. He should certainly have an opportunity to clear himself.

The court's judgment upon Lieut. Commander BAYLIS of the Paulding, cruising under the orders of the Treasury Department, is attacked by Secretary MELLON in a letter to Secretary WILBUR. Mr. MELLON says that a board which he appointed has come to an entirely different conclusion, holding that no responsibility for the collision with S-4 attached to Lieut. Commander BAYLIS. There was an "adequate lookout" on the Paulding, the periscopes of the submarine, painted an "invisible" gray, were first seen at a distance of only 200 feet, and immediately an attempt was made to avoid a collision. Concerning the responsibility of Lieut. Commander JONES of S-4, Admiral LEIGH, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, declares that, in the absence of evidence supporting the court's judgment, it is "within the realm of surmise rather than of fact." Apparently the meaning is that the court's conclusion in the case of the commander of S-4 was based upon customs of the service: S-4 should have seen the Paulding in time, and did not see her, therefore the collision. Secretary WILBUR sensibly took the course of ordering the court to reconvene, so as to state, "with completeness and particularity, its reasons."

OUR FLATTERING CRITIC.

Accepting a compliment gracefully is the finishing touch of good manners, whether it is a woman or a nation that bows her thanks. T. P. O'CONNOR sailed yesterday for America, with many pleasant words on his lips for his prospective hosts. The journey is made this time for his health, for "Tay Pay" is in his eightieth year, and an ocean voyage is both relaxing and energizing. If he speaks gallantly to American ladies after his arrival, they will know how to blow smiling kisses to one who has himself kissed the Blarney stone.

What our authors are to do is another matter. On the eve of his departure Mr. O'CONNOR said that they can no longer be denied the first position in modern literature. His English and Irish friends may rave in protest, but he puts the weight of eighty years and much reading and writing behind his judgment. America has "produced the greatest books." Good manners require an acknowledgment of some sort. Our writers cannot smile smugly and admit the soft impeachment. They are too modest to do that, even if they agreed in their hearts. Yet how can they deny it? An Irish gentleman and scholar must not be accused of making pretty speeches on so serious a subject. Our unlucky authors are evidently put in a trying position.

Perhaps our friendly critic meant "best" when he said "greatest." If best was in the back of his mind, so was "seller." To a genial Irishman about to pay a call on friends who write, their best sellers are great books. Many American novels have recently done well in the British market. There is much curiosity about American life over there just now, and some of our novelists satisfy it in spectacular fashion. London wants to know about the daily life of ordinary Middle Westerners, Hollywood dolls, the Greenwich Village intellectuals, negroes, hickory trees, night life in New York and Tennessee mountaineers. Our writers tell them every racy detail. If this be greatness, make the most of it.

ESTONIA'S BIRTHDAY.

Tomorrow is the tenth anniversary of the declared independence of Estonia. It was by no means won on the day of the declaration, nor was ours on the Fourth of July, 1776. But it is the day which will be celebrated so long as this hardy little republic maintains the self-government which it proclaimed between the flight of Russian Bolshevist forces and the coming of the Germans on the 24th of February in 1918. The new military occupants, whose cyclist van pressed upon the heels of the retreating Bolsheviki, found a provisional Government set up overnight amid the rattle of machine guns which the Estonians themselves directed toward the eastward flying foes. This venture seemed for the subject Estonians a jumping from the frying-pan into the fire, for under the German authorities, aided by the German nobles, long in Estonia—the German "Balts"—their last state seemed worse than the first. Their real independence lasted not as their northern snows, but as that "upon the desert's dusty face"—an hour or two, and gone. It was immediately suppressed. With the armistice the German forces left. Yet they were hardly gone before the Bolshevist wave rolled back. Estonia's neighbors, the Finns and others, came to their aid, and while British ships kept the Russian fleet near its Kronstadt base, the entire Estonian man-power under an Estonian commander, General LAIDONER, drove back the Bolshevist forces so that on the first anniversary of the declaration of independence Estonia was actually independent.

Through 700 years of subjection to one or another of the powers, to the West or to the East—German, Swedish, Russian and again German—her people have stubbornly maintained their national spirit and loyalty to their traditions and emerged from their virtual serfdom with a high degree of literacy and of capacity for managing their own affairs. They are only a million and a quarter in number and their little land with its fringe of islands is only about the size of Massachusetts, but in their first decade of freedom they have conducted themselves with all the dignity, economic efficiency and cultural aspiration of mature States of larger territory and population. Estonia has long since met the popular international requirements for nationhood—balanced her national budget, stabilized her currency and funded her foreign debts. She has multiplied her farms by dividing the large estates of the German "Balts," to whom she is attempting to make reasonable compensation. Students crowd her university and higher schools. Her illiteracy percentage is now practically nil, and she has the richest collection of folk-tales and folk-songs in all Europe. Her annual great song festivals bring to her little capital 15,000 singers and an audience of 200,000. She has to look abroad for industrial implements and wheat, but her own potato fields, farms and factories meet most of her other needs.

She has assured just treatment to the national minorities—Russians, Germans, Swedes and Jews—and has taken her place among the other sovereignties of the earth in the League of Nations along with her young Baltic sisters, Finland, Latvia and Lithuania. She has forgotten that the United States was not the first to recognize her independence, but does not forget the material and moral assistance that Americans gave her children through Mr. HOOVER'S organization, the American Red Cross and other agencies in her darkest days. She deserves the birthday congratulations of the world.

THE NEW YORK INFIRMARY.

A committee of the trustees of the New York Infirmary for Women and Children at Stuyvesant Square and Fifteenth Street is now examining the decision to close the hospital on July 1. The problem is one of finance. Public generosity can assure the preservation of one of the oldest medical institutions in the city by helping the trustees to cope with an annual deficit of about $40,000. This would be a per capita deficit of less than $20, in view of the 2,500 patients treated last year, half of them without charge. The infirmary was founded seventy-five years ago by Drs. EMILY and ELIZABETH BLACKWELL. Their work was carried on by Miss JULIA DE FOREST and Mrs. LOUIS C. TIFFANY. With the war came a critical situation out of which the infirmary emerged with an increased and modernized equipment, largely through the efforts of the President of the Board of Trustees, the late KATRINA ELY TIFFANY. Financial difficulties last year were met through the intervention of the Women's Medical Association, which collected sufficient funds to keep the hospital open till next Summer.

The New York Infirmary has a reason for being, additional to the primary test of service to the community. It is entirely staffed by women physicians, of whom there are forty-five on the attending force and an equal number on the courtesy staff. Men physicians are among the consultants. The closing of the institution would thus create a serious gap in existing opportunities for women in the medical profession. This makes entirely legitimate the interest displayed by the Women's Medical Association. The progress of women in the professions is by no means so free from handicaps as to render this threatened curtailment a matter of public indifference. It has a special meaning for the east-side neighborhood served by the hospital, where sentiment among the women patients is still strong against summoning men physicians in cases of child-birth and after-treatment. It is greatly to be feared that the closing of the hospital would mean leaving many poor mothers to the primitive methods of the untrained midwife. As public benefactions go nowadays, a modest sum should enable the trustees to surmount the latest crisis.

PRACTICAL WELFARE WORKERS.

A common fling at advocates of social betterment is that they are theorists or dreamers. The fetching appeal is to heed the advice of practical men. Two such did give their advice in public addresses on Tuesday. NEWTON BAKER was one of them. He cannot be charged with being a doctrinaire without ignoring his long and concrete experience as an administrative officer in the city of Cleveland and in Washington. Now, it is he who, in discussing the extent of public responsibility for welfare work, declared that the rule ought to be exactly the reverse of that relating to governmental interference with industry. The State should never go into any business which can be as well or better conducted by private enterprise. On the other hand, "private philanthropy should never undertake anything which the State can do as well."

This animating principle has plainly been the guide of the other practical welfare worker, Governor SMITH. Recounting the experience of the State of New York during the past decade, he affirmed that he had witnessed "a great awakening" in the matter of public interest in hospitals, asylums and special public care of certain classes of the crippled and dependent whose dire need was their argument for special attention. It is needless to say that the impetus for this new appreciation of the human side of Government has been largely due to the urgings of Governor SMITH himself. He has brought from the long effort a consoling bit of political philosophy: "If you are right you can convince the people that a thing ought to be done." This also is the testimony of a practical man of affairs. He has never lived and moved in a Utopia, or expected the millennium to come while you wait, but has devoted himself to one feasible task after another and seen, as Mr. BAKER has seen, the end crown the work.

YVES-GUYOT.

The death of YVES-GUYOT brings to mind the group of sturdy economists, of which he was almost the last survivor, who fought the battle against bimetallism, protectionism and socialism forty or fifty years ago. They did not stand on the defensive. In France, as in America and England, they carried war into the enemy's country, assailing his theories and arguments not only with appeal to economic theory, but with such convincing citation of actual facts in contemporary finance and trade as won the support of the conservative business classes. They were no compromisers; "tariff reform" and "managed currencies" were in their eyes as absolute surrender of principle as outright acceptance of prohibitive import duties or of reversion to the silver standard. YVES-GUYOT, from first to last, preached free trade, the single gold standard, and political and economic individualism.

In the confusion of economic opinion which came with the ending of the war, YVES-GUYOT entered the lists with all the fervor of youth, against the "new-school" philosophy of prices, currency and industrial reconstruction. The proposals of CASSEL and KEYNES he attacked with an energy not unmixed with scorn. Why talk smoothly, he asked them, of concerted "devaluation" for all the world's currencies, including those of England and the United States? You may disguise the operation, but it remains "insolvency." If you cut down the gold in the national coinage unit and still pretend it is the same old franc or sovereign, wherein does your action differ morally from the "clipping" of coins practiced by that medieval French King whom DANTE consigned to the lower circles of the Inferno?

It is possible that the unswerving attitude of YVES-GUYOT made him unwilling to recognize the extent to which, in some European countries, return to the pre-war gold valuation of the currency had been rendered impracticable by events. He could hardly have sympathized at heart with POINCARÉ'S program of "stabilizing" the franc at one-fifth of its former gold parity. Whether evidence that the prodigiously increased public indebtedness of the Government could not be met at the old valuation of the franc made him hesitate, or whether he found it difficult to meet the argument of his old friends in banking circles, that a five-fold appreciation of the franc from existing values would cripple the effort at industrial recuperation, he did not attack the policy of the Premier and the Bank of France. But toward the new-school dream of "overcoming fluctuations in quantity of goods produced or purchasing power of individual consumers," through constant readjustment of "the home value of every money standard," he maintained to the last an attitude of incredulity and contempt.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Benevolent Tyrant.

Any of the former "pupils" of WILLIAM MULDOON at his Westchester health farm will comprehend instantly why the authorities at Madison Square Garden jump to attention when he demands that "the rule against smoking at boxing contests" be strictly enforced. The rule is his rule, as Chairman of the State Athletic Commission. It is applied only at boxing matches. Every other event in the Garden can be as hazy as the patrons choose. The other members of the commission have no set views on the subject. The boxing fans think the rule foolish. But Mr. MULDOON believes that rising smoke affects the lungs of boxers, and he has his way.

Every once in a while the Iron Commissioner—now well past 80, but a dangerous man to "projick" with, physically or in debate—notes surreptitious smoke arising from among the ringside patrons. As often he issues a bull, announcing that the rule must be better enforced or he will punish the Garden management. His superior officer, Secretary of State Moses, does not interfere with Commissioner MULDOON in this or anything else.

So long as this powerful personality remains on the commission, his will must prevail, although the Garden was especially designed to make smoking unobjectionable. The bankers, editors, statesmen, doctors, Generals and Admirals who have attended Muldoon's and shrunk before the terror of that brazen voice and that iron hand can well understand the assent of the Secretary of State, the other Commissioners, TEX RICKARD and the Garden spectators. "You'll do what I tell you," has been his lightest remark for many years.

A Lone Flight to Australia.

BERT HINKLER, who started on a solo flight from Croydon to Australia on Feb. 7 and arrived there yesterday, is famous for his daring performances. In 1925 he introduced house-hunting from the air and bought a seaside home after flying about the Kentish coast. He used a two-seater "baby" plane and took up his wife. This was his account:

> We circled all around the house at a low altitude, which is, of course, possible with such a machine. It flew near enough so that my wife and I could see what the bedrooms were like, and we were also able to inspect the other rooms.

HINKLER has "specialised" in small planes, and it was in a thirty-horsepower Avro-Avian that he left London to make Australia, 13,000 miles, in eighteen days. He reached Calcutta, 6,000 miles, in eight days. He then decided to cut his time to Australia to fifteen days, and made it.

The time of the SMITH brothers, Sir Ross and Sir KEITH, was twenty-eight days. They traveled in a heavy machine. Lloyd's was to pay HINKLER $5,120 if he made the long flight under nineteen days. In most of the dispatches BERT HINKLER is described as a British aviator. He is a native of Australia.

Mr. Coolidge's Summer Plans.

The acoustics of the Executive offices in the White House are none too good. Perhaps that is why one correspondent got the impression that the President was thinking of spending his vacation on the Pacific Coast, and another understood that a Summer residence near Washington would be more acceptable.

There will be the usual talk of political motive, but the President will probably rest his choice this year largely on personal considerations. He and Mrs. COOLIDGE both need a rest, and particularly he will wish to select a place where she, who has labored no less tirelessly than her husband, will find refreshment.

The immediate environs of Washington do not present alluring possibilities. There are estates commodious enough, and of course readily accessible from the White House, but the heat of the plains is a thing to be avoided in the Summer months. Hot Springs and White Sulphur are not so very far away, and both are famed for their climate.

Nearer by are the resorts in the Blue Ridge, where many Washingtonians go who do not choose to roam further afield. Some of these hill towns are not appreciated as they might be—Blue Ridge Summit, for instance, with magnificent views over the plains toward Gettysburg, and only a few hours' motor ride from Washington.

Fashions for Men.

At the annual meeting of the New England Historic Genealogical Society this month there was a display of more than a hundred shawls. They were not of the soft, silken variety wrapped around her slim figure by the modern flapper in the hope of looking Spanish. Thick, warm woolen shawls, in sombre colors liked, or at any rate worn, by men in the period of the Civil War, were exhibited.

When shawls were a substitute for overcoats they were voluminous affairs. Shoulder shawls were less bulky and added dignity to the wearer. In the Boston exhibit was a black and white checked shawl worn by Colonel WILLIAM SPRAGUE at the first battle of Bull Run. So reads the label. It may be that the Colonel merely had it among his effects on that day, doubtless a warm one, as it was in the latter part of July.

Men laugh at women's slavery to fashion. Diaphanous garments in Winter and furs in Summer provide material for many masculine jokes. Men appear to dress more sensibly during cold weather, but their Summer costume is often ridiculously hot and binding. Still, it shows an improvement over that of fifty years ago. The commander of a battery of field artillery going into action on a hot July day with his shawl wrapped about his shoulders is as comic a picture as the satin-slippered, short-skirted Winter girl of today.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We as Americans should thank God and be justly proud that we have men like Charles Evans Hughes and Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. FRANK McKAY.

New York, Feb. 21, 1928.

P. S.—Dwight W. Morrow is another man we can thank God for having. I spent three years in Mexico, both in the city and rural districts, and I know the problem he is faced with. He has a thorough knowledge of Latin-Americans, as his work for Cuba's liberty proved, and I hope and trust that he will solve the Mexican situation. F. M.

POETRY.

The lyre to which a Solomon
Tuned his great Song of Songs,
The harp to which a Sophocles
Poured forth his tragic wrongs,
A carillon of lofty bells
Whose changes Homer rung,
An amorous lute to whose low strains
Sappho has often sung,
A reed on which gay Villon piped
Though prison walls were cold,
The drums to which Shakespeare decked out
His mummers in their gold,
The deathless trumpet Milton blew
When all was dark below,
A bugle on the hills of Rome
Sobbing a Dante's woe,
The immortal voice of every age—
A matchless, minstrel strain—
Whose chords of sweetest melody

CHARACTER DEVELOPMENT.

Colleges Still Do This Work, but by More Lasting Methods.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My friend, Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin of Union Theological Seminary, who has been elected by the senior class at Vassar College its baccalaureate preacher for next June, is quoted in THE TIMES this morning as criticizing colleges for their failure to develop character. He says: "There is far less training in character than the old colleges used to attempt. * * * Nowhere is the student taught loyalty, conscientiousness, vision—those things, in short, which send men out prepared to live useful lives." Dr. Coffin doubtless has reference to the course which in former days was known as "Prexy's Ethics." I went through such a course myself and with all deference and loyalty, the share of this course in the formation of character at college was about one-half of 1 per cent.; that is, not enough to intoxicate anybody with virtue. That ancient course is gone, never to return.

There is, however, a course at every college that is worthy the name, which has as its ideal the character training Dr. Coffin desires. The name of that course is "Studium Generale," the guild, or society, of masters and scholars. The course of study covers twenty-four hours of every day for thirty-four weeks a year and for four years. Every phase of character training is covered in the course, which consists chiefly of the pursuit of truth, beauty and goodness, both in theory and practice and for their own sakes. The character resulting from this training is not superficial, like an Oxford accent, or a manner of speech or dress. It is something considerably deeper than this and it marks so definitely the products of this training that it is said that observant judges can identify the colleges from which individuals graduate, by their behavior. If this be so, the character training has gone probably as far as is wise with respect to the liberty of the individual. The colleges are indeed in perhaps greater danger from stamping too ruthlessly their mark upon their members.

The ideal of the American college is still the ideal of the humanist of the fifteenth century, that the study of the sciences and arts in an atmosphere of entire honesty is the best training of character that can possibly be afforded. The humanists never made the mistake of thinking that character could be trained by a special course in the same. It is the "Litterae Humaniores" and the studies that have been added, like fine arts, natural and social sciences, and the life incident to that study (student self-government, Faculty and student cooperation, national and international relations of students) that make the character training in the modern American college. At its best, that character seems to me a pretty fine thing and not unworthy of the great tradition.

A CALL TO WOMEN.

They Are Asked to Work Quickly and Sanely for Peace.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If the man in the street will not think for himself as to what he is willing to die for and have his sons die for, then in Heaven's name when will he do his own thinking? How long will the people allow themselves to be herded to war by showy after-dinner speakers—some honest but thoughtless, some blinded to their own motives by racial antagonisms and some demagogues playing up to those antagonisms?

If the men of America have no time to consider these matters and no understanding of them, let the women save the situation, not by unintelligent effort for peace but by an intelligent one, because not to work for peace is madness as well as crime.

I ask every woman who reads this to appoint herself a committee of one to work actively and sanely for peace. Try to understand how civilization has evolved peaceful means for settling disputes and substituted them for savage ones—from the individual to the family, to the clan, to the State—and stops short at the international boundary, where disputes become holocausts.

Why? Ask yourself and your neighbor why. Ally yourself with the movement for arbitration that seems to you most rational, because peace, as Mr. Hughes has said, must have its machinery as well as war. Write to your Congressman. Write to your Senator. Talk to your friends. Don't be afraid of appearing to be this or that. Get the right idea and work for it.

By all means let us have an efficient military establishment, but let us have it, and make sure it is used, only as we do our police, not to break the peace, but to help preserve it by enforcing the law—an international law that shall have been codified, with a Court to administer it. Pending the establishment of this, let us have treaties. Meanwhile, as Dr. Butler so profoundly stated, let us work for public sentiment that holds the nation to the same responsibility in conduct as the individual. We can do this only as individuals—you and I. But let us be quick about it, for the trouble-makers are hard at work.

Reports on Labor Conditions.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In connection with the present unemployment problem, it appears that large numbers of unemployed drift to New York from other places. It would seem that some effort should be made to deter these workers from spending their savings in railroad travel in search for work in this locality.

The state employment and labor bureaus could do these men a real service by directing them to parts of the State where there is a demand for labor or by advising them not to go to localities where no work is to be had.

We have quantities of statistics in regard to business conditions compiled by the Government, the State and various private agencies, but there is no coordination in the important work of giving the worker information in the newspapers as to where he can or can not find work.

ESTONIA'S TENTH BIRTHDAY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Tomorrow the Republic of Estonia—or, Eesti Wabariik, as is her official name—celebrates the tenth anniversary of her independence. Ten years ago, on that day, the political sky was very dark, the future of the new State uncertain and her independence rather theoretical. In the next few days the advancing German army invaded all the territory of Estonia and the decaying old Russian army fled without resistance. The German military occupation of Estonia lasted for eight months until the middle of November, 1918, when after the collapse of the German Empire and the German western front, the German troops were withdrawn, leaving Estonia unprotected and unarmed, at the mercy of the invading Russian Bolsheviki.

One and a quarter million of Estonians, however, grasped the last chance left to them to take up the struggle with the Bolshevist giant to save their country or to perish. The spirit of ancient Estonian heroes awoke and Estonians fought desperately for their liberty. Material help and strong moral support to the Estonian cause from foreign countries, including the United States, were a great inspiration and assistance to the Estonians in their desperate struggle.

Thus splendidly, the small Estonian nation passed the hard test of her maturity and proved her fitness to take her place in the family of free and independent nations. Estonia won recognition of her full independence from Russia by the Tartu Peace Treaty of Feb. 2, 1920.

This day is recognized as a landmark in the history of Eastern Europe. Since that day Estonia has enjoyed peace at home and her foreign policy has always been to strengthen the friendly relations with all her immediate neighbors and to gain the good-will of other nations.

On the tenth anniversary of the Estonian independence it seems well to look over what Estonia has been able to do and to see what must be corrected and how she shall proceed. It is a pleasure to note that the accounting day has turned out favorably to Estonia. During all these ten years heavy constructive work has been going on in all fields of Estonian life. Next to securing her political independence, Estonia has been working during that time for her economic independence. Beginning her Liberation War without money—$3,000 was all that the Estonian State Bank possessed at that time—Estonia has balanced her budget since 1922, has paid or funded her war debts, her currency has been stabilized since 1923, and on Jan. 1, 1928, Estonia adopted the gold monetary system.

One of the most important and highly delicate questions in the inner life of Estonia has been the practical solution of her land question. About 75 per cent. of the Estonian population is occupied in agriculture, but in 1918 only 42 per cent. of the land was in the hands of all the population; about 58 per cent. was in the hands of a few hundred families, large landowners who were mostly foreign to Estonia by blood and language.

The land question was solved by a very radical agrarian reform. Over 40,000 new farms were created. Now the output of agricultural produce is steadily increasing. It has not only reached but in many branches surpasses the pre-war output. The favorable foreign trade balance of Estonia since 1925 is greatly due to the achievements of the Estonian farmer.

Estonian industries are steadily recovering from the heavy losses suffered during the years 1914-20. A new industry—the oil-shale industry—is rapidly developing; the question of utilisation of Estonia's large water powers is under consideration.

Having modeled her democratic Constitution after the Constitutions of the United States, Switzerland and the new Germany, Estonia has a most democratic form of government; compulsory public education, with practically no illiteracy. Cultural autonomy in its most liberal sense has been granted to the minority nations—Germans, Russians, Swedes and Jews—who altogether compose 12.3 per cent. of the total population.

THE TIMES'S editorial remarks about the quality of Hoover were generous and kind, and we Hoover adherents are duly grateful. Much as we admire the Secretary, however, many of us disagree with your placing him so far above all other Republicans.

Vice President Dawes is just as able and has accomplished wonderful things. If we Hoover men and women cannot have the nomination made that we desire, Dawes and Longworth and Lowden—preferably the two Illinoisans—are entirely worthy of support.

Smith is the only Democrat we fear so far as New York's votes are concerned. We believe that only Coolidge can give your Governor a real battle in your State. Although we are for Hoover, we are not blind to Smith's strength at home.

We Hoover supporters have got to obtain electoral votes outside of New York to elect him, and we expect to get them, but we know perfectly well we will not get them in the South, all ballyhoo to the contrary notwithstanding. Even if we do not nominate the Secretary, we will at least have made Willis's nomination impossible under any circumstances. C. D. FLEMING.

Possible Unemployment Relief.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Possibly it would help the unemployment problem a little if New York City transportation companies could be induced to employ sufficient guards to safeguard their passengers. Twice lately I have been knocked in the head by those abominable sliding doors. Once a man sprang to the rescue and once my own agility saved me from demolition and I was thankful to escape with nothing worse than a severe headache. In neither case was it during rush hour, and each time the train stood at least half a minute in the station after the gates were closed.

ANGELL PROPOSES THIRD YALE COLLEGE

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 22.—In a series of exercises the situation and prospects of Yale University were laid before several hundred graduates assembled today for the fifteenth annual university alumni day.

President James Rowland Angell, in a discussion of a proposed "third college" to meet the situation caused by the large numbers in the undergraduate schools, and Professor Andrew Keogh, Yale librarian, with a description of the $7,000,000 Sterling Library, now under construction, were the principal speakers at the general meeting in Sprague Hall. Professor Charles Seymour, provost of the university, presided at the session.

President Angell, after announcing that the Endowment Fund had been oversubscribed by more than $1,000,000, said:

"We have been able to provide in our budget of the coming year for substantial salary advances in the academical divisions of the university alone for somewhat over a hundred men, four-fifths of them in the ranks of associate professors, assistant professors and instructors—the groups in which, in general, the financial difficulties of our present salaries are most acutely felt."

Project for Undergraduate Division.

On the subject of the project for a "third college" in the undergraduate department, Dr. Angell said:

"Numbers have grown, and, despite the limit imposed in 1921-22, the numbers now in our undergraduate schools are too large for any one man in a college class to know all his classmates.

"Throughout the current academic year there has been a committee of the Undergraduate Faculties giving continuous attention to these issues in the search for devices which might promise some alleviation of the conditions.

"Some fifteen years ago the late Professor George Burton Adams suggested the wisdom of creating a third college which should stand parallel with Yale College and the Sheffield Scientific School. In recent years substantially the same proposal has been renewed in several variant forms. Dean Mendell in his admirable address delivered a year ago in this place expressed his enthusiastic belief in such a college; and the committee to which I have just referred has canvassed with a good deal of detail three or four of the possibilities related to a solution of this character, calling to its assistance for conference a considerable number of members of the Faculty and of the undergraduate student body. It has not yet framed its report."

Sterling Library to Open in 1930.

Professor Keogh, speaking of the progress on the library, said that "it will probably be ready for Alumni Day two years hence, or at the latest by commencement of that year. In that case we shall move during the Summer of 1930 and be all ready when college opens in the Fall."

The alumni luncheon in the university dining hall, at which Carl A. Lohmann, Secretary of the university, presided, was devoted to consideration of undergraduate affairs. The speakers were John M. Cates, Director of Athletics, and Arthur C. Robertson, '28, Chairman of the Student Council in Yale College.

The Charles E. Coxe Memorial Gymnasium, the new indoor track and baseball building, situated at Yale Field, was opened for inspection at afternoon exercises and dedicated. The building was accepted on behalf of Yale by Professor George H. Nettleton, Chairman of the Board of Control of the Yale Athletic Association.

A special performance of "Pueblo," a play in three acts by Covington Little, formerly of the Department of Drama, was given by students of the department in the university theatre.

Postmen Attend Memorial Mass.

The New York Postoffice Holy Name Society attended its annual memorial mass at St. Columba's Church, 339 West Twenty-fifth Street, yesterday morning. Several hundred members assembled at the rectory and marched in a body to the church, where they were welcomed by Mgr. Thomas Thornton, the pastor. The Rev. Charles F. Connor, S. J., preached the sermon on "The Catholic Conception of Death." The celebrant of the mass was the Rev. John J. Kiernan, spiritual director of the society, who was assisted by the Rev. John McClaine, as deacon, and the Rev. Thomas Smith, as sub-deacon. At the conclusion of the services a United States marine sounded taps.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Feb. 22 (AP).—E. E. Ussher, General Passenger Traffic Manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, died suddenly at his residence in Westmount today, aged 71.

Mr. Ussher entered the railroad service in 1874 as clerk in the Auditor's office of the Great Western Railroad. He later became chief ticket clerk for the Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific and entered the employ of the Canadian Pacific in 1889. On Jan. 1, 1898, he became General Passenger Agent of the railroad's lines east of Lake Superior.

Lays Our Ills to Xenophobia, Defends Foreign Press Here

Xenophobia, or the hatred and suspicion of foreigners which, according to Julius Hyman, member of the National Security League and former four-minute speaker who addressed the Culture Club, is the basic reason for difficulties between the United States and other countries, is a natural biological manifestation that shows itself even in lower animals.

"The wolf and the sparrow hate albino members of their family and drive them away," he said, "and the fable of the fox who lost his tail is only Aesop's way of pointing out the still true fact that we are suspicious of those who differ from us."

Mr. Hyman, the purpose of whose speech was to combat propaganda directed against the foreign language press, said that we maintained English language papers in Europe without any criticism, and said that the foreign language press in this country was necessary to the first generation.

Following an automobile accident early Tuesday morning at Court Street and Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, surgeons of the Long Island College Hospital amputated one of the legs of Miss Muriel Scrymser Pouch, 26 years old, yesterday, and were considering the amputation of the other leg to save the young woman's life.

Miss Pouch, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Pouch of Stamford, Conn., was riding in an automobile driven by Donald Kilby, 24, when it was struck by a taxicab driven by Christopher Scozzarri. Another girl and two young men in the car with her escaped with minor bruises, but Miss Pouch's legs were severely crushed and she received internal injuries. Scozzari suffered contusions of the head.

Miss Pouch is the granddaughter of the late Alfred J. Pouch, President of the American Steel and Trust Company and owner of the Pouch mansion in Brooklyn, one of the borough's landmarks. She had been spending the Winter at Pinehurst and came north last Monday to attend a wedding.

John Kelly, 9 years old, of 388 East 176th Street, the Bronx, was killed last evening by an automobile at the Grand Concourse and 177th Street, the Bronx. Persons who saw the accident said that the machine was occupied by seven negroes. Two blocks away Otis Williams of 355 South Eighth Avenue, Mount Vernon, who had six other negroes in his car, was stopped by the police. He was questioned by District Attorney John F. McGeehan but denied that his car hit the boy.

Patrolman John Hudock, 32, of the Yonkers Police Department, died early yesterday in St. Joseph's Hospital in Yonkers from a fractured skull sustained when he fell from the running board of an automobile while taking a woman to the Third Precinct Police Station.

After his graduation from Central High School he specialized in real estate, and in 1880 formed an association which participated in the erection of more than 1,000 homes in West Philadelphia.

This led to his selection as President of the West Philadelphia Title and Trust Company, a post he relinquished later to accept the Presidency of the Land Title and Trust Company. He was a director of the Fourth Street National Bank, the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad Company and other corporations, and President of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange Building Company.

COOLIDGE A VICTOR ON NAVAL SCRAPPING

CLINGS TO A TIME LIMIT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Because of Administration insistence, the House Naval Committee probably will include in the warship program soon to be reported authority for the President to suspend construction authorized if an agreement for further limitation of armaments is reached to which the United States becomes signatory.

In the 71-ship program submitted to the House Dec. 14, Secretary Wilbur included the draft of a proposed building bill, which sets forth in Section 3 that "in the event of an international conference for the limitation of naval armaments the President is hereby empowered, in his discretion, to suspend the whole or in part any construction authorized by this act."

By almost unanimous vote, and in face of opposition of Administration leaders, the committee struck this provision from the Wilbur bill, and further went contrary to the wishes of President Coolidge and his advisers by agreeing that any measure reported should stipulate that the work should be completed within a time limit.

Insist on a Time Limit.

The committee has tentatively decided to compromise on the principle embodied in Section 2, but will stand by its determination that there shall be a time limit on the new construction. On this point its members have continued adamant despite the importunities of Administration spokesman.

As things now stand in the committee, the bill soon to be reported will provide that new ships shall be completed in four years, or just about the time that the naval powers are scheduled to assemble for another arms conference in conformity with the mandate of the Washington treaty. The treaty framers contemplated such a conference for 1931.

Section 3 was deleted from the bill on the ground that the entire program might be held up by proposals from other powers that another conference be held prior to 1931. At a secret meeting yesterday of the committee it was disclosed that a majority favored expeditious work on the program and was averse to the use of language in the bill that might lead to suspension of construction between now and 1931.

It was agreed that the program would be fully safeguarded in this regard by providing for suspension of work only in the event that another limitation agreement should be reached to which this Government were a party.

Consideration of the building program will be resumed by the House committee tomorrow. Its members are hopeful that a final vote will be reached before adjournment in the afternoon. If the program is approved tomorrow, Chairman Butler will submit his report to the House early next week.

The managers of the Naval Committee are confident the House will accept the program it will report. As heretofore indicated in Washington dispatches to THE NEW YORK TIMES, the committee's bill provides for less than half of the $800,000,000 contemplated by the Wilbur plans.

Hull and Swarthmore Attacked.

Letters for and against naval expansion continue to pour in upon members of the committee. The proponents have become more active since the appearance before the committee of Dr. William I. Hull, Professor of History at Swarthmore College whose views led members of the committee to call him a pacifist. In a letter received today by Representative Fred A. Britten, Republican of Illinois, one of the leaders of the big navy bloc, Dr. Hull was assailed and Swarthmore characterized as a "nest of Torylism." Charles Grant Miller of Forest Hills, L. I., N. Y., was the writer.

"Sincerely do I hope," Mr. Miller wrote, "that your committee will stand firmly for true American principles, policies and prestige, in resistance to the professional British propagandists who are inspired and sustained by the Carnegie Foundation, set up for the avowed purpose of restoring the re-United States, the British-American Union.'"

Another letter was received by Mr. Britten from J. Heller Mulligan of 4,441 North Nineteenth Street, Philadelphia. Mr. Mulligan wrote in part:

"Mayor Thompson of Chicago is right, and if the American people were not degenerating they would strenuously uphold him; he is against the Anglicised histories in our schools. Did you know that the late Northcliff left $15,000,000 to pervert American school history books?"

Mr. Mulligan suggested that the Government should look into the source of propaganda against the army and navy, and added: "In any other country such treason would send such people to the firing line or gallows."

PARK AVENUE TRAFFIC IS HALTED BY FIRE

Lower Park Avenue had a fire scare at 10:30 last evening when the apartment house at 40 East Thirty-fifth Street caught fire. The blaze, which was confined to the dumb-waiter shaft, was discovered by a tenant, who sent in an alarm to Fire Headquarters.

By the time Deputy Chief O'Hanlon and his men got to the scene a large crowd had collected and most of the tenants at the house had come to the street. Some who were aroused from bed ran to the ground with blankets and coats thrown over their shoulders. Some took refuge at another apartment house at 38 East Thirty-fifth Street. Others went to 16 Park Avenue.

Just after the arrival of the firemen a resident of the house informed the Deputy Chief that a sick tenant was thought to be in the basement apartment. Fireman James McGivney investigated, and soon reappeared assisting Miss Ellen Holland, 31, who occupies the rooms. She said smoke had overcome her for a moment. She was treated by Dr. Keyes of New York Hospital and then went with friends to 16 Park Avenue.

Traffic was stopped along Park Avenue. Police reserves of the East Thirty-fifth Street Station were called to keep the large crowd in order.

FROM THE FOUNDER'S WRITINGS

The Will of the People is Nearly Always Honest

but the judgment of those who direct it is sometimes at fault. Not so, always, fortunately.

That one sentence which immortalized Governor Coolidge, when the Boston Police were out upon a strike, and the proposition was made to the Governor to arbitrate the question, was when he said,

"Massachusetts can never arbitrate law and order."

There was something akin to Abraham Lincoln in the inspiration of the Governor, now President of the United States.

We have to watch our steps and choose our roads.

2 BRAVED SHARKS TO RESCUE WOMAN

BOATS SMASHED ON REEFS

STEWARD IS ALSO A HERO

He Dived for Comrade Who Fell From Ship While Dozing—All to Be Rewarded—Cruise Ends Here.

The Anchor liner California, which set out from New York last Jan. 21 with 461 passengers on a West Indies cruise, returned yesterday with two dramatic tales of rescues at sea which overshadowed the tourists' usual stories of pleasant visits in Caribbean ports.

Both rescues took place within fifteen hours while the California lay in the shark-infested waters of Grassy Bay, off Hamilton, Bermuda, last Saturday. One involved the saving of the life of Mrs. L. Z. Rosser, wife of the Chief Judge of the Municipal Court of Atlanta, for whose sake twenty-one officers, seamen and passengers risked their lives, and the other of a steward, Neil MacDowell, who was saved by a fellow-steward, William Jillanders, while the passengers were asleep.

The officers and two passengers who participated in the rescue of Mrs. Rosser are to receive engraved watches and the seamen about $150 each from a fund of $3,150 raised by the passengers. Jillanders received $218, about five months' pay, for his rescue of MacDowell, given by the stewards' department of the ship.

Friend Tells of Rescue.

A. C. Ragsdale, associate editor of The Chattanooga Times, a personal friend of Mrs. Rosser, who made the cruise and who related the story of her rescue at the Hotel Astor last night, and other passengers declared that the near-tragedy had been one of the most exciting experiences they had ever had.

Mrs. Rosser, according to the story told by Mr. Ragsdale, was one of 150 or more California passengers who were returning on the tender Corona last Saturday to the steamer after a visit on shore. The steamer was anchored in Grassy Bay, about three and a half miles from Hamilton Harbor, and a heavy sea, which seemed to be increasing, was running.

The tender had left shore about 5:30 P. M., and darkness was settling over the bay. While the comparatively small craft was tossed by the eight-foot waves, Mrs. Rosser leaned on the gate of a deck railing. Suddenly, within two or three hundred feet of the California, the gate gave way and Mrs. Rosser, who was unable to swim, plunged overboard, the gate falling with her.

Leaps to Save Woman.

Immediately the cry went up "man overboard" and the call was flashed to the California. R. C. Higgins, cruise manager for the Cunard company, who saw the woman disappear into the darkness, tore off his coat and shoes, sprang to the rail and dived. Slowly he fought his way to Mrs. Rosser, who by this time had been carried some distance away by the strong current.

The tender, shuddering under the pounding of the heavy seas, quickly veered around and, picking her way through the darkness, reached the spot where the woman and her rescuer were bobbing in the water. Mr. Higgins, shouting instructions to Mrs. Rosser, managed partly by his own strength and partly with the aid of the railing gate, to manoeuvre to the tender's side. Mrs. Rosser's coolness in the face of her inability to swim and her obedience to instructions to keep her head above water, and not to struggle, were praised as one bit of heroism shown in the adventure.

As a huge wave lifted Mr. Higgins and Mrs. Rosser toward the Corona's deck, a hundred willing hands reached out to pull them aboard. Higgins, nearly exhausted from his efforts, clung to the Corona's side and was pulled aboard, but Mrs. Rosser, who was wearing a white coat, was carried away again into the treacherous current.

Second Man Dives In.

A second would-be rescuer, C. A. McQuinn, Captain of the Great Lakes steamer John G. Munson, who was one of those returning to the California on the tender, dived, first tying a rope about his waist and instructed others to hold it. Some one tossed a life buoy to Mrs. Rosser.

Captain McQuinn battled his way to Mrs. Rosser and tied one of her wrists to the life buoy. Then those on the Corona lost their grip on his life line and for a moment it appeared that he would meet the fate that confronted the helpless woman. However, the Captain eventually was picked up by the tender.

Meanwhile, with passengers lining her decks, the California put off a motor launch and made a futile effort to find Mrs. Rosser with her searchlights. She had disappeared. The motor launch was caught in the current almost as soon as it left the California and it was carried against a treacherous reef and smashed. The launch crew signaled their distress and shortly afterward a volunteer crew shoved off from the California. In a few moments the lifeboat also ran on a reef and its crew in turn sent up a signal for aid. A British naval tug, summoned from the Navy Yard near by, attempted to rescue the crews of both the lifeboat and the motor launch, but was forced by the heavy sea and the danger of the reefs to abandon its attempt. Both marooned parties, stumbling over the rocks jutting out of the water, reached the shore, where they were attended and later taken back to the California.

Two Go Out in Rowboat.

The Corona still was searching for the missing woman. Then G. Grees, a pilot who was being taken on the tender to the California to guide her out to sea when she sailed for New York, and a Bermuda negro, Charles Fox, who was a deckhand on the Corona, volunteered to make a search in a small rowboat. Onlookers believed their attempt, in such a heavy sea, would be suicidal. But the two men would not be dissuaded, and they were lowered in the frail rowboat.

Presently, by what they later declared was "sheer luck," they sighted something white floating on the waves. They made for it, and in a few minutes caught up with Mrs. Rosser, with her white Summer coat still on, and the rescue which had almost claimed the lives of nineteen others was accomplished.

"That young fellow Green," said Mr. Ragsdale, "reminded me of Lindbergh. He's the same calm, heroic type. His companion, Fox, also deserves the highest praise. As for Mrs. Rosser, she was still conscious, despite her fight for life in the seas. The little boat was shipping a lot of water. Mrs. Rosser gave the two men her hat so that they could use it to bail the water out."

After Mrs. Rosser was aboard the tender, the Corona's captain abandoned further attempts to reach the California and returned to shore, where she was rushed to a Hamilton hospital.

Judge Rosser and his mother were also on the tender at the time of the accident. The Judge would have dived after his wife although he also was not a good swimmer, but he was restrained. The Judge and his mother went to the Hamilton hospital. Mrs. Rosser was reported last night to be recuperating and not suffering from pneumonia as had been feared.

Tribute Paid to Heroism.

Tribute to the heroism of all those who participated in the adventure was paid by the California's passengers through a committee at a deck meeting before the vessel reached New York. The heroes included First Officer H. Miller, Third Officer R. Paton, Seamen D. Ferguson, D. McLeod, W. Richardson and T. Armstrong, Second Engineer W. Redmond, Third Engineer A. McLachlan, Eighth Engineer I. Fleming, D. Hillis, electrician; First Wireless Officer P. Tennant, Quartermasters J. Boyle and J. McLellan, Seamen J. Nicholson, A. McNeil and A. McAllister and Emilius Darrell, Captain of the Corona.

Although some of the passengers complained that overcrowding of the tender was more to blame than the weather for Mrs. Rosser's mishap, Anchor Line officials denied this, pointing out that while the Corona was licensed to carry 350 passengers, only about 150 were aboard at the time.

The rescue of Steward MacDowell took place about 3 o'clock in the morning of that same day. Unable to sleep, MacDowell climbed to the main deck aft on the starboard rail to smoke. He dozed in his seat, lurched and fell 62 feet into the water. The splash was heard by Jillanders, who, wearing only running trunks, dived overboard, while in his ears rang the warning from a third steward, John Anderson, to beware of tiger sharks. Jillanders swam more than a hundred yards to MacDowell, who was rapidly weakening under the lashing of the waves, caught the drowning man with one arm and guided him back to the California. The Jacobs ladder was lowered down the vessel's side, and both men were assisted to the deck by members of the crew. MacDowell was in the ship's infirmary two days, recovering from shock and submersion. That afternoon, Anderson caught a shark six feet long.

Four of the men who attempted to rescue Mrs. Rosser were still under the care of the ship's surgeon for bruises they received on the Bermuda reefs, when the California docked.

EXETER, N. H., Feb. 22 (AP).—A gift of $150,000 to Phillips Exeter Academy by William Boyce Thompson of New York for the erection of an indoor baseball cage and indoor track was announced at the annual Washington's birthday exercises at the academy today. The announcement was made by Professor James F. Ford in the absence of the principal, Dr. Lewis Perry.

Mr. Thompson is an alumnus of the academy and a member of the Board of Trustees. He entered the academy from Butte, Mont., in 1886 and was graduated with the Class of '90. He has since been in business in New York. In 1915 he presented funds with which the present gymnasium was built.

MOTHER APPEALS FOR FOOD.

Mrs. Alice Gisbourne brought her two children, Jack, 5 years old, and Muriel, 4 years old, to the Bergen Street Police Station in Brooklyn yesterday. She said she had nothing to eat for herself or the children and asked for help.

She has been living in two rooms at 277 Third Avenue, Brooklyn. Yesterday they divided a few crackers and a small piece of bread, which they dipped in coffee, she said, but that was the last food they had in the house.

SURVEY BROOKLYN JOBLESS

Unemployment is not marked in Brooklyn according to the report of a survey completed yesterday by the Industrial Department of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, after questioning twenty-two representative industrial concerns employing in all more than 15,000 workers.

Only two of these concerns, it was said, reported that they were beginning off men, while all the others have either taken on men or have kept the same quota since the first of the year. Four firms have been putting on workers. One concern has taken on 100 skilled men since the first of the year.

Fire Forces Truce in Feud; Political Rivals Unite at Hose

HARRINGTON, N. J., Feb. 22.—Leaders of rival political factions buried the hatchet temporarily today, donned gas masks and aided in confining to one two-story stucco block a fire which threatened to destroy the Barrington business district. The damage to the building and contents was estimated at $22,000.

At one stage of the fire-fighting Mayor William F. Deckard and Robert A. Stone, former Mayor, bitter political rivals, directed hose lines while standing beside each other. They have been in the centre of the battle over a proposed commission form of government, which was defeated by one vote at the recent special election. A recount will be made Friday.

NICARAGUA REBELS ROUTED BY MARINES

MATAGALPA MORE FEARFUL

—Rain Threatens Campaign.

MATAGALPA, Feb. 21.—For the first time in weeks United States marines scouring North and Central Nicaragua in search of outlaws gained contact with them on Monday when a patrol led by Lieutenant P. A. Shiebler encountered part of the force which sacked La Trinidad last week. The skirmish took place at Tamarindo, fifteen miles northwest of Matagalpa.

The outlaws fired first. The marines returned their fire and the bandits fled into the brush, according to their unvarying tactics. The marines believed that they wounded two of the attackers, but the Americans suffered no casualties. The guerrillas abandoned a horse which they had taken from the Chief of Police of La Trinidad at the time of their raid.

Captain George Thall is continuing pursuit of this group, which is believed to be one of several into which General Ferrera's force has split up to avoid the marines.

Matagalpa's Anxiety Grows.

Meanwhile, alarm in Matagalpa, which has been chronic for months, has been increased by reports of movements of outlaws south of Matagalpa and to the east. Some of them are believed to have been within three miles of this city, moving in the darkness across the main road which leads to Managua. The identity and objective of these forces are apparently unknown.

Residents here who are familiar with General Augustino Sandino, the rebel Commander-in-Chief, and his movements have been asserting for a fortnight that he intended swinging down to Muymuy and Bosco, in the rich cattle region of Chontales Department, both for plunder and as a gesture toward Managua.

It was this path which General José Moncada followed with his revolutionary army last Spring. Believers in this theory think that the mysterious forces now on the move south of Matagalpa are headed to effect a junction with Sandino forces from the north.

The weightiest opinion here is that Sandino will not attack this city, even though to one of his flamboyant temperament who knows that he has become a world figure this would be a tempting opportunity to seize the centre of the limelight again. His one attack on a town defended by marines, namely that at Ocotal in July, taught him sufficiently, many believe, what a disaster a few marines can inflict even on a heavy attacking force such as his.

Time Becomes Important.

This city remains an armed camp, with marines on watch day and night at strategic points. The streets are deserted at night except for the outposts.

With Sandino's present whereabouts and intentions not definitely known, the time element is becoming pressing. The rainy season, during which movement on the roads and trails is practically cut off, is less than three months away. Even now at the high altitudes in these regions clouds, which always shroud the mountains, frequently turn to rain, transforming the dusty road surfaces to greaselike mud, in which the marines' transportation breaks down.

If Sandino's activities are not quelled within a few weeks it will mean several months' delay, and then another campaign against him.

Residents of this region are much interested in the recent purchase by Antonio Arauz, Sandino's brother-in-law, of a coffee plantation near Matagalpa for $15,000 and of a house in the city for $8,000. Arauz was a telegraph operator of small means a year ago. He made his purchases with $100 bills, some of which were American.

Marines Kill Four Rebels.

MANAGUA, Feb. 22 (AP).—United States marines, in three encounters with small bands in the Jinotega region within the last twenty-four hours, have killed four rebels and wounded several without themselves receiving a scratch.

A scout plane killed two with its machine guns when it observed a small band east of Naranjo, southeast of Jinotega. Near the same locality Captain George T. Hall, whose base is at Esteli, signaled to airplanes that he had killed two of a band he encountered while on patrol.

The third encounter took place six miles from Homomico, between Jinotega and Matagalpa, where a patrol under Lieutenant Shiebler surprised a small party.

It was believed that all of these small groups of rebels may have been part of the band of seventy-five which recently took possession of the town of Trinidad for one night and looted some of the stores.

The marines are becoming more active. The patrols are now operating day and night over a wide area.

The Nicaraguan National Guard, which was organized and is partly officered by marines, is to take over the policing of Managua in March. This will release marine forces for other work.

MAY DEPORT CHALIAPIN JR.

Special to The New York Times.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 22.—Feodor Chaliapin Jr., son of the opera star, may be deported to Russia, which exiled his father, if proceedings against him by the Federal authorities here do not receive a countermanding order from the Secretary of Labor in Washington.

Young Chaliapin came into this country, the local Immigration Bureau says, on a five-month visitor's permit. He overstayed, and was working in motion pictures as an extra when he was taken for a hearing before Immigration Inspector Dick.

At present he is free on a $500 bond, posted by his father. The reports on his case have been sent to Washington for Secretary Davis's inspection.

152 Stroudsburgers Invade City on $10 Each And Enjoy a Day of Varied Experiences

Stroudsburg, Pa., took New York by storm yesterday when 152 of its citizens made the eighty-five-mile trip from home, toured Broadway, Fifth Avenue and Riverside Drive, visited two theatres, ate two meals, one at the Hotel Pennsylvania and the other at an Automat, and rode home again, all for $10 each. Ernest H. Wyckoff, the owner of the town's largest department store, was host to his sixty-nine employes; William H. D'Hommedieu, President of the Stroudsburg First National Bank, paid the bill for his twenty-six employes, and the rest of the visitors were on their own.

Leaving Stroudsburg on the Lackawanna Railroad in a special train at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, the group, entrained en route by Mrs. C. J. Smitzel of Scranton, an ex-Stroudsburger, who had brought along her harmonica, arrived at 9:35 at Hoboken. Mrs. Anna Bouser, who runs a tea room in Mr. Wyckoff's store but who had never been here before, mistook that city for New York. Five motor buses brought the visitors across the Hudson via a ferryboat to West Twenty-third Street.

After two hours' sightseeing the party had luncheon at the Hotel Pennsylvania grill. Mrs. Bonser and her niece, Miss Mary Hay, confessed that this was their first trip here. Mrs. Bonser said, "I wish I'd seen more dating places. Outside of that I've had a great time."

Mrs. Helen Schock, 65 years old, was discovered to be the oldest visitor, and Mr. Wycoff's son, 9, the youngest.

The party then saw Sir Harry Lauder's performance and, with every Stroudsburger on the stage, Mr. Wyckoff presented to Sir Harry a life membership in the Glen Brook Golf Club. When asked to visit there Sir Harry said, "Remember, I'm no tea-totaler." Dinner was eaten at a Broadway automat. Next came a flying trip to Roxy's Theatre, and then they took a train for home, where they were due at midnight.

"But how did you do it, the money I mean," inquired a skeptical New Yorker. And so it was explained. The railroad fare was $3.75, the bus fare $1.50, the luncheon $1.25, the theatre $1.75, the automat 75 cents, and Roxy's the same, leaving a quarter for tips.

$40,000 GEM THEFT IN PARK AV. HOME

BOX LOCKED BY THE OWNER

Nine pieces of jewelry valued at $40,000 were stolen on Tuesday afternoon from a wall safe in the home of Jonathan Bulkley, a paper manufacturer, at 600 Park Avenue, at the northwest corner of Sixty-fourth Street, the police announced yesterday. Mrs. Bulkley saved a $50,000 pearl necklace and several rings, having taken them from the safe at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and worn them to a tea. When she returned home at 6:30 o'clock the safe was open and the rest of her jewelry gone.

The police professed themselves completely mystified. Inspector John D. Coughlin, in charge of the Detective Division, who personally inspected the scene and questioned the members of the household, said the robbery must have been an "inside job." He explained that the windows of the house, a private three-story brown stone building, were protected with bars, and that no forcible entry had been made via the doors.

Inspector Coughlin exonerated the eight servants and an electrician who was at work in the house on Tuesday afternoon. The safe is on the second floor and the electrician spent the entire afternoon on the third floor, always under the eye of one or more servants. Except for the members of the family the combination of the safe is known only to Ida Kaemfer, Mrs. Bulkley's personal maid. Mrs. Bulkley told the police that Miss Kaemfer had been in her employ a year and ten months, and that she was above suspicion.

Closed Safe Herself.

Mrs. Bulkley told the police that she and the maid went to the safe at 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon to get the pearl necklace and the rings which she wanted to wear that afternoon. After taking out these articles, she said, she closed the safe and turned the knob. She was certain that she had locked the door.

When she returned home at 6:30 o'clock, Mrs. Bulkley continued, she went directly to the safe and observed immediately that the small flashlight affixed to the safe, to be turned onto the combination lock, had been moved. She then noticed that the door of the safe was slightly ajar. Opening it wide, she found the safe empty.

The most expensive piece of jewelry among the stolen articles was a lorgnette chain with ninety-seven diamonds, valued at $20,000. The rest of the loot consisted of diamond bracelets, diamond and emerald rings and miscellaneous trinkets. They were insured by the Federal Insurance Company.

No finger prints or clues of any kind were found, although the police made an exhaustive search of the whole house. The safe is small, 6 by 12 inches, and is set in an inconspicuous place in the wall of a little study, almost directly over the entrance of the house.

Household Questioned.

The police questioned everybody in the establishment, Mr. Bulkley and his sons, J. Ogden Bulkley, 29 years old, and David Tod Bulkley, 27, were both in the house during the afternoon, but could throw no light on the mystery. Neither could the servants. All said it would have been impossible for any one to have entered or left the house without being observed by somebody.

Before her marriage Mrs. Bulkley was Sarah L. Tod. Mr. Bulkley is a member of Bulkley, Dunton & Co. of 75 Duane Street and is a director of the E. W. Bliss Company, the Home Life Insurance Company, the Rycgate Paper Company, the St. Regis Paper Company and the Turner Falls Electric Company; Vice President and a director of the Keith Paper Company and a trustee of the Washington Paper Power Company.

LAWYERS CHOSEN IN 'CHASER' INQUIRY

WORK TO REQUIRE A YEAR

Chief Counsel in the Wasservogel Proceeding Warns That Fight Will Be Made to Block Action.

The personnel of the staff of lawyers chosen out of hundreds of volunteers to aid Isidor J. Kresel, chief counsel, and Robert E. Mailey, assistant counsel, in the ambulance chasing investigation was made known yesterday at a conference of Mr. Kresel and his assistants at the new County Court House, which is to be the headquarters of the inquiry.

It also was announced that the proceedings will probably require a full year, and that for the present all the expenses for stenographic work and investigators will be met by the Bar Association, the New York County Lawyers' Association and the Bronx County Bar Association, whose petition to the Appellate Division brought about the inquiry which Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel was named to conduct.

Among the lawyers who have volunteered to give all or part of their time to the inquiry are a number who have been identified with legal investigations of a public nature before. The list includes Ben A. Matthews, former Assistant United States Attorney and now a member of the law firm of Harper & Matthews; Charles L. Sylvester, of Schiff, Sylvester & Harris, a member of the Citizens Union Committee on Legislation; John M. Cashin, former Assistant United States Attorney; Charles H. Frederick, former President of the Bronx County Bar Association; Clarence J. Shearn, son of the former Justice of the Appelate Division; Herbert A. Jacob, who has been a Special Assistant United States Attorney; James H. Levenson, of Mr. Kresel's office; Francis A. McGurk, formerly special assistant to the Attorney General of the United States; Alvin T. Sapinsley, and Lloyd K. Garrison.

In outlining the scope of the inquiry and the plans for obtaining data, Mr. Kresel told his assistants that they were to "fight what is said to be a well-organized body of lawyers, their aides and assistants," and said that "a serious effort is to be made to discover their activities, make them public, and place them before the Court for such action as it sees fit to take."

"Our actions are going to be watched by them," he continued, "and every effort made to block our efforts. For that reason we have used care in the choice of our assistants, since you doubtless are aware that the people we are to investigate will probably stop at nothing to defend themselves."

Mr. Kresel said that while the immediate expenses will be met by the bar associations, it is likely that the county will eventually refund the sums advanced.

ACT ON EXECUTION PICTURE.

OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 22.—As the bill that was introduced in the Legislature to bar newspaper representatives from the Sing Sing execution chamber during executions has been withdrawn, prison attaches announced today that changes are to be made in the lighting of the chamber that will prevent any person photographing surreptitiously a slayer in the electric chair.

The prison authorities are determined that the incident at the execution of Mrs. Ruth Snyder shall not be repeated.

The white-frosted lamps now in use, which shade the light so as to make photography possible in the chamber, will be removed. Some sort of glaring light, in all probability, will be substituted. John Shanahen, the Sing Sing electrician, according to prison officials, is to experiment with different kinds of electric light to find one that is "picture proof."

Foresters Elect Officers.

More than 100 members of the Independent Order of Foresters met yesterday at the Hotel McAlpin in the second annual session of the High Court of Greater New York. Samuel A. Gilbert was elected High Secretary in a close competition. John W. Covart of Court Brooklyn was elected High Chief Ranger, and Herman N. Hartik Vice High Chief Ranger, by unanimous vote. Owing to the illness of Past High Chief Ranger Brendalsons, J. Joseph Rosebottom presided. Other officers elected were Samuel Copeland, High Treasurer; Joseph M. Baum, re-elected High Counselor; A. A. Israel and J. Joseph Rosebottom, High Counselmen; Jack Levine and William H. Kraskehl, High Auditors, and Dr. S. Sweatnick, High Physician.

CLEANER GETS WRIT TO HALT THE UNION

EXPECT 25,000 OUT TODAY

Union Officials Order Complete Shut-Down and Hundreds of Workers Will Join Lines of Pickets.

War by injunction entered the lists yesterday in the third day of the stoppage of retail tailors, cleaners and dye house truck drivers called by the Allied Council of Cleaners and Dyers to force cut-rate cleaners out of business and "stabilize" the industry. David Stark, Vice President of the Manhattan Steam Dyeing and Scouring Works at 252 Green Street, Brooklyn, caused papers to be served yesterday on union officials and officers of the American Federation of Labor ordering them to appear before Supreme Court Justice Strong in Brooklyn tomorrow morning to show cause why they shall not be permanently restrained from alleged illegal interference with Mr. Stark's business. The Manhattan is an independent company and has not belonged to any association of master cleaners or recognized any union for several years.

Leo Fixler, as attorney for Mr. Stark, obtained the papers from Justice Strong at his chambers on Tuesday on an affidavit containing statements by Mr. Stark and forty-seven of his employes that union men interfered with his business on Monday and Tuesday. Beside the Allied Council those named as defendants are the American Federation of Labor, the Engineers Union Local 670, the Teamsters and Drivers Union, Local 185; the Master Cleaners and Dyers Association of Greater New York, Joseph D. Cannon, business representative of the Allied Council; Jacob Effrat, manager of the Drivers Union; Alexander Marks, A. F. of L. organizer and "all the agents and members of the unions and the council." The defendants accepted service of the papers yesterday and William Ashley of counsel for the A. F. of L. will defend them in court tomorrow, the Allied Council announced.

Worker Is Released.

In Essex Market Court Magistrate Gottlieb suspended sentence on Jacob Effrat, who was arrested Tuesday in front of a hall where a meeting was being held for refusing to obey a policeman's order to "move on." Effrat had been released on his own recognizance pending the hearing.

The holiday yesterday combined with the effects of the stoppage to insure a complete shutdown of cleaning and dyeing work. Today union officials have instructed workers in 27,000 retail stores and 110 wholesale plants not to permit the establishments to open for any business. Until Tuesday pressing and mending work had been permitted but more than 25,000 workers are expected to answer the call for a complete shut-down today. Picketing by close to 100 automobile squads continued yesterday and additional pickets will go on duty today, the union officers said.

In Elizabeth, N. J., five pickets were taken to police headquarters after they were alleged to have intimidated the driver of a truck owned by a large non-union cleaning and dyeing house. They admitted that they were doing picket duty and the police released them with a warning.

Seek to Enforce Agreement.

The avowed purpose of the Allied Council's action is to force a stabilization and organization of the industry by enforcing adherence to an agreement signed by wholesalers and retailers last August which provided among other things that wholesale plant owners should not extend their interests into the retail field in competition with small store owners. The Allied Council now alleges that a group of large wholesalers have violated this agreement and are hurting the industry by doing cleaning at cut rates.

Organization meetings were held yesterday afternoon and evening in the five boroughs, Westchester County and New Jersey as far as New Brunswick. The principal meetings in the city were at Leslie Hall, Eighty-third Street and Broadway, the Amalgamated Temple in Orion Place, Brooklyn, and the Labor Lyceum at 170th Street and Third Avenue, the Bronx.

BUCKNER GOES TO ALBANY.

Emory R. Buckner, special counsel to Justice Scudder, left for Albany last night to argue before the Court of Appeals this afternoon in defense of Justice Scudder's right to hold secret hearings in the Queens sewer case. The Appellate Division in Brooklyn last week decided that Justice Scudder had that right, but Max D. Steuer, attorney for Borough President Connolly of Queens, took an appeal to the higher court on the ground that the Scudder inquiry violated Connolly's constitutional rights.

Mr. Buckner also will argue this afternoon in defense of Justice Scudder's right to examine the officers and records of the Awixa Corporation, Queens sewer contractors. Supreme Court Justice Callaghan in Brooklyn several weeks ago held that the Awixa officers must obey Justice Scudder's subpoenas, but Joseph S. Frank, their attorney, took an appeal also on constitutional grounds.

The Court of Appeals is expected to announce its decision on both appeals before the end of the week.

Meanwhile Justice Scudder will resume his secret hearings in Long Island City this morning, when Mr. Buckner's assistants will present several witnesses for examination.

Girl Is Burned Stamping Out Fire.

Will Rogers Sends a Note On the Roads of Iowa

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 22.—I am here in Iowa looking over the future Californians. We are just picking the best. We are not letting 'em all come, like they used to. It's restricted immigration now.

This State has been trying for seven straight years to get an election held to vote bonds for roads. The election requires half the voters to vote. Well, the roads have been so bad they have never been able to get the voters to town. So now they have called an election for the month of May.

That gives them an entire month to come in on horseback and vote. Yours

WILL ROGERS.

MISS TIERNEY FAILS TO RETURN TO HOME

Mother of Marymount Student Collapses When Told Girl Is to Keep Job Little Longer.

HAPPY WORKING AS MAID

Catherine Elizabeth Tierney, 22-year-old freshman student at Marymount College, Tarrytown, N. Y., who left there Feb. 3 and was found Tuesday working as a maid in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Lobsenz, 160 Richmond Hill Avenue, Kew Gardens, L. I., failed to return yesterday to her home in Middletown, Conn.

Miss Tierney promised her father, George A. Tierney, she would return home. In her talk with him Wednesday she said she would remain in the Lobsenz home only for a day or two, as she was happy with her work and wanted to be with the Lobsenz children "for just a little while longer."

Mrs. Tierney was expecting her daughter home yesterday morning. When she did not arrive Mrs. Tierney called the Lobsenz home on the telephone and was informed by Miss Tierney she did not want to return to Middletown for another day or two. The answer so upset Mrs. Tierney, who had been worrying since her daughter disappeared, that a physician was called.

During the day the girl's father, who is an insurance agency superintendent in Middletown and Meriden, Conn., called the Lobsenz home on the telephone. The girl's aunt, Miss Matilda Rogers of 473 East 140th Street, also talked to her on the telephone. They told the young woman she could choose any career she desired and her family would conform with her wishes. Her reply was that for the time being she wanted to remain in her new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lobsenz said yesterday that Miss Tierney could remain with them as long as she desired. They said she was an excellent maid, the children were fond of her and she seemed fond of them.

UNION THREATENS REPRISALS ON I. R. T.

Amalgamated Organizer Says Action Will Be Taken at Once if Men Are Discharged.

Despite the statement made on Monday by President Frank Hedley of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company that no members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes could remain in the employ of the Interborough, and the announcement made on Tuesday night by James Coleman, organizer of Local 977 of the Amalgamated, that his organization "would back to the limit" any of its members discharged by the I. R. T., there were no developments yesterday in the labor situation.

Interborough employes who attended the mass meeting of the Amalgamated Local on Tuesday night at the New Harlem Casino, 100 West 116th Street, returned to their jobs yesterday without being questioned by company officials.

At the office of the Interborough, 165 Broadway, it was said yesterday afternoon that there had been no disorder whatever during the day and that no statement would be made regarding the status of employes belonging to the Amalgamated Association.

Organizer Coleman, who presided at the meeting Tuesday night, said yesterday that he had no statement to give out as to the stand to be taken by his organization. The Executive Board of Local 977, which is now formulating plans for the local's future, will make its report on March 6, he said.

The statement issued by Mr. Coleman at the close of the mass meeting on Tuesday night, in which he pledged the support of the Amalgamated to any of its members discharged by the I. R. T., read as follows: "The Executive Committee of Local Division 977 of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes stand ready to recommend action on the part of the members the moment the facts are established that members of the Amalgamated have been discharged because of their affiliation with the union."

James L. Quackenbush, General Counsel of the I. R. T., said at his office in Nyack last night that he had no comment to make on the statement except to say that the company fully intended to stand back of its announcement that no member of the Amalgamated could remain in its employ. Mr. Quackenbush declined to say last night when the ruling will be put into effect.

CITY'S STATUS KEY TO 7-CENT FARE SUIT

NOVEL RULINGS EXPECTED

BOTH SIDES SPEED BRIEFS

The outcome of the 7-cent fare litigation in the Federal courts may depend upon the view which those courts take of the theory that the City of New York in signing the contract with the Interborough acted in the capacity of a proprietor rather than as an agency of government, it developed yesterday.

If the city is held to have acted in a proprietary capacity, then, in the opinion of its attorneys, the contract with the Interborough must be held to be an inviolable agreement, capable of being enforced in the same manner as any contract. The 5-cent fare would then stand. If, however, the city is held to be a governing agency only, then the State would have power to raise the rate of fare, and its refusal to do so would give the Federal courts jurisdiction.

The theory of the city's dual nature, that is, that in certain respects it is the same as any private corporation, while in other respects it is a government, is not new. The city and the Transit Commission will urge the proprietary theory as the basis of its plea that the Federal court has no jurisdiction, in the briefs which Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson and Samuel Untermyer, the Transit Commission's special counsel, will file with Federal Judge William I. Bondy tomorrow, it was learned.

Mr. Untermyer said the city attorneys spent the whole day yesterday, although it was a holiday, working on their briefs because of the short time in which they must meet highly complicated and involved contentions of the Interborough attorneys. The Interborough legal staff, headed by William L. Ransom as special counsel and James L. Quackenbush, general counsel, was also busy preparing answers to affidavits filed by the city on Tuesday, and on the brief which they will file with Judge Bondy.

It now appears that the Interborough's attempt to obtain a 7-cent fare through an appeal to the Federal courts that its constitutional rights are being ignored by city and State authorities who refuse to raise the fare may result in several new legal rulings by the United States courts. It is conceded by both sides that the situation presented by the contract between the Interborough and the city presents entirely new problems with relation to the Federal court jurisdiction over State public utility rates.

It is also expected that one result of the Interborough's appeal is likely to be the enactment of legislation further curtailing the powers of the Federal courts in rate cases. Two bills are now pending in Congress with this purpose. They were introduced by Representative Loring Black of Brooklyn and Representative F. H. LaGuardia of Manhattan.

The Federal code has several times been amended to limit interference by the Federal courts in cases of this sort. As the law now stands, where State statutes or orders regulating public utility rates are involved, a statutory court of three Judges, two District Judges and a Judge of a higher court, must pass upon the question of granting temporary relief by an injunction preventing interference by State authorities with the higher rate. One of the questions which Judge Bondy is now considering in the Interborough case is whether or not to convene such a court.

Scope of Stay in Dispute.

In the Interborough case there is a dispute as to whether the application now before Judge Bondy directly relates to the right to charge a higher fare or not. The city and Transit Commission contend that under the temporary order granted by Federal Judge Winslow at his home in Yonkers last Friday night the company could put a 7 cent fare into effect on March 3. This order stayed action in three suits brought in the State courts to restrain the Interborough from raising the fare. The I. R. T., however, contends that the order before Judge Bondy merely preserves the jurisdiction of the Federal courts and clears the way for an application for an affirmative order which will permit the fare increase and which must be ruled on by a statutory court.

The city's briefs will urge that New York City built the subways and leased them, not as an act of governing, but as a business enterprise, and that the contract which it made with the Interborough was no more subject to revision by the courts or public service regulatory bodies than would be any contract made between private corporations.

The Interborough in its plea to the Transit Commission for an increase in fare conceded the theory of proprietary capacity, but reached a different conclusion as to the power of the State to alter the contract. In its brief to the Transit Commission the company admitted that they (the subways) were built by and belong to the City of New York in a proprietary capacity, and not in a governmental capacity. "This principle, the company contended, has been judicially determined by the Court of Appeals and by other courts.

The I. R. T. position is, however, that when it went into the traction business in this proprietary capacity, the City of New York became a railroad company. As a railroad company, in partnership with the Interborough, the rates which the city may put into effect on the rapid transit lines is subject to revision by the Transit Commission, the same as any other railroad company's rates are subject to review, the I. R. T. held. The company applied for an increase as one of the partners in the business and contended the city as well as the company was suffering under the confiscatory rate.

ST. GODARD WINS CUP IN QUEBEC DOG RACE

ALASKAN SETS NEW RECORD

Special to The New York Times.

QUEBEC, Feb. 22.—Emile St. Goddard of The Pas, Manitoba, won a closely contested sled dog race today from Leonhard Seppala of Nome, Alaska, thus completing three legs on the famous gold cup and giving him possession of it. The young dog-racer started with a slender margin over Seppala of forty seconds. He increased this to eight minutes, which Seppala, in a magnificent spurt in the homestretch, reduced to 3 minutes and 10 seconds.

Earl Brydges, also of The Pas, was a close third. In fact, it seemed that either of the three might be the winner in today's event of the three-day 128-mile dog derby until the judges reported.

Seppala had regained on the second day of the Eastern international classic all but forty seconds of the 10 minutes and 15 seconds he lost on the first. Seppala covered the last fourteen miles in a terrific burst of speed. It was not enough.

When the little man in forest green came down Grande Allee early this afternoon he was kicking with one foot behind his team with every pound in his body. He thought then that he had won.

Mrs. Ricker Drops Out.

St. Godard, it was estimated, must finish within forty-two minutes behind him to compensate for the difference in starting time this morning, and St. Godard did it just as the gallery began to figure that he could not.

Brydges ran himself to the edge of exhaustion. He reached the finish line ready to drop.

Mrs. Edward P. Ricker Jr. of Poland Spring, Me., did not start the last day. She is the only woman who ever had courage or skill enough to enter this race against the best man drivers of the continent. Two of her dogs tired last night and she dropped out to save them. Fourth place went to Georges Chevrette of Quebec, who finished fifth, seven minutes behind Brydges.

Quebec won this race the first year and has won it only once since in six times. Francois Dupuis was only thirteen minutes behind Chevrette. Chevrette's old record for the course in one day was broken by St. Godard on Monday. Dupuis's record for the last fourteen miles from the Indian villages was broken by Seppala today.

Gold Cup to St. Godard.

The gold cup went with the race. W. B. Brown of Berlin, N. H., gave it in 1923 to be won three times. Arthur Walden, who is to go with Commander Byrd to the Antarctic next year, won the first leg.

The time for the three days follows: St. Godard, 11:14:17; Seppala, 11:17:30; Brydges, 11:28:50; Chevrette, 12:26:10; Dupuis, 12:39:35; Russick, 12:52:58; Skeene, 12:29:50; Lavigne, 13:20:[illegible] Courier, 13:43:45; Lapointe, 13:58:07; Channing, 14:24:46; Alain, 15:00:20 and Routhier, 16:40:30.

Kent Wins Idaho Race.

ASHTON, Idaho, Feb. 22 (AP).—Tud Kent, veteran Ashton musher, today won his sixth victory in the annual Ashton dog derby by finishing ahead of a field of seventeen teams in the eleventh renewal of the classic. He mushed his dogs over the twenty-five mile course in 2 hours 13 minutes 37 seconds and carried off a prize of $1,000. The winner received a great ovation from 5,000 spectators.

ARMY RADIO SAVES $121,733 IN 6 MONTHS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The radio network of the army through which millions of words are handled saved the Government more than $120,000 during the first half of the fiscal year.

By far the greatest part of this traffic was devoted to War Department business. The total value of radio traffic for the War Department was $98,719.13. The Veterans' Bureau came next with $11,143.83.

The service was used by other departments extensively, as well as by the Senate, the Alaskan Railroad, the American Battle Monuments Commission, the House of Representatives, the Panama Railroad, the Weather Bureau, the Hydrographic Office and the Marine Corps, and twenty-eight other Government agencies.

"Had this traffic been handled commercially," the War Department announced today, "the cost of leased wire service, $10,760.58, necessarily would have been added to the cost of radio service, $131,697.69, making a total of $142,458.27. The actual cost by use of the War Department radio net totaled $20,724.59, thus making a saving of $121,733.68."

FAVORS CAMPAIGN ECONOMY

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 22.—The stand taken yesterday by former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen against the lavish use of money in election campaigns, was hailed today by John E. Gill, campaign manager for ex-Governor E. C. Stokes in the contest for the Republican nomination for Senator. Hamilton F. Kean is also in the race and Mr. Frelinghuysen's statement was regarded as being aimed at the Kean forces.

"Senator Frelinghuysen's statement was right in line with Governor Stokes's preachment in favor of reform in primary expenditures," said Mr. Gill. "The former Governor has been against this evil for some time and almost alone. It is a compliment to the Governor's attitude that Senator Frelinghuysen has now seconded the Governor's stand. We welcome his assistance."

American Professional Court Tennis Title Won by Etchebaster of France

TAKES SERIES BY 7 TO 1

FLOOR WORK IS SUPREME

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22.—On the natal day of the Father of His Country, who warned against foreign entanglements, the United States risked its professional court tennis championship to an invader from across the seas and lost. So the crown has followed the outdoor and indoor tennis championships and the Davis Cup to Paris.

Pierre Etchebaster, thirty-five-year-old Basque from St. Jean de Luz and the Jeu de Paume of Paris, carried on the work of Rene Lacoste, Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra, also a Basque from Biarritz, by taking four successive sets today from Jock Soutar, the defender, at 6—2, 6—3, 6—4, 6—3, to win the national professional court tennis championship.

On Monday the Frenchman had captured three of the first four sets and these, with the four gained today, gave him the required total of seven to clinch the title and make a third day of play in their challenge match at the Philadelphia Racquet Club unnecessary. The complete figures of both matches were 6—5, 6—3, 4—6, 6—4, 6—2, 6—3, 6—4, 6—3.

Duplicates Gould's Score.

The final score, 7 to 1, is exactly the same as the final reckoning of the challenge match between Jay Gould of this city and George F. Covey of Crabbet Park, England, played on the same court and won by Gould, to the amazement of the court tennis world. That victory raised Gould to the pinnacle as the world's open champion, the first and only amateur to hold the title, and that lofty seat, in the opinion of the retired master who held the American amateur crown for twenty years, is due to be occupied by Etchebaster in the future.

Not only Gould but Fred Tompkins, head professional at the Racquet Club, and a number of other experts of form agreed at the conclusion of today's play that the swarthy little Basque, one of the most graceful stylists seen on a court, is the coming champion of the world as surely as he is the champion of France and the United States. Their enthusiasm over his almost unparalleled floor game was shared by the vanquished little Soutar, who had no alibis but stated smilingly and with the sportmanship characteristic of him that Etchebaster was much too good for him.

Every one, it seemed, was in a happy mood after the match, in spite of the large amount of money that had been wagered. Many of Soutar's admirers had laid odds as high as 2 to 1 on him to win.

All Praise the Victor.

All over the club players, professionals and members of the gallery, who had taxed the seating capacity to the limit, gathered in knots to find an outlet for their enthusiasm and admiration for the new champion's artistic performances. They agreed that his victory was a fine thing for the game, as much as they hated to see the popular Soutar lose, and that it would prove a stimulant to interest in court tennis.

Soutar was the cheerist man in the building. Going to the dressing room of his conqueror, he threw his arms around him, his face wreathed in smiles, and pounded the happy Etchebaster on the back. The new champion was no good at a rough-house match and backed away to get an autographed photograph of himself, which he handed over to Soutar, asking for one in exchange. Soutar had no picture of himself, but promised to give him his cap. The arrangement was made before the match started that Soutar was to put up his cap against the Basque's beret.

There was also a side bet, and just at this moment Joseph W. Wear, Chairman of the club's Committee of Arrangements, walked into the room with the check for $2,000, which he turned over to Elbridge Watson, who is managing Etchebaster's affairs. The new champion will also receive 60 per cent. of the gate receipts, the other 40 going to Soutar. Every one then adjourned to the dining hall for the luncheon which the club tendered to Etchebaster.

May Cancel World Challenge.

Soutar has filed a challenge with Covey for the world's open championship, but indicated that he would withdraw it. Upon learning this, Watson stated that if the withdrawal was made, he would challenge Covey on the behalf of Etchebaster. Before this happened Walter Kinsella, whom Soutar defeated in 1925 to win the crown and who trained Etchebaster for his match here, challenged the Basque for the American title and was accepted, with the provision that should Soutar also challenge, the two Americans will meet first to determine which shall face the new champion. The match will be played in the United States in 1929.

Etchebaster will go to Boston for an exhibition match on Sunday and it is expected that he will also play in Chicago and possibly New York before he sails on March 3.

The match today lasted only an hour and twenty-five minutes, as compared to two hours and a quarter for the first block on Monday. There was never any doubt as to the winner of today's session, although there were not many who ventured to predict that the match would come to an end this afternoon. On the contrary, so abiding is the faith here in Soutar that his admirers were willing to back him to win the second block, though they asked odds.

Etchebaster had clearly demonstrated his superiority on the opening day, but the fact that Soutar had taken one set and held a 4—2 advantage in the fourth, led some to the belief that there was still hope for him. The little Scotsman had always come through and it was hard for them to believe that he would fail this time.

But just as Kinsella predicted he would, Etchebaster played much better tennis today than he did on Monday, whereas Soutar was unable to lift his game above his inaugural performance, and from the time the challenger took the first two games this afternoon the issue had resolved itself into a question of how many games a set Soutar would be able to win.

In only one set did he ever threaten and that was when he led at 4—2 in the second, only to yield four games in succession to the deadly stroking of his adversary, who laid down chase a yard with heart-breaking regularity.

In the second set Soutar had played magnificently to 3—all, scoring into the dedans with withering forces, both straight and boasted, and playing the floor on the hazard side with strokes that were cut down in a manner to challenge his opponent's best. But the seventh game, a fearful struggle, was the one that told the story, and after Soutar twice had found that he could not beat chase a yard and better than a yard, he realized the futility of his task, dropping three games in succession.

As has been stated before, it is his perfect floor shots that make Etchebaster so formidable a foe. Let his opponent give him a loose ball and the best he can possibly hope for is to defend chase 2. Seldom does he play for the openings, as Soutar does almost invariably. He prefers to make his adversary wear himself out running for the ball, to get nothing for his pains but the job of beating a hopeless chase.

Gallery Is Highly Pleased.

The gallery could not contain its delight over the unfailing accuracy of these floor shots, made with the delicate touch of the master and with an excess of twist to cut the ball down sharply. Not only were his floor shots invincible, but the Basque's railroad service was also a big point winner, going for aces again and again as the ball rolled off the pent house close to the wall.

His volleying was not quite up to the standard of Monday, but that may have been because Soutar was sending his forces back at as high a trajectory as possible. Etchebaster, being so short, had to make most of his volleys above his head and could not control his racquet against Soutar's murderous stroker.

Soutar, because it was the only thing to do when he was up against so many impossible chases, played for the wall openings constantly and scored most of his points to the dedans and the grille, but in the second and third sets he found rich pickings in the corner beneath the grille, and at times had Etchebaster scrambling madly for his floor shots.

These occasions, though, were few, and for decidedly the greater part of the match it was the little Scotsman who had to extend himself. So completely did Etchebaster have the play under control that he gave the impression at times of playing under wraps.

PELL KEEPS TITLE BY BEATING BRUCE

BOSTON, Feb. 22.—Clarence Cecil Pell of the New York Racquet and Tennis Club retained his American racquet title by defeating the Hon. C. N. Bruce of England, 15—8, 15—11 and 15—13, in the final match of the national singles championship at the Tennis and Racquet Club here today.

The manner in which the sturdy American outmaneoeuvred the British player was an unexpected development, in view of the fact that Bruce has beaten Pell three times in as many consecutive meetings prior to today.

Pell apparently had fathomed Bruce's game, as he demonstrated in his strategy. Bruce's outstanding instrument of offense was a terrific service backed by a low-angle game which utilized the corners to the maximum extent. Pell's strategy was to play to Bruce's back hand, dropping the ball back to the left corner, almost to the back wall.

These tactics spelled success. Repeatedly Pell compelled the British player to use a somewhat awkward backhand, the ball going off the first side wall and then off the two other walls, much after the style of an around-the-table shot in three-cushion billiards, returning to the midcourt sector, where Pell was ready to repeat the operation.

An exhibition doubles match was played before the final. Stanley G. Mortimer and Jim Mullins, Boston pro, defeated P. W. Kemp-Welch of England and Gerald Barnes, the Britis. pro, by a score of 3 to 1.

LEE, SILVERMAN WIN TAPPEN POST RUNS

Former Takes 3¼-Mile Run in Closing Sprint, Latter Has Wide Margin in 12-Mile Event.

Albert Lee, former Curtis High School athlete, now running unattached, won the three and a quarter mile race and Phil Silverman of the Brooklyn Harriers, metropolitan junior and Kings County champion, won the twelve-mile modified marathon yesterday at Silver Lake Park, Staten Island, in the two races sponsored by the James J. Tappan Post of the American Legion.

Lee ran a brilliant race, striding through a large field to win by a yard in the fast time of 16:23. Lee, who is only 16 years old, timed his sprint perfectly. He nipped Sam Cofano five yards from the tape, I. Gibsman of the Brooklyn Harriers finishing a few steps behind Cofano, Tappen Post representative.

Silverman had an easy time of it, although it was his initial attempt at the twelve-mile route. He made good time over the hilly course and crossed the line 150 yards in front of the veteran Mohawk runner, Mike Dwyer. Eddie White, Holy Cross Lyceum, placed third.

The order of finish for both runs, the first race being a handicap event with only Lee, Nicholson and Conway starting from scratch, the others receiving a thirty-second handicap, follows:

BROOKLYN CENTRAL WINS Y. M. C. A. MEET

Hammett, Also of Leading Team, Breaks Other Mark—St. John's and Utrecht Triumph.

Brooklyn Central won the team championship in the National Y. M. C. A. track and field championship meet, the first of its kind since 1904, last night at the Thirteenth Regiment Armory, Brooklyn.

A crowd of 3,000 witnessed the meet, which saw three association marks fall, and which furnished, besides Y. M. C. A. competition, interesting performances by schoolboy, college and A. A. U. athletes.

Dan D'Auria of Brooklyn Central was the star performer. He ran the 100 yards in 0:10 4-5, shattering the old Y. M. C. A. mark of 0:11, made in 1924, and then lowered the 220-yard standard of 0:24 3-5, which had stood since 1916, by three-fifths of a second.

The Central athletes started slowly, but in the closing events they showed a reversal of form and captured the team title with a total of 47 points, leading the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A., runner-up, with 26. Three teams, Eastern District, Buffalo Central and Greenpoint were tied for third place in the association standing. Excellence in the field competition gave the Brooklyn team its edge, Cincinnati showing a margin in the distance events.

The third record to fall was the 440-yard mark, Harry Hammett, also of Brooklyn Central, run the distance in 0:54 1-5, bettering the old record of 0:55, made in 1924.

New Utrecht Leads Way.

The schoolboy team trophy was captured by the New Utrecht High School representatives, who turned in an especially fine 1,200-yard relay performance. The Green and White athletes scored 31 points, beating Erasmus Hall, with 14.

In the club and college competition St. John's, coached by Jim Rosenberger, former quarter-mile champion, won the point trophy with a total of 16 points.

Benkert turned in his half-mile in good time, beating a sizable field in the fast time of 2:01 4-5. A Brooklyn Central runner, Smith, was second, and Skane of Bridgeport was third.

D'Auria, whose work was largely instrumental in placing Brooklyn Central ahead, experienced little opposition, winning both of his record-breaking races fairly easily.

West Runs Extra Mile.

B. West, Cincinnati Central's thirty-five-year-old distance runner, entered the two-mile A. A. U. run and completed a full mile before he discovered his mistake. Leaving the track, he rested during a walking race and lined up for the two-mile Y. M. C. A. championship race, which he won handily from a good field.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 22.—Playing in its first game in nearly a month, the Brown University basketball team lost, 28 to 22, to Williams here tonight before a visiting day crowd including a number of alumni.

SOBER WINS EASILY IN MASONIC FEATURE

McALLISTER SPRINT VICTOR

By BRYAN FIELD.

Pincus Sober of the Holy Name Club won the first running of the Frank E. Campbell Trophy race, feature of the Masonic Benefit Meet held at the 102d Engineers Armory last night. Sober completed the 800-meter course in 1:57 1-5, to win by five yards over Edward Swinburne of the New York A. C. The Rev. Harold C. Cutbill of the Boston A. A., making his first competitive start in more than five years in an attempt at a track come back, was third, ten years behind Swinburne. Francis McCloskey of the Boston A. A., the only other starter, was fourth.

In a special sprint series Roland Locke of Nebraska got only third place. Bob McAllister of the Columbus Council, K. of C., by virtue of winning two of the three races and finishing third in the other, won with a total of twelve points. Robert Wiese of the New York A. C., who was second twice and first once, scored eleven points. Locke, with two third places and a second place, counted four points for third place.

The sprints were at 80, 90 and 100 yards. McAllister won the first named two in 0:08 2-5 and 0:09 2-5, respectively. Wiese was second and Locke third in these races. The Nebraskan made his best showing in the 100 yards, which was won by Wiese in 0:10 2-5. He was away in front at the gun and led until about the 60-yard mark. Then Wiese went past to win. McAllister got third.

Cutbill Does Creditably.

The attempt at a comeback by the erstwhile Flying Parson, who was a champion of great ability before his suspension by the A. A. U., should not be discounted too much because of his third place. He was running indoors for the first time in six years, having done all his training outdoors, and the close atmosphere bothered him. He came from fourth position with a good show of spirit and was clocked by Jack Ryder, his coach at the Boston A. A., in 2:00 2-5. Before the race Ryder said that he would be satisfied if Cutbill could do two minutes flat.

The man who once held the world's 1,000-yard record and who defeated Joie Ray and other champions, looks to be in reasonably good condition and finished the race with no appearance of fatigue. Sober and Swinburne showed they are at the top of their form.

Sober won pretty much as he pleased. Swinburne took the lead at the gun with Sober second and Cutbill third. This was still the order at the end of the first lap, although Cutbill lagged a bit. He fell behind some more in the second lap, with the two leaders maintaining their places. Toward the end of the third lap Sober took the lead. Swinburne was three yards behind and Cutbill ten yards back of him. McCloskey moved up on the third lap and passed Cutbill, but on the next and final lap Cutbill sprinted and passed McCloskey. Meanwhile Sober made his tapeline spurt and won easily, Swinburne attempted to hold the pace but fell behind. Both were moving so fast, however, that they opened distance on Cutbill.

Leo Lermond, Boston A. A. distance man, captured the 3,000 metre Hirshon Trophy race from Mel Dalton of Seton Hall and Frank Titterton of the Millrose A. A. Lermond finished twenty yards in front of the Seton Hall youngster, who fought gamely throughout the race. Lermond always had things well in hand despite a near tumble at the start when another runner collided with him.

This Week's Schedule.

Saturday—Penn at Dartmouth; Princeton at Cornell.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 22.—Princeton won an Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League game here tonight by beating Yale, 47 to 24. The Tigers took the lead after Yale opened the scoring and leaped immediately into a 16 to 3 advantage before Yale rallied and closed the gap with the visitors maintaining a 26 to 15 advantage.

Opening the second half, the New Jersey players stormed into a 40 to 22 lead when a large squad of reserves was rushed into the line-up to close the session. Yale's battered team failed to close up the gap materially. Yale played without substitutions in the first half and used only ten players during the game. Princeton sent fifteen, three complete line-ups, upon the floor.

While Miles and McCullough slightly led the Princeton scoring, the well-balanced team game of the visitors consistently bettered Yale's exhibition. Paul Fodder, high scorer for the league until his injury two weeks ago, was the only Yale player to throw baskets consistently. He tallied 8 points.

The game created what is believed to be a new intercollegiate record for fouls registered. Princeton's 22 is believed to be a total for a single team. Yale was penalized for 13, the grand total of 35 for the evening staggering the spectators.

Four of the Princeton regulars, Wittmer, Miles, McCullough and Foot, were retired for four personal fouls. Yale failed to throw a single field basket during the second half.

Penn Conquers Cornell.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22.—Although Joey Schaaf, Penn's scoring ace, tallied fourteen points, it took all the Red and Blue could do to beat Cornell tonight in an Intercollegiate League game, 28 to 26, before a crowd of 7,000.

Schaaf, who is leading the league in individual scoring, rang up five field goals in the first half and then was shut out from the floor in the last twenty minutes, but threw four fouls.

With less than two minutes to play, Masten, Cornell's centre, and Lazar, Penn guard, got into a mix-up near the Penn basket and Referee Rumsey called a double foul.

During the excitement Masten walked up to the Penn foul line and threw the ball into the basket. This should have counted a point for the Red and Blue, but Masten claimed the referee had handed him the ball and told him to shoot there, and Penn immediately waived the point.

It was the second time this season Penn has beaten the Ithacans, but the shooting of Beck and Lewis kept the visitors right on Penn's heels all the way.

EARLY LEAD AIDS VICTORS

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 22.—The Dartmouth basketball team defeated Columbia in an Eastern Intercollegiate League game here tonight, 26 to 20. The Green met stiff opposition all the way and had to travel at top speed to carry off the game. The New Yorkers were in the thick of the fight from the very start and played a quick and smooth passing game.

By its victory, Dartmouth kept at the top of the league. It now has five victories and one defeat while Penn and Princeton are tied for second with four victories and two defeats each.

Two baskets and a foul by Langdell and a basket by Spaeth gave the Green a seven-point lead in the first two minutes of tonight's game. After that, the league champions had a hard time to hold their lead.

Langdell and Heep were taken out of the game during the first half and, when they left, the Green attack became ineffectual. When they got into action again late in the second half Dartmouth took a brace. Langdell added four and Heep three points to the Dartmouth total, making victory certain.

Captains Heep and Madden, leaders of the rival teams tonight, once played together on the Yonkers High School five.

HAMILTON QUINTET BEATS CATHOLIC U.

Catholic University threw a scare into the Fordham University team during the early stages of its game at the Fordham gymnasium last night before a crowd of 2,500, but after the Maroon had rallied to gain the lead, 18 to 11, at half time, Fordham unreeled one of its greatest scoring streaks against a major opponent, making twenty-one consecutive points in the second period to win, 43 to 16. This was Fordham's fourteenth victory in fifteen starts. The final Fordham game will be played Saturday with Manhattan.

Fordham showed splendid form throughout the entire game, the Maroon defense being exceptionally powerful. So strong was the Fordham defense that the Washington team found it practically impossible to tally on short shots and when the visitors resorted to long throws they were so hurried that few were successful.

Bo Adams and Captain Frank Dougherty did the main scoring for Fordham while Nick Landers played a fine defensive game. Long, Foley and Harvey were the Catholic U. stars.

Against the Fordham second team which started the game Harvey and Foley scored from the field and this lead of 4 to 0 endured until the Fordham varsity entered the fray; Adams tallied once from the side of the court and again on a pass from Pop Sweetman and the score was tied. Dougherty sent the Maroon ahead with a field goal and Adams added a foul.

Amann registered from the floor and Long repeated to give the visitors a one-point lead. Reardon tied the score and Nick Landers gave Fordham the lead which it did not relinquish for the remainder of the game. Adams, Landers and Dougherty sent the score to 18 to 11, at half time.

At the start of the second period Sweetman netted a field goal and Long a foul for Catholic U. Then Foley caged the only field goal the visitors made in the half. With the score 20 to 14 Fordham speeded up its attack to raise the count to 41 to 14 when they left the game in favor of second and third team men. Long and Linsky caged fouls and Herb Nolian a field goal as the game ended.

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 22.—Word came from Pennsylvania today that the authorities of that institution had withdrawn their protest of Dartmouth's 30-to-29 basketball victory in Philadelphia last Saturday night. Harry R. Heneage, Dartmouth's Director of Athletics, was just about to leave for New York for a league conference on the disputed game. The conference was obviated by the telegram from Ernest B. Cozens, Director of Athletics at Penn, who expressed regret about the matter.

Penn is due to play a league game here Saturday night. The team will come, of course, and it is probable that no further action will be taken on this controversy. Cozens in his telegram expressed a wish that the cordial relations between the two institutions should not be endangered. The telegram follows:

"Pennsylvania has withdrawn the formal protest to the league and regrets extremely the controversy. The official score shows Dartmouth to have won the game and we are perfectly willing to let matters rest that way, for we feel that the winning or losing of any contest is insignificant to the cordial athletic relations between sister institutions. That being the case, no need for our coming to New York Thursday. Kindest regards."

Crowd of 3,500 Sees Elis Tally Five Times in Final Period After Holding 4-2 Lead.

PALMER LEADS ATTACK

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 22.—Yale captured the Princeton-Yale hockey series, sweeping aside the Tiger sextet, 9 to 2, in a fast contest in Baker Rink here this afternoon. More than 3,500 spectators attending the mid-winter alumni celebration witnessed the battle.

The Tiger six managed with difficulty to hold the Elis to two scores in each of the first two periods, but Yale flashed through for five tallies in the final session. Two of the Bulldog scores were made in the last fifty seconds of the game, as the Nassau six abandoned all defense in a futile scramble to break down the Bulldog lead.

Hale Palmer, left wing for Yale, was the feature performer, driving the disk past Captain Joe Reinard of Princeton four times. The game was spectacular despite its one-sidedness, and both teams dashed the length of the rink for their scores.

A pretty pass from Ryan allowed Palmer to score the first goal of the game after seven minutes of play. The Elis tallied again a short time later when the Blue captain, Dick Vaughn, swept the disk into the Orange and Black net. Johnnie Jones opened the scoring for Princeton in the first minute of the second period and Palmer followed less than twenty-five seconds later.

The Tigers' defense weakened thereafter and the final result was never in doubt.

RAIN MARS OPENING AT JEFFERSON PARK

FEU FOLLET WINS FEATURE

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 22.—An all-day rain left the track a foot deep in sloppy mud and marred the inaugural day of the second Winter session at Jefferson Park this afternoon. No opening day in recent years here has been more miserable and few crowds have been smaller. Those who did attend showed little interest in the seven races on the card, with the result that the play at the mutuel machines set a new low record. Despite the sloppy course, however, the form players got better than an even break, scoring four out of seven times.

The featured race, the George Washington Purse, at one mile and seventy yards, provided one of the three upsets. The winner in this race turned up in the Valley Lake Stable's inconsistent Feu Follet, which came home three lengths in front of the favored Bob Rogers. Unfortunately this race was marred by a poor start. The field of six was at the post only two minutes, but when the barrier snapped Bob Rogers was caught sidewise and when he finally did get going under Leyland's vigorous urging he was last, while the fleet Feu Follet was out in front.

Bob Rogers had much foot, however, and after Leyland had taken him wide on the far turn and into somewhat better going the Under Fire colt went to the front after racing Flora M. into defeat. But in the stretch Bob Rogers quit badly and Bowden quickly brought Feu Follet back into the lead and kept the gelding there to the end. My Son flashed a brilliant stretch run and got up to take third place. The other three finished far back. Each $2 ticket in the mutuels on Feu Follet paid $12.80.

The Mount Vernon Purse held second place on the program and provided an interesting five and a half furlong struggle in which Brilliant, Mrs. W. J. Potter's six-year-old son of Broomstick, scored a victory over C. Irby's Witchmount. Eight of those named overnight for this event for three-year-olds and upward declined the issue, leaving five in the contest. Brilliant was away last and was rated behind the pace to the final furlong pole, when Jockey West brought him up on the inside and he drew away to win easily.

All Empire City Stakes To Have Added Money Value

Distribution of entry blanks yesterday for the Empire City Racing Association's Summer meeting discloses the fact that all of the stakes to be run at the Yonkers course will have an added money value. The change was made, according to the announcement by President James Butler, to eliminate the few remaining guaranteed events and because of the fine support by both the public and horsemen to the meeting last year. The change means greatly increased purses and the chance for horsemen to earn a great deal more through the Yonkers campaign than in the past.

SEALYHAM IS BEST IN BOSTON DOG SHOW

Cocker Spaniel Is Second.

This homebred was placed over Idahurst Lofty, the homebred cocker spaniel owned by O. B. Gilman, the local exhibitor. Third was the beagle Shores Sagacious, owned by D. Edward Atwell of Coatesville, Pa., while the pointer, Stylish Mac, owned by R. F. Maloney of Pittsburgh, was placed fourth.

The last of the regular classes was cleaned up this morning and even then the hall was uncomfortably crowded. During the afternoon the two setter specials were judged, followed by the variety groups for the toys and the non-sporting dogs.

The afternoon program began with the judging of the English setter specials by Dr. James E. Hair of Bridgeport, Conn. Sportsmen from all over New England, from New York and more distant points were gathered about the ring in a solid phalanx, while the other available space and the balconies were jammed with a holiday crowd of dog enthusiasts.

Dr. Hair's work in tse ring was watched with the closest attention and the performances of the contestants were loudly applauded. The more important of the specials was the $100 cash prize offered by Charles H. Tyler, the Boston sportsman, breeder and exhibitor, for the best English setter, dog or bitch.

This prize was awarded only on a basis of soundness, action and general condition, the judge being governed in his award by the dog's make-up and every-day working qualities rather than the bench and show characteristics of the entrants. The contestants were let loose in the ring for a time, and Dr. Hair gave them long consideration.

Tyler's Willow Brook Kennels, of course, did not compete. The winner was the novice dog Shawsheen Mixture, owned by Philip Schwartz of Suffield, Conn. The award was received with great enthusiasm.

Orange Quail a Victor.

The other setter special was a cash prize of $50 offered by Hobart Ames for the best of the opposite sex, the same conditions to apply. The winner was the bitch Gore's Orange Quail, owned by Fred W. Gore of Cambridge, Mass.

This was followed by the first of the variety groups, the toys being called early in the afternoon. By this time the grand hall was packed and it was almost impossible to force a passage through the aisles where the dogs were benched or get near enough to the ring to get a glimpse of what was going on. The dogs proved a tremendous attraction for the children and the balconies were crowded by them when the toys were flitting about the big ring in competition.

The winner, King Pippin, beat the Pomeranian winner, Bright Light of Bramble Hill, owned by Miss Louise L. Parker, the local exhibitor. Third was Mrs. William D. Goff's Brussel Griffon Gold, while fourth went to the toy poodle Bon Bon Girlie o' the Prairies.

In the non-sporting variety class those eligible to compete were the winners among the Boston terriers, the bulldogs, the chow chows and the French bulldogs. The French bulldog was the first to be eliminated by the judges, Mrs. Brennan, Mrs. Neyhart and Tyler Morse. The other three were put through their paces several times before the judges came to the conclusion that the chow chow was the best of the lot.

Makes a Fine Impression.

Su T'Sun, the winner, is a light red. It was shown with lots of coat, and made a fine impression in action and on the judging block. Second went to the fine little Boston terrier, Ace of Aces Aviator, owned by Charles O'Connor of New York City. Third was won by R. M. Lewis's great bulldog Ch. Boltonia Barrister.

As was to be expected in the home town of the breed, Boston terriers were very strong in number and superior in quality, just short of a hundred of these lively little fellows being benched. Mrs. Albert Brennan of Buffalo officiated in the ring and gave great satisfaction by her awards. She began on the breed last evening, but so numerous were the entries and so large the classes that it was well afternoon today before she reached best of the breed. The Boston is extremely popular in the Hub and Mrs. Brennan had a big gallery at both sessions, especially during the holiday morning.

MISS HOLM BREAKS MARK, WINS TITLE

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 22.—Miss Ethel Lackie of the Women's Illinois A. C., of Chicago, and Miss Eleanor Holm, 14 years old, of the Women's S. A., of New York, reaped title laurels, while the latter and her clubmate, Miss Agnes Geraghty, achieved world's record feats in the first day of competition for the Women's National A. A. U. senior indoor championships in the 75-foot pool of the Buffalo A. C. today.

Miss Lackie won the 100-yard free style title sprint in 1:3 2-5 with Miss Martha Norelius of the Women's S. A. of New York the runner-up. Miss Holm captured the 300-yard medley championship breast, back and crawl stroke, in the new world's record time of 4:26 1-5.

Miss Adelaide Lambert of the same organization, titleholder, who finished second to Miss Holm, held the former record at 4:29 4-5.

Takes Invitation Event.

Miss Geraghty won an invitation 220-meter breast-stroke swim in 3:18 1-5, equaling the listed world's record of Miss Marie Baron of Holland and breaking her own American standard of 3:22 3-5.

The 100-yard classic brought out the best field ever garnered for the annual fixture. Thirteen contenders required the holding of four heats and semi-finals, all keenly contested. Those who qualified for the final, besides the Misses Lackie and Norelius, were Miss Albina Osipowitch of the Boys' Club Auxiliary of Worcester, Mass., and Miss Catherine Ames of the Women's S. A. of New York.

In the deciding trial the four were abreast up to 50 yards, then Miss Lackie sprinted brilliantly and finished two yards ahead of Miss Norelius, who beat the other two. There was a question concerning the award of third place. The judges disagreed, but the referee eventually decided in favor of Miss Osipowitch.

Two Heats in Medley.

The medley required two heats. Miss Lisa Lindstrom of the Women's S. A. of New York and Miss Emma Shemastis of the Women's Illinois A. C. completed the field in the final. Miss Lambert led up to 100 yards, but she began to fall back rapidly after that. Miss Holm led her home by fifteen yards, and Miss Lindstrom was third, five yards back.

The Women's S. A. took the lead in the race for the team trophy by scoring 12 points, followed by the Women's Illinois A. C. with 5.

ST. BENEDICT'S WINS DICKINSON H. S. MEET

The St. Benedict's High School track team, with 23 points, won the eighteenth annual indoor games of the Dickinson High School Athletic Association at the 113th Regiment Armory in Newark yesterday afternoon before a crowd of 3,000. Stuyvesant High, with 18 points, was second, and James Madison, with 16, was third.

One of the feature races, the half mile for the McGovern Trophy, furnished a sensational finish. Thundering down the stretch of a gruelling race, Bob Borton of St. Benedict's drew abreast of Harry Ronnie of Kearny High and they matched stride for stride as they strained every muscle in an effort to finish first. A step behind them was Stanley Brooks, also of Kearny High.

As Ronnie and Borton neared the tape Ronnie gasped and dived over the line to land a crumpled heap on the floor. Borton dived after him a split second later; the two lay there as if an invisible machine gun had mowed them down. Brooks crossed the line and he, too, fell to the floor. All three were carried off the track and revived.

SCOTT AND ROUTIS ARRIVE FOR BOUTS

Briton Has Offers From Several Cities, While Frenchman Seeks Canzoneri Clash.

Phil Scott, English heavyweight, put ashore here yesterday from the S. S. Olympic for another invasion of the American ring. He was greeted by his American manager, Jimmy Johnston, who joyfully informed the British boxer that there was plenty of work in sight for him.

It appears that interest in the heavyweights is widespread and Johnston enumerated the cities from which he had offers for Scott with evident relish. They include Toronto, Canada; Boston, Buffalo and the St. Nicholas Arena in this city. Judging from the emphasis placed upon the bid, Scott's manager is leaning toward a bout in Boston under Eddie Mack's direction on March 22. Scott's opponent would be Roberto Roberti. Johnston said that Scott would be ready to fight in about three weeks.

André Routis, French featherweight, was another arrival yesterday. He came from France to challenge Tony Canzoneri for the championship. Routis announced he would challenge Canzoneri through the New York State Athletic Commission tomorrow.

Both Sid Terris and Jimmy McLarnin ended their training yesterday for the ten-round battle in which they are scheduled to appear at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. Terris scaled 132¼ and although McLarnin's weight was not made public Pop Foster, his manager, insisted that Jimmy would make 135 without undue strain.

WALKER OUTPOINTS WILLIS ON COAST

By The Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, won the decision from Jack Willis of Texas after ten furious rounds here today. The titleholder came from behind in the eighth round to pound his opponent groggy and win the decision handily. A crowd of about 12,000 persons saw the fight, in which Walker's title was not at stake.

Willis's showing was a surprise, as he was on the short end of heavy odds to lose by a knockout. The Texan carried the fight to his opponent in the early rounds and fought and outpunched the champion both in the third and sixth frames. Stiff punches to the face and body, however, turned the tide of battle in Walker's favor after the seventh.

In the eighth and ninth rounds Willis took a bad beating and was groggy at the bell. Willis flashed momentarily in the tenth round and rushed Walker into a corner, but he weakened under another steady attack to the face and body.

Walker weighed 161¼ pounds and Willis scaled 163 pounds. Willis had agreed to weigh no less than 162 pounds for the contest.

"Midget" Mike O'Dowd, Columbus, Ohio, stopped Bobby Herman of Los Angeles in the fourth round of the scheduled six-round semi-final. Because Herman was bleeding profusely at the nose and from a cut eye the referee stopped the encounter. O'Dowd was leading, due to his heavy body punching at this time. They are featherweights.

COBB RUMOR ROBS M'GRAW OF SLUMBER

GIANT PILOT DENIES REPORT

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

Special to The New York Times.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 22.—Evidently some one has been making Ty Cobb offers to play with the Giants this year, but, if that's the case, the Giants don't know anything about it. At least John McGraw doesn't.

A panic started late last night when long distance telephone calls aroused McGraw from his slumbers. Long distance telephone calls generally are important, so McGraw picked up the receiver in a high state of interest to see what all the ringing was about.

"I hear you've signed Ty Cobb," came an unidentified voice through the transmitter. "What about it?"

"No, I haven't signed Cobb," McGraw sighed patiently and returned to his slumbers. In half an hour there was an insistent rapping at his door. Again he arose. For any one to awaken the Little Napoleon in the middle of the night he must have either an important mission or a lot of courage.

The knockers were a couple of local newspaper men. "Have you signed Ty Cobb?" they asked with bated breath. "No," came the emphatic response "and, before you ask me, I haven't bought Babe Ruth either."

Telegrams Follow Callers.

Again McGraw returned to his bed, but all night long the ringing of the phone, the mysterious callers and the various other interruptions kept up. When the telegrams started coming in this morning in bundles, McGraw asked, petulantly, "What is this? a joke?"

From what we could gather on the subject McGraw hasn't signed Cobb and evidently doesn't intend to. As a matter of fact he is fairly well fixed outfielders with Roush, Harper, O'Doul, Welsh, Mann, Ott and three rookies due to report at Augusta next week.

"I suppose if Cobb comes out to the ball park in Augusta and takes a little practice with us, which he probably will do, the telephone calls, telegrams and radio messages will start all over again," McGraw added, looking pessimistically into the near future.

As a matter of fact, th chances of Cobb playing with the Giants this season are about as small as the proverbial needle's eye, though McGraw won't put it so bluntly. Apparently McGraw understands that to definitely state that he doesn't want Cobb, would be bad form. After all, Ty was one of the greatest for more than twenty years and is due some consideration.

As some one remarked today, "After you've played before 30,000 persons every day you get kind of lonesome walking down a street alone."

Rainstorm Upsets Squad.

The inquiries about Cobb didn't complete the disturbances. There was the little matter of a rainstorm that was almost as irritating. It didn't stop the Giants from their daily hike through the mountains or their workout at McKee Field, but it made both far from pleasant.

The squad came in from the foothills with enough real estate on their shoes to start a subdivision, and the practice was cut short because of the muddy track. Any ball hit or dropped on the ground came up again weighing something less than a ton, and McGraw soon called a halt for fear that the Giants' pitchers would be more suited for putting the shot than for throwing curves and fast balls.

The only indication that the athletes got that this was Washington's Birthday was in a little speech McGraw delivered after the workout. It was a private address, and when it was all over McGraw said he had been talking to the players about their weaknesses. He didn't designate whether he meant their weaknesses on or off the field.

Walker First Giant Casualty; Mangum Hurts Knee, but Works

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 22.—The first casualty of the year was reported in the Giants' camp this morning when Willie Walker strained a tendon in his ankle. He decided it was easier to slide down the mountain than to proceed by natural means of locomotion. As a result, he couldn't work out this afternoon. Leo Mangum has a twisted left knee, too, but he wasn't excused from practice, so that can't be officially listed as a casualty.

CANZONERI WILL BOX AT BENEFIT TONIGHT

The benefit program for Joe Bernstein at the Broadway Arena tops the round of fistic attractions tonight. Misfortune has overtaken the former featherweight who gave Terrible Terry McGovern one of his hardest fights and the card tonight is to lend a former idol a hand.

Tony Canzoneri, who recently won the featherweight title in a bout with Benny Bass, will be a headliner. His opponent will be Pete Passaflume and the sponsors of the benefit promise that there will be some real fighting instead of a mere exhibition. The scheduled distance is four rounds. Izzy Schwartz, accredited flyweight champion by virtue of his victory over Newaboy Brown, will face Benny Hall in another four-rounder. Maxie Rosenbloom vs. Willie Walker; Bruce Flowers vs. Eddie Kid Wagner; Rene De Vos vs. Sailor Darden, Pete Sanstol vs. Joey Ferrentino, and Pal Silvers vs. Joey Caruso are other bouts listed.

Frankie Houlihan and Jimmy Doyle top the card at the 102d Medical Regiment Armory tonight. Bobby Wagner and Ralph Landis will clash in the semi-final. The feature is scheduled for ten rounds and the semi-wind-up for eight.

At the Twenty-seventh Train Division Armory tonight the feature ten-rounder will bring together Johnny Clearell and Jerry Kline.

Mrs. McHose Thus Advances and Will Meet Miss Van Wie—Miss Bryant Also Survives.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 22.—Miss Maureen Orcutt, women's metropolitan champion, dropped only two holes in thirteen played to win handily from Miss Beatrice V. Gottlieb, New York Golf Club star, in the quarter-finals of the Florida State tourney here today. The White Beeches C. C. player triumphed by 7 up and 5 to play.

The other survivors for the title are Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, who tied Miss Orcutt for the qualifying medal; Miss Katherine Bryant, another Chicago entry, and Mrs. Charles McHose of New York. Miss Payson, Canadian champion, was leading by three up when she and Mrs. McHose walked off the seventh green. The Portland girl after getting a birdie 3 on this hole complained of an injured left wrist and announced her withdrawal from the competition. Mrs. McHose plays Miss Van Wie in the semi-finals tomorrow.

Her Approaches Accurate.

Miss Orcutt, who went to the final of the National last Fall, was deadly with her approach shots today. On the two holes Miss Orcutt lost she drove out of bounds. She started with a birdie 3, and shot another birdie on the seventh, reaching the turn three up. Matching par she won the next four holes in succession.

KERNS IS LEADER OF SENIOR GOLFERS

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 22.—S. K. Kerns of Brae Burn, Boston, with an 85, led a field of fifty-four in the annual seniors tournament here today and was the only player to break 90 over the championship course. The field was rather well bunched, which accounted for the fact that C. L. Schoonover of Warren, Ohio, last year's runner-up, and C. S. Strout of Biddeford, Me., last year's medalist and a member of the United States senior team in Great Britain last Summer, failed to make the first division.

E. P. Merwin of Stockbridge, Mass., followed Kerns with 90.

The special Class A prize for those from 53 to 58 fell to Kerns, but as he was low it went to Merwin. Class B, 59 to 65, went to J. M. Jamison of Greensburg, Pa., and Class C, 65 and over, was halved by Becker and Middleton.

Kerns, who is 55, the minimum age, had the low incoming nine, which was chiefly responsible for the medal, as he was out in 44 and back in 41.

Sports of the Times

THOSE who are accustomed to view with alarm are convinced that the heavyweight situation went to the dogs when the Dempsey retirement was announced. Who is there to fight Tunney? What "worthy opponent" is in sight? It is rumored that Mr. Rickard is worried lest his elimination bouts should produce no shining St. George to attack the heavyweight dragon.

'Twas ever thus. A heavyweight champion looms large on the horizon. No one ever has a chance with him until some one, somehow, gets into the ring with him and astonishes the onlookers by knocking the regal crown down over the regal ears. Delaney is to fight Heeney, and Sharkey is to fight Risko. Yet there is no one in sight to fight Tunney. Or so they say. As a matter of fact, any one of the four "contenders" might step into the ring with the champion and give him a brisk argument. Tunney would figure to win, and probably he would win. But placing the mortgage money on the champion's chances would be more in the nature of a gamble than an investment. If this be treason, make the most of it.

Ancient History.

It was a joke, of course, to match Gentleman Jim Corbett with the one and only John L. Sullivan. The Boston Strong Boy would crunch the bones of the dapper dancer from the Pacific Coast. Sullivan was the great champion, the rock-crushing, man-eating terror of the prize ring. The best that Corbett could hope for was that his relatives would arrive in time to claim his body. Whereupon Corbett walked into the Man of Might and punched him blind and helpless.

A bit later it seemed foolish to match a comparatively little fellow like Ruby Robert Fitzsimmons with a big, fast, strapping chap like James J. Corbett, the heavyweight champion of the world. But Ruby Robert laid Gentleman Jim low in the dust of defeat. Along came Jim Jeffries, a big, husky chap. Who was he? Just a former sparring partner of Corbett's. A raw, uncouth boxer, of course. He would be deep-dish apple pie, with cream, for a clever lad and a hard hitter like Fitz. Jeff flattened the Cornishman in eleven rounds.

Getting down to more modern times, there was the Dempsey-Willard match at Toledo. David versus Goliath. Willard "loomed like a ship of the line, with thirty foot in the sheer." And at least fifty pounds advantage in weight. Dempsey was a good lad, but Willard was a mammoth and, more important still, he was the heavyweight champion of the world. But he wasn't heavyweight champion of the world very long after the bell rang to start the bout.

The Latest Bulletin.

The general attitude seems to be that So-and-So may be a fairly good fighter, but Sullivan, Corbett, Dempsey or Tunney, as the case may be, is the heavyweight champion of the world. And what chance has an ordinary mortal with the heavyweight champion of the world?

Less than two years ago Gene Tunney, now the reigning champion "with no worthy contender in sight," was himself a rank outsider. The great Dempsey was on the throne. He hadn't been very active, to be sure, but he was only 31 years old, and Tunney would be a push-over for him. Who was Tunney, anyway? Not very big; not very clever; nothing much. A game chap, willing enough, but with no sign of punching ability.

The Sesquicentennial bout was so astounding that many observers refused to take it at its face value. But Tunney repeated at Chicago and now, with Dempsey allegedly in permanent retirement, the same old situation has developed. The champion is lonely. There is no worthy opponent in sight.

A Question of Diet.

Master Tunney being a Shakespearean authority of note, it might be pertinent to ask: "Upon what meat doth this our champion feed, that he is grown so great?" Simple enough. He has fed on the championship itself, the prestige that goes with the title heavyweight champion of the world. He is not the first who has fattened on that diet, nor will he be the last.

It is probable that Tunney was just as good a fighter two years ago as he is today. Perhaps better. He wasn't as good at Chicago as he was at Philadelphia. He has fought only two fights in two years. His demand for two fights this year showed that he himself feared that lack of action would lead to an early downfall.

How does it come, then, that a fighter who was just a little bit better than the run of the mine two years ago is now so good that he has distanced the field? Did he attain this magnificent superiority by the simple process of fighting only twice in these same two years?

It doesn't sound reasonable. Tunney is the same fighter that he was two years ago, but he wears a crown on his head and thus casts a bigger shadow.

A Free Field.

The queer point is that nobody recognized Gene's qualities as a pugilist until he was garbed in the purple toga of a champion. A fine, upstanding figure, always keeping himself in good shape; a clever boxer, with a liberal supply of courage, gameness, sand, grit or whatever you want to call it, and a punishing hitter, though not a slugger. But he was all of this when the boys in the back row were snickering over his clamor for a bout with William Harrison Dempsey, Esq., the difference being that he was only a heavyweight then, and he is a champion now.

Thus Messrs. Risko, Sharkey, Delaney and Heeney can take heart. They are nothing now but ordinary heavyweights with more or less debatable charms. Sharkey was knocked out by Dempsey and held to a draw by Heeney. Heeney was defeated by Paulino. Risko was defeated by Heeney. Delaney was defeated by Risko. There is fear that the elimination process will produce no outstanding challenger to meet Tunney.

But if by any chance one of the four should deftly lift the crown from Gene's classic brow in the June engagement, within a year the same old cry would go ringing across the pugilistic realm: "The new champion is lonely. There is no worthy contender in sight."

NEW COURSE RECORD SET

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 22.—Tommy Armour, the American open golf champion, and Gene Sarazen combined to defeat Johnny Farrell and his brother, Jimmy Farrell, in a special eighteen-hole match here this afternoon on the St. Augustine links, 5 and 3. Armour was in superb form, and in scoring a 67 set a new course record.

Largely through the play of the open champion, he and Sarazen were 3 up going to the fifth tee. Sarazen then won the hole to put the team in the lead by 4 up. Sarazen ended the match for his team on the fifteenth, when he was the only one of the quartet to reach the green with his second shot. He then won the hole with a 4.

Armour was out in 32 and back in 35 to make his record, while Sarazen registered a 35, 36—71. Johnny Farrell did next best scoring, a 36, 36—72, while his brother tallied a 38, 38—76.

Armour, in addition to doing some very good putting, was easily the best today off the tee, while Jimmy Farrell proved the best iron player. Johnny Farrell's outstanding play of the match was a forty-foot putt on the thirteenth.

The four metropolitan stars shared a purse which totaled nearly $1,000 which had been raised by subscription. William J. Knott donated $100 for low score, which was captured by Armour, while Everett J. Lake, former Governor of Connecticut, gave $10 for each birdie scored.

Wins by One Stroke in Match to Decide Medalist in South Florida Tourney.

MIKKELSON TAKES 2 SKI JUMP PRIZES

HAUGEN MISSES RECORD

LAKE PLACID, Feb. 22.—With point score of 18.59, jumps of 170 and 175 feet, Strand Mikkelson of the Norge Ski Club, Chicago, won the Washington's Birthday ski-jumping competition at the Lake Placid Club here today, while Rolf Sivertsen of the Montreal Ski Club, with 17.39 points and jumps of 142 and 171 feet, was second, and Karl Herstad of the Norwegian-American Ski Club, New York, was third with jumps of 153 and 170 feet and 17.35 points.

Forty-eight entries from twenty-nine different ski clubs in the United States and Canada, eighteen in Class A and thirty in Class B, competed. Weather conditions were ideal, and a crowd estimated at more than 2,000 was present. The events were sanctioned by the Eastern Amateur Skiing Association.

The Dunn Trophy for first place went to Mikkleson, as well as the cup for the longest jump of the meet, his second jump of 175 feet.

Lars Haugen of the St. Paul Municipal Ski Club, national champion, topped this jump by sailing through the air a distance of 188 feet. He landed squarely, but lost his balance near the bottom of the lower hill and so missed a record. Mikkelson's jump of 175 feet sets a new mark for the sixteen-meter hill, which was rebuilt last Summer.

Magnus Satre of the Salisbury Outing Club, Salisbury, Conn., who defeated his brother, Clay, in the ten-mile cross-country race yesterday, jumped in the Class A group and made 136 and 134 feet. This gave him the Beck Trophy for combined points in racing and jumping.

The three Satre brothers will be among the leading competitors in the twenty-five-mile cross-country ski race tomorrow.

In Class A the other places were won as follows: Fourth, Alex Foster, Montreal Ski Club; fifth, Gustav Sundt, Three Rivers Ski Club, Quebec; sixth, Magnus Satre, Salisbury (Conn.) Outing Club; seventh, Halvor Bjorngaard, Aurora (Ill.) Ski Club; eighth, B. Paaske, Three Rivers Ski Club; ninth, A. Hermansen, Norsemen Ski Club, New York.

Wayne Stevens of Auburn, Me., with jumps of 138 and 154 feet and point score of 17.16, won first place in the Class B jumps.

All financial and commercial markets in the United States kept holiday yesterday. The banks also were closed, and there were no quotations for money or foreign exchange.

The markets will reopen today with several matters of financial interest shortly impending. Naturally, the character of the stock market's action will be one, for even Wall Street's mind is still in doubt over the actual trend of prices. Tuesday's recovery from the preceding week's decline was vigorous enough, but it could hardly be said that concerted operations for the rise had been resumed. In the advancing market of a year ago, stress was habitually laid on the fact that transactions were very large on days of rising prices and only small when the market declined. With a business of nearly 5,000,000 shares in Friday's falling market and of only 1,763,000 on Tuesday's recovery, the picture is reversed.

But the most seasoned observer of the course of speculation hesitates nowadays to make confident prediction. It would be a mistake to say that only the consistent prophets of a decline have been wrong about the market. Professional speculators, who make their living through following the trend of prices, and commission houses, which make theirs by executing the general public's orders, are at the moment as much at sea as anybody and as mistrustful of their own judgment.

This afternoon's report on "brokers' loans" may or may not really influence opinion. If the predicted reduction for the week is shown, the only obvious comment would be that last week's large-scale liquidation of stocks had been properly reflected. The position would be improved to that extent, but it would still be left to individual opinion to choose between the inference that further liquidation would be still more salutary and the inference that it would now be safe to bid up stocks again. One lately familiar argument has of necessity been discarded, the contention that the more recent expansion in such loans was due to the large underwriting of new securities. The brokers' loan account decreased $57,000,000 in January, 1927, and increased $98,000,000 in the same month of 1928; but the most complete summary of new issues of stocks and bonds last month shows decrease of $148,000,000 as compared with a year ago.

The weekly "car-loading reports," published yesterday and covering the week ending Feb. 11, do not make favorable comparison with other recent years. A decrease of 56,593 cars from 1927 and of 20,195 from 1926 occurred notwithstanding the fact that the week included the Lincoln holiday last year and the year before, but not in 1928. But comparisons in the first two months of any year are not always the safest indication. In 1924 the loadings of that period ran far above the preceding year, but at the end of March they began to decrease progressively, both from February's weekly movement and from 1923. The first nine or ten weeks of 1925 gave a very disappointing account of themselves, but the increase of March and April was emphatic. The smaller loadings of coal again make up the greater part of the week's total reduction from 1927, but that is evidently because of the large increase in coal shipments a year ago, when the strike was already threatened. Nearly as much coal is moving now as in 1926 or 1925.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

All the financial and commodity markets will reopen this morning after the Washington's Birthday holiday. Business was suspended in financial centres throughout the country yesterday.

Politics and Stocks.

Many persons are encountered in Wall Street at the moment who are firmly convinced that the political situation, and not the business situation, is the matter to be watched. One theory is heard, which has found reception in some responsible quarters. It is that those who were doing big things in the market saw that the January pace could not be continued through election day, and that stocks were therefore "let down" and will continue quiet until such time as those in command believe that a bull market can again be inaugurated to "carry through" until after election. Some persons have expressed the opinion that it is beyond the bounds of reason to believe that the party in control of the Government, basing its claims on the country's prosperity, will let voters go to the polls with a prolonged stock market reaction as a background. Others believe that the market and politics are not under the same control, and that each will pursue its course irrespective of the other.

Just as the English and Scottish investment trusts have for generations reached out to the four corners of the globe for suitable investments, so American investment agencies patterned on Anglo-Scottish models are beginning to delve into the investment possibilities in widely scattered markets. Carefully avoiding all control and directive responsibilities resulting from investments, the investment trust appears destined to become something of a market stabilizer, since it aims to sell securities of one market which are abnormally high and buy in some distant market where conditions may be just the reverse and where investment profits may be realized.

Oil Price Readjustments.

If the oil industry has not yet "turned the corner," as many leaders of the industry have been predicting for several months, it can be said that at least an effort is being made to help it around that strategic point. The readjustment of prices of the principal grades this week by the important companies is calculated to do just that thing. What the oil men have in mind at the moment is the stimulation of sales and the restriction of drilling, so that the outflow of petroleum products may be more nearly counterbalanced by actual demand. It is the belief, quite generally expressed, that reduction of price in the crude oil grades will do more to restrict production than any other step, because it brings many of the companies, especially the so-called independents, down to within "shooting distance" of their actual cost price.

Railroad Consolidation Must Wait.

Judging from the great number of demands which are being made upon the United States Senate for new legislation, investigations and other matters, railroad men here have about lost hope that any action will be taken at this session on railroad consolidation. In the event that the Senate does not act upon this question, the result will be, it is believed, that all pending merger plans will be shelved for several months and many are of the opinion that no decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission will be forthcoming on consolidation until Congress defines the commission's powers in that respect. Yet it is still considered possible that, if the Eastern executives in their conferences come to some agreement among themselves regarding allocation of lines in the East, the commission may regard that agreement as sufficient basis upon which to hand down rulings on cases such as the Chesapeake & Ohio merger.

If the Government follows a policy with regard to the retirement of Third Liberty bonds, maturing next September, similar to that which was used last year in the refunding of the Second Liberty loan, a new exchange offer will be made next month at the time of the usual quarterly financing. Last year at this time the Treasury offered three-to-five-year 3½ per cent. notes in exchange for Second Liberty 4¼s, and as a result more than $1,300,000,000 of the Seconds were retired, the balance being taken care of later through additional exchange offerings. The situation this year, however, is somewhat different, as the outstanding Third Liberties are much smaller in amount than were the Seconds which were retired last year, and the Treasury may decide to make its exchange offer at a later date. On March 15 a total of $564,000,000 Treasury securities will mature, but this will be partly offset by the receipt of income taxes.

The Ford Mystery.

Henry Ford furnished Wall Street with plenty of mystery during a greater part of last year, when the new Ford car was being evolved, and a "Ford mystery" of almost equal proportions exists today. This relates to the present production situation. The country was flooded with information concerning the new Ford car when it was introduced to the public late last year. At the present time deep silence is all that comes from Ford headquarters, and the public is left to guess at the reasons why the new Ford cars are not appearing in numbers on the highways. At the time of the exhibition of the new models it was said the new cars would be in large production some time in January and that soon thereafter they would be seen in increasing numbers. The final week of February has arrived and the new Ford still is a decided rarity, at least in the Eastern part of the country. Whatever lies behind the situation, the big Spring buying season is near at hand, when at least some sort of showdown appears likely in the race of Ford, General Motors and the independents in the low-price car field.

Traffic Reports and Comparisons.

Official reports of the volume of freight traffic handled in 1927 by the Class I railroads of the country, showing a decrease in that volume of 3.9 per cent. from 1926 but an increase of 4.1 per cent. over 1925, indicate, according to railroad men, two important facts. First, they give an idea of the difficulties encountered by the railroads during all last year as a result of the general business depression, especially in the fact that the traffic handled in the eastern district decreased from 1926 by 4.8 per cent., while that of the southern district fell off by 4.4 per cent. In the second place, the figures show that the results of 1927 as a whole look better when compared with 1925, a year in which general operations more nearly approached a comparative level.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 22, 1928.

SECURITY

These certificates will be secured by a closed first mortgage on the land owned in fee and Franklin Towers, a 20-story and basement, fireproof apartment hotel, recently completed, located at 333 West 86th Street, New York City. The land has a frontage of 118 feet on West 86th Street by 100 feet 8½ inches deep, for a total land area of approximately 11,884 square feet. The building contains apartments of 1, 2, 3 and 4 rooms each and two 8-room studio suites (on the 19th and 20th floors), for a total of 387 rooms.

APPRAISALS

	Land	Building	Furniture and Fixtures	Total
Fred'k Zittel & Sons	$531,000.00	$1,639,000.00	$50,000.00	$2,220,000.00
A. V. Amy & Co.	535,000.00	1,650,688.00	48,000.00	2,233,688.00
William B. May Co., Inc.	530,000.00	1,658,020.00	50,000.00	2,238,020.00

On the basis of the lowest of these appraisals, this issue is less than 65% of the appraised valuation for land and building ($2,170,000.00).

ESTIMATED ANNUAL INCOME

	Gross	Operating expenses, taxes, vacancies, etc.	Net Income
Fred'k Zittel & Sons	$370,850.00	$173,635.00	$197,215.00
A. V. Amy & Co.	370,850.00	172,835.00	198,015.00

Over 40% of the rooms are already rented, most of the leases having been made after the October, 1927, renting season, indicating the strong demand for apartments of this type in this neighborhood.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

The proceeds from the sale of these certificates will be used for the payment and discharge of existing mortgages and for other corporate purposes.

BUENOS AIRES ASKS $40,000,000 LOAN

SEVERAL OFFERINGS TODAY

$12,000,000 Issue of Firestone Cotton Mills and $6,000,000 Rochester Gas Included.

In addition to bond offerings for today amounting to $25,350,000, including industrial, utility and municipal issues, it was learned yesterday that the Province of Buenos Aires, Argentina, is arranging a refunding operation in excess of $40,000,000, and that an offering of bonds will be made in this market soon. Other prospective bond issues announced amounted to $6,000,000.

Heading the list of today's offerings is a new issue of $12,000,000 Firestone Cotton Mills twenty-year 5 per cent. sinking fund gold bonds, which are to be distributed by Otis & Co., the Cleveland Trust Company and the National City Bank of New York. The bonds, dated March 1, 1928, will mature on March 1, 1948. They will be offered at 97 and accrued interest, to yield about 5.25 per cent.

The entire capital stock of the issuing company is owned by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio. The bonds are unconditionally guaranteed by the parent company and are redeemable in whole or in part on any interest date at 102½ and interest in the first five years, at 101½ in the second five years, and at 101 thereafter prior to maturity. A mortgage securing the issue will provide for a sinking fund, which will commence to operate on March 1, 1931, and will retire more than 80 per cent. of the bonds prior to maturity.

J. P. Morgan & Co. head a syndicate which today will offer an issue of $8,000,000 Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation general mortgage 4½ per cent. gold bonds, Series D, dated Sept. 1, 1927, and maturing on Sept. 1, 1977. The issue is not redeemable prior to Sept. 1, 1967, and thereafter will be redeemable as a whole but not in part at 102 and accrued interest. The price of the issue is 99½ and accrued interest. Associated in this financing with Morgan & Co. are the First National Bank, the National City Company, Harris, Forbes & Co., the Guaranty Company and the Bankers Trust Company.

Gas Company's Issues.

Two new issues totaling $5,900,000 will be offered today by Taylor, Ewart & Co., Inc., and Zwetsch, Heinzelmann & Co., Inc., for the Inland Gas Corporation, which produces and distributes wholesale natural gas in Eastern Kentucky. One issue consists of $4,400,000 first mortgage 6½ per cent. sinking fund gold bonds, Series A, and the other of $1,500,000 ten-year 7 per cent. sinking fund debentures. Both issues will mature on Feb. 1, 1938. The bonds, which carry stock purchase privileges, are priced at 100 and accrued interest, as are the debentures.

Holders of the bonds are entitled to purchase ten shares of common stock for each $1,000 bond held at prices ranging from $5 to $15 a share, while holders of the debentures are entitled to purchase fifteen shares of common stock for each $1,000 debenture held at the same prices, depending on the date upon which the privileges are exercised. Holders of $500 or $100 bonds and debentures will have proportionate rights.

A new issue of $1,400,000 Community Telephone Company one-year 5 per cent. gold notes due on March 1, 1929, and prices at 99 and interest, to yield about 6 per cent., will be offered today by P. W Chapman & Co., Inc. The company does a general telephone business in Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio and Minnesota and owns or controls thirteen subsidiaries maintaining exchanges in fifty-six communities. The outstanding capitalization of the company consists of 100,000 shares of cumulative preferred stock, 100,000 shares of Class A common stock and 250,000 shares of Class B common stock.

Municipal Bond Offering.

Batchelder, Wack & Co. will offer today a new issue of $50,000 Village of North Tarrytown, N. Y., 4.10 per cent. paving bonds, due serially, Jan. 1, 1929 to 1938, and priced to yield 3.90 to 3.95 per cent., according to maturity.

A new issue of $3,500,000 United States Radiator Corporation 5 per cent. sinking fund gold debentures will be offered soon by a banking group headed by First National Company of Detroit, Inc.; White, Weld & Co.; F. L. Carlisle & Co. and the Marine Trust Company of Buffalo. The proceeds will be used partly to acquire the assets of the Pacific Steel Boiler Corporation and its subsidiaries, and to provide additional cash resources.

A banking group headed by A. C. Allyn & Co., Inc., will soon offer an additional issue of $2,500,000 of 6 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of the National Electric Power Company. The proceeds will be used for the acquisition of additional common stock of the National Public Service Corporation, a substantial interest in which is already owned, and for other corporate purposes. Other banking houses associated in this offering are the Utility Securities Company, Howe, Snow & Co., Inc.; the Old Colony Corporation, and the Emery, Peck & Rockwood Company.

Principal and semi-annual interest (March 1 and September 1) payable at The Cleveland Trust Company, Cleveland, Ohio, Trustee, or at The National City Bank of New York, New York City. Interest payable without deduction for any Federal Income Tax up to 2%. The Company will refund upon proper application, any Pennsylvania Personal Property Tax not in excess of 4 mills. These bonds will be unconditionally guaranteed as to principal, interest and Sinking Fund by The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company of Ohio.

THE COMPANY

Firestone Cotton Mills is a corporation organized under the laws of Massachusetts in 1924 and its entire capital stock is owned by The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio. This Company purchased the Sanford Spinning Mills at Fall River, Massachusetts, and has been manufacturing and selling to The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company a portion of its tire fabric requirements. These mills have not been adequate and the Company has recently acquired a practically new cotton mill property at New Bedford, Massachusetts.

SECURITY

These bonds, when issued, will be secured by a closed first mortgage on all of the Company's real estate and manufacturing plants in Fall River and New Bedford and in addition to this security, the principal, interest and sinking fund of these bonds will be unconditionally guaranteed by The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio.

THE GUARANTOR COMPANY

As to the financial responsibility of the guarantor, its annual statement of October 31, 1927, shows approximately $80,000,000 net assets after allowing for bonds of subsidiary companies previously guaranteed. Its sales for 1927 fiscal year were $127,696,000 and its profits thereon $13,780,000.

On sales as summarized below, the net income (after Federal Taxes) of The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company of Ohio and its subsidiary companies in the United States, as certified by Ernst & Ernst, Public Accountants, has been as follows:

	Sales	Net Income
Year ended October 31, 1926	144,297,000	7,622,000*

*From which 1 reserve for contingencies of $1,500,000 was provided and †$500,000 additional was provided, making total reserve of $2,000,000 which is now intact.

Average annual net earnings of The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, as shown above, were $9,128,000 or over 7½ times the combined annual interest requirements of these bonds and of other bonds guaranteed by the Company.

The total market value of the issued and outstanding Preferred and Common Stocks of the Company is over $90,000,000.

SINKING FUND

The mortgage securing this issue will provide for a Sinking Fund which commences to operate on March 1, 1931, estimated to be sufficient to retire 35 per cent of the bonds within ten years and over 80 per cent of this issue before maturity.

MANAGEMENT

The general operation of Firestone Cotton Mills is in the hands of men of broad textile manufacturing experience and its management will be supervised by the officers and directors of The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio.

We offer these bonds when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to the approval of counsel, Messrs. Andrews & Belden, of Cleveland, for the Bankers, and Messrs. Borden, Kenyon & Hawes, Fall River, Mass., and Bernard M. Robinson, Esq., of Akron, for the Company. Delivery is expected to be made on or about March 15th, 1928, in the form of Interim Receipts of the Trustee.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

MONEY FIRMER IN LONDON

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Action in the stock market today was noteworthy for strength in oil shares and a number of industrials, especially artificial silk shares. There was little change in gilt-edged securities, although the underlying tendency was firm. Foreign Government securities were inclined to harden as a result of purchases of Chinese bonds, Greek scrip and several South American issues.

As a sequel to yesterday's declaration of a big cash and stock dividend Courtauld, Ltd., jumped in the early hours to above £9. This rise brought in a heavy volume of selling orders on the part of speculators, and the shares went back, closing at £8¼, showing a gain of a pound on the day.

Oil shares showed little movement in the Exchange, but had an active and strong market in the Street, where business was carried on for some time with a general advance in prices.

A further drop in the price of rubber to 13⅛ pence a pound depressed the share market and there was another all-round fall. The weakness in rubbers was attributed principally, however, to the overnight break in New York, where the Firestone interests were reported to have made very large sales.

Mining issues were dull. De Beers dropped ⅛ of a point and Rand Mines rose ⅛.

Money was more in demand in Lombard Street and the discount market was slightly firmer. Despite the fact that New York banks were closed today, the dollar exchange continued to move in favor of sterling. The rate closed at $4.87⅛, a rise of ⅛.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—Trading in oils featured the Bourse session today, with a marked rise, while rubber stocks, on the contrary, went begging. Although animated at the start, business slackened toward the close, and those who have been following the Bourse closely report a gradual decline in the number of transactions during the past week or more. At the closing, prices generally fell off.

Rentes, actively bought during most of the session, followed the general movement toward a decline at the end of the day. The 3 per cents. closed at 67.50; 4s of 1917, 75.25; 4s of 1918, 74.40; 5s of 1920, amortissable, 102.95; 5s of 1915, 86.10.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—Ash Wednesday sentiment dominated the Stock Exchange today. On account of the absolute lack of orders from any side practically all stocks dropped 2 to 4 points in the first hour, despite the easy conditions in the money market. The only exception was glazed textiles, which gained 10 points.

The depression was chiefly caused by unfavorable reports from exchanges throughout the Reich, by the illness of Chancellor Marx and by the uncertainty as to the development of the political situation when the Reichstag reassembles next week.

In the afternoon a report that the trade balance published yesterday was incorrect and will be rectified brought a slight but only temporary improvement. Business at the closing hour was almost at a standstill, with a downward tendency. Foreign stocks were weak and generally lower.

END GERMAN METAL STRIFE.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—The strike of Central German metal workers has been ended and a general lockout threatened by the Manufacturers' Association avoided through the action taken yesterday by the Labor Minister making the decision of the official arbitrator mandatory.

Representatives of Central German metal trades unions today decided by a vote of 50 to 4 that work shall be resumed on Friday at all plants. A statement issued after the meeting said that the employes would have been able to continue the strike, but prefer instead to make their power felt at the coming Reichstag election.

Italy's Treasury Surplus $4,020,000

ROME, Feb. 22 (AP).—Italy's paper circulation was reduced by 92,000,000 lire (about $5,520,000) during January and the Treasury on Jan. 31 showed a surplus of 67,000,000 lire (about $4,020,000).

The following figures, in computing which the averages are the monthly averages, indicate the progress of the Company. The average capital employed for the period from April 21st, 1927 (when the company commenced business) to January 31st, 1928 (9½ months) was $745,325. For this period the net profits, after provision for Federal Income Tax, amounted to $74,583, which is approximately 10% on the capital employed for the period, or at the rate of over 12% per annum.

Having regard to the average time the Preferred Stock (par value $25) was issued and outstanding, the 6% dividend was earned over three times. The net profits for the period, after providing for dividends on the Preferred Stock, were equal to $1.54 per share on the Common Stock issued. Having regard to the average time the Common Stock (par value $10) was issued and outstanding, this amount is equal to $6.32 per share per annum on the Common Stock.

The net profits do not include unrealized profits resulting from increases in the market value of investments owned, which unrealized profits would amount to an additional percentage on the average capital employed for the period.

SEES COMPETITION LOWERING PROFITS

M. W. Alexander Finds Capital Harder Hit Than Labor—Cites 'Profitless Prosperity.'

MAKES STUDY OF EARNINGS

He Finds Gradual Shifting of the Wealth-Producing Contribution to Few Large Enterprises.

In a fact-finding study of many thousands of business records and income tax returns of corporations undertaken to determine just how prosperous they are, and why profit margins are dwindling, as is claimed, Magnus W. Alexander, President of the National Industrial Conference Board, Inc., says that "competition today is making itself felt to such a degree that in recent years about two in every five manufacturing corporations have either made no profits or have incurred a deficit."

Pointing out first that the figures of business failures in 1927 steadily progressed and were near the high level reached during the 1920-1921 depression, Mr. Alexander says that the trend in new incorporations has been downward since the end of 1925.

Remarking that in spite of great business activity, the situation has not been a bed of roses for all those engaged in business, Mr. Alexander finds that "capital rather than labor has borne the brunt of the effects of the competitive struggle."

In addition to the uneven distribution of prosperity between the larger and smaller concerns, there has also been considerable variance between one industry and another, he pointed out.

Mr. Alexander sees growing European competition through the duplication abroad of our labor saving devices and other methods, not as a menace to our industry and trade, but as a stimulant which should urge us to overcome the problems of keener competition now confronting us.

To substantiate the claims made that we are enjoying a "profitless prosperity," the research staff of the Conference Board has analyzed income tax returns over a period of years showing that in 1920, 37 per cent., in 1921 54 per cent., in 1922 41 per cent., in 1923 37 per cent., in 1924 41 per cent. and in 1925 39 per cent. of all manufacturing corporations reported no net income. Figures for later years are not yet available.

"During these six years, for every $100 earned by successful concerns," Mr. Alexander says, "$82 were lost by the unsuccessful corporations. While industry as a whole has moved forward and helped to swell the national income from $74,853,000,000 in 1920 to $77,313,000,000 in 1925, it is the gradual shifting of the wealth-producing contribution from the many smaller to the fewer large industrial enterprises that I want to emphasize in this connection.

"In the extreme year 1921, when more than half the corporations showed no profits, only a little more than one-third of the business of corporations was done by corporations operating at a loss. Again in 1917, when about one-third of the corporations operated without net income, less than one-sixteenth of the business was done by corporations whose total operations resulted in a deficit.

"The proportion of no-profit business seems to be in a high degree responsive to the general business situation. It was very low in the boom years, 1917-1919. The doubling of the proportion in the year 1920 presaged the still greater increase in 1921. The following years, except 1924, show a diminution in the proportion, though the figure for 1925 is still considerably higher than in 1919. The fact that the proportion of no-profit business is smaller than that of no-profit corporations is a necessary consequence of the situation previously demonstrated—that no-profit corporations occur more frequently among the smaller than among the larger corporations.

"The analysis further shows that manufacturing corporations in 1925 not only operated on a distinctly narrower profit margin per dollar of sales than in 1923, the last previous 'good' year, but that the average net income of 99.89 per cent. of all those with less than $5,000,000 net income in the year 1925, was nearly 11 per cent. smaller than in 1923.

"In contrast, manufacturing concerns with net incomes of $5,000,000 or more a year—ninety-five in number, or 0.11 per cent. of the total of 89,674 companies making returns for 1925—earned enough to show an actual gain of 25.4 per cent. in average net income, as compared with the income of a corresponding group in 1923.

"These larger companies, although constituting only one-ninth of 1 per cent. in number of all manufacturing corporations, earned 44.5 per cent. of the industry's aggregate net income."

FRANCE SEEKS GOLD HELD IN BRITISH BANKS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—Behind the visit of M. Moreau, Governor General of the Bank of France, to London, where he conferred with Montagu Norman of the Bank of England, is understood to be a decision by France to make every effort to repatriate the large gold deposits which now exist in foreign countries, notably London and New York.

A considerable proportion of this gold consists of dollars and pounds sterling which have been purchased by the French Government as part of the operation permitting the de facto stabilization of the franc at twenty-five to the dollar, accomplished by the Poincaré Ministry.

It is the belief, however, that large sums of gold held by foreign banks and which, while deposited there are said to be currently loaned out to their clientele by holding banks, constitutes a dangerous factor for the ultimate French stabilization and might be manipulated to France's disadvantage.

Some of this gold already has been brought to France in two recent shipments from New York. M. Moreau's conference with M. Norman today related to transfers of gold held in London banks and it is believed here his proposals met with a favorable response, since M. Moreau announces his return to the Continent tomorrow.

FINANCIAL ENCYCLOPAEDIA

RAILROAD BONDS: This term is usually understood to include the fixed obligations of steam railroad systems transporting passengers and freight between cities. It does not include the securities of street railway or interurban traction lines which are classed among the public utilities. There are approximately twelve billion dollars of railroad bonds and notes outstanding, representing the obligations of about 250,000 miles of road in operation. For almost one hundred years the growth of our railroads has been largely financed by the issuance of bonds, mostly secured by mortgages on roadbed, equipment or terminals, although there have been some unsecured debenture bonds. There is a great complexity of issues in most large systems, with varying degrees of seniority, or precedence in claiming the assets. The investment rating of a railroad bond is based upon such factors as the general credit and financial record of the road in question, the amount of assets securing each bond, the ratio of earnings to fixed charges, and so forth.

SEES GOOD EXPORT OUTLOOK

Among the passengers who arrived yesterday from Southampton via Cherbourg on the White Star liner Olympic was J. D. Mooney, head of the export division of the General Motors Corporation, who returned from a three-weeks' business trip to Europe. He reported that the export division was operating in 104 countries and in 1927 did a business of $180,014,700 as compared with $107,387,300 in 1926.

"The outlook for the automobile business in the overseas markets continues good," he said, "because some countries are comprehending that the United States has gained much by making it easy for people in all walks of life to own and operate automobiles."

The General Motors Corporation's overseas sales of automobiles and trucks in 1927 totaled 193,830 units, President Alfred P. Sloan Jr. said yesterday. This compared with 118,791 units sold in 1926 and 100,894 in 1925. These figures do not include sales of Vauxhall Motors, Ltd., or of the Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing Company.

Second quarter	55,009	31,861	26,577
Third quarter	48,885	22,709	25,906

FINDS IRELAND PROSPEROUS

A. F. Chew Says on Return Home That Trade Prospects Are Good.

Arthur E. Chew, exporter of 17 Battery Place, who returned yesterday from Europe on the White Star liner Olympic, said he had seen in Ireland good prospects for American trade.

"The people have money to spend," Mr. Chew said, "although they do not look as if they had a dollar in the world in many of the places I visited.

"At Limerick I was shown over the big power plant that is being constructed to tap the falls of the River Shannon, but I could not see what could be done with it after the work is completed.

"The contract was awarded to a German firm and they have not only brought over their own workpeople, machinery and tools, but also import their clothing and food so they do not spend a cent in Limerick, which has made storekeepers somewhat peeved."

Mr. Chew said business had improved considerably in London since his previous visit last Fall, and every one was more cheerful. The exports are increasing and progress is being made in radio, automobiles and steel industries, he declared.

Gold Seal Electrical Company.

The balance sheet of the Gold Seal Electrical Company, Inc., and subsidiaries for the close of 1927 shows current assets of $629,886 and current liabilities of $90,896. Surplus was $621,069, and total assets were $1,770,945.

HOPE FOR RESPITE ON FRENCH FILM LAW

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—It seems not unlikely that American officials in the course of the next few days will discuss with the Foreign Office the operation of the Government's motion picture decree restricting the showing of foreign films to a nine-to-one basis. The decree will be effective March 1, and is aimed particularly at American films which supply more than 60 per cent. of the total consumption in this market.

American film officials conferred yesterday with Colonel Edward Lowry, European representative of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributers Association of America, and Lowry later explained the position of the American film industry to Ambassador Herrick. Today the Americans met with their French colleagues at a special session of their Paris organization.

The Americans are hoping that the embassy will induce the French Government to promise to make a liberal interpretation of the decree for the first year. By the end of that time it is probable that the whole question of foreign restriction on American films will have been thoroughly threshed out at the next Geneva meeting of the signers of the Anti-Tariff Barriers Convention, which is scheduled for June. Also there is a possibility that a Franco-American commercial treaty may be drawn up during 1929, in which case films might be the subject of special consideration.

Meanwhile, Paris offices of the American companies are trying to obtain as many visas as possible from the existing censor before the decree becomes effective a week from tomorrow. Some of the firms already have obtained visas for their entire 1928 output, but others have not been so fortunate.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT QUITS SEVERAL POSTS

Will Devote Time to Fidelity and Deposit and American Bonding Companies.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has been associated several years with more than a score of financial organizations, announced yesterday that as he has almost completely recovered from the infantile paralysis which attacked him four years ago he will now resign from minor executive posts in other companies and devote his time almost exclusively to his duties as General Vice President of the Fidelity and Deposit and the American Bonding Companies of Maryland.

At the same time he announced his withdrawal as a director of the International Germanic Trust Company, the International Germanic Company and the American Construction Council. He will retain his active partnership in the law firm of Rossevelt & O'Connor, he said, and will likewise take an active part in Governor Smith's campaign for the Presidential nomination.

Mr. Roosevelt marked his more active participation in the affairs of the Fidelity and Deposit Company by making his first act under the new routine the announcement of the promotion to Vice President of the company of John A. Griffin, now manager of the contract division.

WALL ST. EXPECTS OIL EARNINGS RISE

Financial Men Believe First Quarter Will Reflect Some Business Improvement.

VACUUM REPORT AWAITED

Statement Thought Likely to Show Increase to Offset Drop by Other Companies.

With reports or official estimates already issued showing the results of the operations in 1927 of fourteen representative oil companies that furnish a cross section of the industry, Wall Street was able last week to take stock of the oil business with some degree of accuracy and determine to what extent earnings were reduced by the depression that prevailed in the industry most of the year.

Generally, the reports that have been issued are no more unfavorable than the financial community had expected. The earnings of a number of companies fell short of expectations, but these were counterbalanced by the gratifying returns that other companies made.

It is the general opinion of oil men that earnings in the first quarter of this year will reflect a slight improvement in the petroleum business and that the second quarter may show that the industry has turned the corner, unless something unforeseen develops.

Large Decrease Reported.

None of the large Standard Oil companies has reported for 1927 except one, the Standard of New York, which has issued an official estimate showing quite closely what the earnings were. This happens to be one of the most disappointing statements brought out, showing as it does that the net earnings last year amounted to only $16,327,048, or 95 cents a share on 17,118,981 shares of $25 par capital stock, compared with $32,776,502 or $1.95 a share in 1926.

The Standard of New York is one of the two most powerful organizations in the oil industry, ranking second to the Standard of New Jersey. It is largely a refining and marketing company, with extensive interests in foreign countries. It also has a large producing subsidiary. At present the company is engaged in a price-cutting war in India with the Royal Dutch-Shell group of Europe. That contest became serious only a short time ago, however, and, it is believed, had little effect on last year's earnings. The slump in 1927 earnings is ascribed to the same conditions that have reduced the income of most other companies—overproduction and attendant low prices.

The Standard of New Jersey will not issue its report until late in April or early in May and there have been no dependable estimates as to what it will show. The general belief is that its 1927 operations were more profitable, proportionately, than were those of the Standard of New York. The Standard Oil Company of California and the Standard of Indiana, the other two members of the "Big Four" of the Standard group, will not report for some weeks yet. Both will show sharp declines in earnings, according to Wall Street predictions.

Vacuum Increase Expected.

The financial district is counting upon the forthcoming report of the Vacuum Oil Company, another of the Standard group, to offset much of the bad effect created by the earnings statements of other companies. If estimates made last week by persons familiar with the Vacuum's affairs can be accepted, this will be one of the few large companies to show an increase in earnings.

The report of the Gulf Oil Corporation, one of the largest independents in the country, will be issued in a few days. Wall Street is prepared for a sharp decline in that company's earnings, but, like the large Standard Oil companies, its financial position is strong. The Texas Corporation, which is the largest independent in the country, will bring out its 1927 report in a few weeks. Wall Street understands it will show a drop in earnings, but there has been no official intimation as to the extent of the decline. This company also is strongly entrenched financially.

TWO REASONS SUGGESTED

Needs for Capital Perhaps Met at Last—Federal Investigation Probably Factor Also.

Financing by public utilities, which for some years has been a dominant factor in securities markets, has shown signs of slackening this year. This is all the more striking by comparison with 1927, when public utility bond offerings headed all others in almost every month. Utility bond issues in 1927 totaled $2,046,509,000, against industrial issues of $1,289,000,000 and a total of all issues of $5,957,000,000. To date this year, utility offerings have been second to foreign flotations.

Two reasons have been suggested for the decrease in utility financing that has put this group in a position not comparable with the one which it had held so long. One is that the heavy flotations of the last few years by the utilities have finally outrun their needs for capital. This suggestion, however, has been made at different times in the past, only to be followed by the accumulation of more financing records by the utility group.

Effects of Investigation.

Another suggestion is that the moves by Senator Walsh for a Senatorial investigation of the utility industry have had a quieting effect on utility financing. It is true that large utility holding companies have recently completed mergers with as little publicity as possible, and it is generally believed that contemplated mergers will be deferred until after the situation in Washington has definitely cleared. However, last week's vote of the Senate to refer the inquiry to the Federal Trade Commission may be interpreted as a favorable move by those who recall that the commission made no serious comment on the industry in a report on the General Electric Company and the power companies.

While it may still be too early to predict what the volume of utility financing will be in 1928, figures to date show that utility bond offerings in January were only $121,125,000, against nearly $208,000,000 in January, 1927. There was, however, a general decline in all bond offerings in January, the total for all issues being $576,000,000, against $630,000,000 in January, 1927. The offerings of utility bonds in January, 1927, were far ahead of offerings by other groups. This January foreign issues led, with offerings that totaled $171,000,000.

Utility Bond Offerings.

Offerings of utility bonds this month total about $83,000,000 to date, although in all of February last year they totaled $176,845,000. Foreign offerings this month have already reached $100,000,000.

A further sidelight on the situation is afforded when it is recalled that in the first quarter of 1927 the utilities contributed $507,000,000 of the total of $1,729,000,000 bonds offered in that period. Foreign offerings were second with a total of $360,000,000. However, while the showing to date may indicate that the public utilities are due to take a secondary rôle for the first time in some years, it is evident that they will continue to play an important part in the securities markets. The $36,000,000 offering of the Continental Gas and Electric Company this year was second only to a $45,000,000 Chilean issue, which was the largest issue to be floated so far in 1928.

Stock offerings by utilities were in small amount in January, but have increased this month. Of stock offerings totaling $79,000,000 in January, utilities contributed $21,000,000. Public utility financing to date for this year and last follows:

	Stocks.

RADIO USED TO TEST QUALITY OF PAPER

W. D. Somerville Tells Convention Discovery by a Fan Is in Use in Many Mills.

Thickness and Moisture Produce Variations—Pulp and Paper Makers Elect.

The use of the radio on a paper machine to test the quality of the paper produced was reported yesterday at the annual convention of the Technical Association of the pulp and paper industry at the Waldorf. W. D. Somerville of the Eastern Manufacturing Company, Bangor, Me., reported practical application of the experiment of a radio enthusiast had been made in his Bangor mills.

The radio fan, experimenting with paper to throw the radio set out of tune, discovered that the thickness or other characteristics of the paper produced a measurable difference in the regulation of the dial. It was discovered that a difference in moisture also produced a measurable difference in the tuning of the set.

The result, Mr. Somerville said, has been the installation of a specially prepared radio apparatus on the paper machines of his and several other companies to test the moisture content of the paper, the radio reporting to the machine tender whether the paper is being dried to the exact extent required. In addition, he said, the radio is being used to control the weight of the paper produced.

SOUTHERN KRAFT MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION—President, A. C. Goodyear, Boxalusa, La.; Vice President, P. M. Talton, Hopewell, Va.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Dobson, New Orleans, La.

WRITING PAPERS MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION—President, D. K. Brown, Neenah, Wis.; First Vice President, E. A. Franklin, Mittineague, Mass.; Second Vice President, E. C. Leary, Dayton, Ohio; Executive Committee, L. C. Anderson, Middleton, Ohio; I. N. Eelesck, Turners Falls, Mass.; E. P. Bacy, Springfield, Mass., and C. B. Clark, Appleton, Wis.

COVER PAPERS MANUFACTURERS—Minor M. Beckett, Franklin, Ohio, President; B. A. Franklin, Mittineague, Mass., Vice President; Frank L. Taylor, Springfield, Mass. Secretary-Treasurer. With Mr. Beckett and Mr. Franklin, Willis H. Howes of Watertown, N. Y., was elected to the Executive Committee.

TISSUE PAPER MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION—Z. W. Ranck, Dayton, Ohio, President; J. M. Conway, Green Bay, Wis., First Vice President; John Wood, Lee, Turners Falls, Mass., Second Vice President; E. H. Naylor, Springfield, Mass., Secretary-Treasurer. Besides Messrs. Ranck, Conway and Wood, E. M. Burton, Lockport, N. Y., and E. J. Kiefer of Port Huron, Mich., were elected to the Executive Committee.

An address in Chinese was a feature of the annual dinner of the Technical Association of the industry at the Commodore last night. The speaker was Lloyd Hunter of Chillicothe, Ohio, who spent a year and a year in China investigating the history of paper making in that country. He has spent three years studying Chinese.

RETAIL CLOTHIERS ELECT.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 22.—Participating groups in the tri-State Convention of retail clothiers elected officers at the closing session at the Ambassador today.

In the Pennsylvania Retail Clothiers' Association Joseph S. Finch, New Kensington, succeeded Tom N. Morgan, Philadelphia, as President. William Refawich, Bethlehem, and C. J. Johnson, Greenburg, were elected Vice Presidents, and Walter J. Flegal, Clearfield, Secretary-Treasurer.

Louis Gutterman, New York, succeeded F. W. Clinton, New York, as President of the New York Retail Clothiers' Association. A. C. Weaver, New York, and John Clayton, Jamestown, were elected Vice Presidents; Ira Houser, Niagara Falls, Secertary, and Walter Bennett, Brooklyn, Treasurer.

In the Retail Clothiers and Furnishers' Association of New Jersey Frank Minnich of Vineland succeeded Frederick S. Donnelly of Trenton as President. William Wooley, Long Branch; M. I. Fuld, Paterson, and L. W. O. O'Donnell, Somerville, were elected Vice Presidents; F. J. Ziegler, Trenton, Secretary, and John Allaire, Hammonton, Treasurer. Godfrey Lebhar, editor of Chain Store Agent, New York, spoke of economic factors in the success of chain stores. He protested a proposal in Rhode Island to tax chain stores $600 each year.

FAVORS RUBBER CONTROL.

Agent of Eastern Company Gives Estimates of Production.

The American rubber industry, as well as the British and Dutch producers, will face a most serious situation if the British eliminate restrictions on shipments of rubber, in the view of Clifford C. Johnston, New York representative of Nomura & Co. of Singapore.

Statistics show that, with restrictions in force, a decline in visible stocks would be noted of about 15,000 tons at the year's end, while with restriction out, stocks would increase about 80,000 tons, Mr. Johnston says. In other words, the visible total would reach 280,000 tons, comparing with 208,977 tons in 1922, when restriction went into effect.

"The weight of these supplies sent rubber to 12½ cents," Mr. Johnston says. "A price drop to anything like the level of 1922 means disaster not only to the producer but to the American consumer."

Comprehensive lines of Fall and Winter coat, suit and dress fabrics will be presented to the trade today by A. D. Juilliard & Co., Inc. Broadcloth effects of a semi-lustrous character are strongly featured for dress coats in the woolen coating collection. While tans and "woody" tones are stressed in the color assortments, medium greens and blues are also included. Plain and novelty numbers are offered in genuine camel's hair fabrics for sport and general wear for the first time, and there is also a new line of brushed tweeds in neutral tans and grays for sport wear.

Isidore Simonelli, 29 years old, of 315 West Twenty-third Street, an employe of J. F. Lombardi & Co., foreign exchange agents at 61 Spring Street, was held in $5,000 bail by Magistrate Flood in the Tombs Court when arraigned on suspicion of grand larceny in connection with the alleged unlawful conversion of $2,990 belonging to John Carrara of 316 Twenty-seventh Street.

Detective Robert Gray of the Elizabeth Street Station said that Simonelli was the second man taken into custody in the past week on a series of complaints which, the detective added, Simonelli said involved between $80,000 and $90,000. Simonelli pleaded not guilty.

He will be arraigned for a hearing tomorrow with Joseph Petroccine, Treasurer of Lombardi & Co., who was arrested last week on the charge of Joseph Maronna of 380 West Broadway that Petroccine misappropriated $4,400 which he gave him. The complainants in both cases said that they gave the money for investment in Bank of Italy stock.

Petroccine also had pleaded not guilty. Detective Gray told the Court yesterday that when he arrested Simonelli the night before he found him addressing letters to creditors on Lombardi & Co. stationery requesting suggestions in the best course to pursue at a meeting which was to be held at the office of Abel E. Silverman at 261 Broadway today. The detective further alleged that Simonelli told him that he had been involved in similar trouble in 1921, in which about $300,000 was involved, but that every cent had been paid to the creditors.

Derrick Saves Horse in East River.

A large white dray horse stumbled and fell into the East River yesterday afternoon from the pier at East Thirty-first Street. The horse, owned by the Empire Carting Company, fell feet-first into about six feet of water. The police emergency squad was helpless, but a wrecker from the Department of Plant and Structures, equipped with a derrick, finally raised the horse to the pier. It was taken to the company stables none the worse for its plunge.

In the evening, however, he was the guest of honor at a family party which intimate friends and his six grandchildren attended.

The Waldorf Systems, Inc., operating a chain of restaurants throughout the country, has leased for a long term, with renewal privileges, the four-story brick building at 835 Broad Street, Newark, N. The main plant is at Liberty, N. Y. A purchase option is included in the lease. J. I. Kliak, Inc., arranged the deal for Hector E. Lenz of West Nyack, N. Y.

Asphalt Workers' Local 49, at 132 East Forty-fourth Street, was ordered padlocked for one year on charges of violating the Volstead act, by Federal Judge Goddard yesterday. The premises in question were closed yesterday and no information was gained as to whether the place was a bona fide labor union or not.

Other padlock decrees issued by Judge Goddard yesterday included Margaret Pascale of 2,508 Hughes Avenue, the Bronx; the Villa Rito Club of 28 West Thirty-second Street and the 36 West Fifty-first Street Corporation.

To Start on Silk Cost Manual.

Preparation of a cost accounting manual for broad silk manufacturers is to begin in the near future, according to E. C. Rossmassler, Chairman of the committee in charge. The manual is to be issued by the Broad Silk Manufacturers' Division of the Silk Association of America, Inc., and the preliminary research work on it has just been completed. One of the principal features of the manual, which will be issued within the next few months, will be its exposition of the proper allocation of accounts in determining overhead. Other vital cost matters touched upon include the proper charging off of idle time, determining actual quantities of raw materials, used, &c.

WOMEN!

We are starting our Spring campaign with large display advertisements in the principal newspapers and magazines and are enlarging our sales department. This firm has been established in the real estate business in this city for the past forty-seven years. The earnings of our sales force on a commission basis are unusually high, due to the type and location of the property we sell and the cooperation we give. All prospective customers are taken to the property by machine, lunched are served, and experienced men assist in every way possible.

Capable women who have only spare time can also greatly increase their income by working evenings, Saturday afternoons and Sundays.

We believe that the real estate business offers a greater opportunity for large earnings and permanent future than any other line of work.

Experience in real estate or selling of any kind is not essential, as we train our women thoroughly. Some of the most successful women in our organization never had experience in selling before joining our company.

Call 9 to 10; afternoons, 2 to 3, and in the evenings, 7 to 7:30.

This article was never shown or sold in this country until a few weeks ago. Our factory is one of the oldest, best known and highly rated concerns in the electrical industry. Come in and see the machine. Now selling at the rate of 3,000 a month in England, France and Germany. No matter what you have sold, or if you have never sold. Our sales plan can be learned in a few hours. Sales Help Wanted—Male.

MEN.

We are starting our Spring campaign with large display advertisements in the principal newspapers and magazines and are enlarging our sales department. This firm has been established in the Real Estate business in this city for the past forty-seven years. The earnings of our sales force on a commission basis are unusually high, due to the type and location of the property which we sell and the co-operation we give. All prospective customers are taken to the property and experienced men assist in every way possible.

Capable men who have only spare time can also greatly increase their income by working evenings, Saturday afternoons and Sundays.

Experience in Real Estate or selling of any kind is not essential, as we train our men thoroughly. Some of the most successful men in our organization never had experience in selling before joining our company.

Call 9 to 10; Afternoons, 2 to 3, and in the Evenings, 7 to 7:30.

SHIP BOARD AWARDS 2 DIESEL CONTRACTS

SPEED TO BE INCREASED

New Streamlines and Propellers Are Expected to Give 13 Knots in Place of 10½.

The contracts for the furnishing of electrical equipment for the Shipping Board freighters Defiance and Triumph, which are to be converted to Diesel-drive, have been awarded to the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. The conversion of the Defiance will take place at the Norfolk Navy Yard. The Triumph will be converted at Boston.

The 3,000 horsepower steam propelling machinery and steam auxiliaries on the ships will be removed and 4,000 horsepower Diesel-electric propelling machinery with complete electric auxiliaries will be installed. Changes in the bows and sterns of the vessels to improve their streamlines, combined with new propellers designed for sixty revolutions per minute, are expected to give a speed in excess of thirteen knots. Their present speed is ten and a half knots.

In a statement issued yesterday by the Westinghouse company plans for the ships were explained as follows:

"The electric form of propulsion was decided upon in preference to a direct drive Diesel engine largely because of the saving in cost, weight and space in favor of the electric drive where comparatively low propeller revolutions are desired.

"The vessels will be driven by a 1,800-volt double armature, direct current, forced ventilator motor of 4,000 shaft horsepower at sixty revolutions per minute, which is directly connected with the propeller. Power for the propulsion motor will be supplied by four main generator sets, each of which comprises a McIntosh-Seymour Diesel engine, directly connected with a 900 kilowatt, 250 revolutions per minute, 375-volt main generator and 100 kilowatt 240-volt direct current auxiliary generator and exciter.

"The Westinghouse variable voltage propulsion control equipment will be installed with dead-front control pedals and arranged for both pilot house and engine room control. All deck auxiliary machinery will be electrically driven. The steering gear will be driven by a 45-horsepower motor."

NEW SHIPPING CONCERN.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—The Oceanic and Oriental Navigation Company, now in course of formation, is to handle the twenty-one vessels recently bought by the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company and the Matson Navigation Company, according to advices received here by John E. Cushing, Vice President and Traffic Manager of the American-Hawaiian line, from Roger D. Lapham, President, who is now in Washington.

The twenty-one ships recently purchased by the two San Francisco companies are now operated by Sweyne & Hoyt, who have been acting as operating managers for the Shipping Board.

The round-the-world Dollar liner President Adams, Captain W. A. Ross commanding, arrived here from New York yesterday ahead of schedule in order to go to the Hunters Point dry dock of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation for annual cleaning, painting and dry docking.

SATURNIA OFF FOR BOSTON.

More than 50,000 persons visited the new motorliner Saturnia of the Cosulich Line in her week in the Hudson River, the line estimated yesterday as the ship sailed for Boston for further public inspection.

The Saturnia is scheduled to leave Boston tomorrow morning and reach New York on Saturday, where she will be prepared for her departure Saturday night for Gibraltar, Marseilles and ports of Italy. First-class accommodations of the ship were sold out two weeks ago, and other parts of the ship will be well filled, the Cosulich Line announced.

'GLASS GEMS' CAUSE ARREST

Abe Gold, alias Abe Pearlman, 29 years old, a cloth cutter, of 156 William Street, Brooklyn, was held in $2,500 bail by Magistrate Leo Healy in Bridge Plaza Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, for further hearing March 2, on a charge of grand larceny.

He was arrested on the complaint of Mr. and Mrs. Max Halpern of 180 Grand Street, Brooklyn. The Halperns charge that on Feb. 1 Gold sold them several alleged diamonds for $400. Gold said the stones were worth $1,000, but that for quick sale he would part with them for the $400, the couple told the police. Appraisal disclosed that the alleged diamonds were made of treated glass, the police say.

Last night Mrs. Halpern struck Gold with her umbrella as he stepped from a street car, and detectives who happened to be passing made the arrest.

FIRE ON LOWER BROADWAY.

A spectacular four-alarm fire in a loft building at 547 Broadway, near Spring Street attracted large crowds last night. The fire started on the second floor and spread quickly. Soon flames were leaping thirty feet high above the roof and sparks were flying over the neighborhood, endangering near-by buildings. A thick black smoke spread for blocks around.

The building runs through to 218 Mercer Street and while police reserves kept back the crowd, firemen with varied equipment, including two water towers, fought from both Broadway and Mercer Street to stem the rush of the flames.

FIXES SHIP DISASTER BLAME

ROME, Feb. 22 (AP).—A damaged propeller shaft was the cause of the disaster which overcame the Italian steamship Princess Mafalda off the coast of Brazil on Oct. 25, according to the findings of the special commission of inquiry just made public. The text of the commission's report has not been issued, but a summary has.

The Princess Mafalda left Genoa Oct. 11, says the commission, with all certificates required by law. It was noted, however, on the voyage that the left motor stopped five times for a total of about twenty hours during the lay-over at Genoa. Intensive work was done to eliminate this trouble, but on the fatal voyage to Rio Janeiro similar disturbances occurred in a lesser degree soon after leaving Barcelona, and more markedly on the Atlantic. It became necessary to shut off the motor for many hours.

The commission considered that these incidents contributed directly to the disaster, in which more than 300 persons perished. The direct cause, however, was the breaking away of the propeller from the axle on the left side, permitting the entrance of water.

ASK FOREIGN TRADE ZONES.

Merchants Back Congress Bills Affecting American Ports.

The Merchants' Association of New York gave its endorsement yesterday to legislation pending in Congress for the establishment, operation and maintenance of foreign trade zones in ports of entry in the United States. In communications to Senator Wesley L. Jones, Chairman of the Committee on Commerce; T. V. O'Connor, Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, and the members of the House Committees on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, the association said:

"The proposal to inaugurate and operate such ports of entry in our country has had the constant and strong endorsement of the Merchants' Association for many years, this position being taken only after a painstaking study in the United States and abroad with respect to the benefits to the American public which would follow the operation of the zones in question."

RACE FOR PORT WITH LIQUOR

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 22 (AP).—With the disposition of $2,500,000 worth of liquor at stake, two liners are dashing for the port of Vancouver at full speed. The Furness motorship Pacific Reliance and the steamship Moerdyk of the joint Holland-America-Royal Mail Steam Packet Line are competing against the time limit of Feb. 29 set by the Canadian Government for importations of liquor to private bond in British Columbia.

The Pacific Reliance has 24,000 cases of whisky, the Moerdyk 16,000 cases of champagne and 10,000 cases of whisky. Unless this liquor is unloaded and put in a warehouse here one week from today the consignees will face a problem in disposing of it.

It is believed here the steamers will win the race unless fog holds them back. The Moerdyk is expected to arrive Feb. 25 from Holland, while the Pacific Reliance is due Feb. 27 from England.

LINER, HELD UP 2 DAYS BY STORM, ARRIVES

The Aurania Brings Wives of Two Missionaries Who Died in India.

The Cunard liner Aurania, two days late on her voyage from Liverpool by way of Halifax, arrived yesterday with 265 passengers. She had to postpone for twenty-four hours her departure from Liverpool owing to a gale of almost hurricane force at sea and she lost another twenty-four hours on the trip across.

Among the passengers were Mrs. William Bowen Bruere and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. William Wynne Bruere, both of whose husbands died in India where they had gone with their families seven years ago as Methodist missionaries. In the party that arrived yesterday were the younger Mrs. Bruere's two children, a five-year-old daughter and a six-year-old son. The Brueres formerly lived at Collingswood and Audubon, N. J.

Another passenger was Frank Ball, English professional golf player, who was in third place at the British open championship matches in 1924. Ball has signed a two-year contract with Bobby Jones's club in Atlanta, the East Lake Country Club.

Minnetonka Here, Storm Tossed.

The Atlantic Transport liner Minnetonka arrived yesterday from London via Boulogne fifty hours late through rough weather for the second voyage in succession. Captain Thomas Gates, master of the ship, said there had been a succession of westerly gales and high head seas practically from Boulogne to Sandy Hook. It had been the longest spell of continuous stormy weather that he could remember during his forty-five years at sea.

CAPITAL WANTED.

FOR YEARS THERE HAS BEEN URGENT NEED OF SOME FUEL TO SUPPLEMENT OR TAKE THE PLACE OF COAL.

This urgent need was first ruthlessly exploited by purveyors of oil-burning devices, which were not only without merit but dangerous in the extreme, for home installation.

Thousands of burners were blandly sold and ignorantly installed, which impaired consumer-confidence in the ENTIRE IDEA OF OIL AS FUEL.

Soon responsible corporations took up the task of developing better oil burners. Millions of dollars were spent; experiment after experiment was made by engineers.

But their efforts were apparently devoted to "finding some way of UTILIZING heavy, factory type fuel oil," rather than to develop a burner which need no ATTENDANT.

True, better burners were made, but the DUTIES of an attendant were simply relegated to MECHANICAL SAFETY DEVICES, WHICH DO NOT ALWAYS FUNCTION.

An oil burner has been developed which REQUIRES NO ATTENDANT. In consequence, it REQUIRES NO MECHANICAL SAFETY DEVICES.

It CANNOT flood, backfire or explode. It CANNOT EVEN BE MADE TO FLOOD, BACKFIRE OR EXPLODE BY ERROR IN REGULATION.

This oil burner has passed all scientific tests, including Board of Fire Underwriters. Three years' operation of several hundred has completed practical "Home Test."

THIS LAST POINT HAS NOW BEEN SOLVED, and marketing upon a large scale with a perfect product is to follow.

Keep in mind that fundamental design is not on such that even deliberate manual mishandling cannot produce flooding or an explosion, but that this feature is amply protected and of a nature which permits LICENSING USE OF ITS HIGH SAFETY-FACTOR TO OTHER MANUFACTURERS OF OIL BURNERS.

Adequate publicity will make this protection a matter of absolute demand by public and INSURANCE COMPANIES alike.

Not more than $150,000 is needed at this time to carry out program which should result in sale of entire proposition to one interest or the licensing of several and carrying on as well.

Either outcome will prove highly profitable to the few men, or suitably equipped manufacturing plant, coming in at this time.

Every statement made is capable of proof. IT WOULD BE SILLY TO CLAIM AN ACCOMPLISHMENT OF SUCH MAGNITUDE WERE IT NOT A MATTER OF FACT.

Those who can visualize this magnitude, and who are financially able to participate, are invited to first satisfy themselves beyond perad venture of a doubt.

A year ago, when this series began

A YEAR ago we started telling you about Tudor City. We pointed out its advantages—the convenience of being only a 4 minutes' walk from the midtown section and the hours you could save every day. We told you about the miniature golf course, the restaurant, the two Parks, the opportunities for economy in your living expenses, the unruffled quiet and the high standard of the apartments at their low rentals.

Over 250 inquiries a week were received at our office and at the property. People saw that our claims were not extravagant. They realized that Tudor City was an ideal place to live, and today over 97% of the two units completed last Fall are rented and occupied.

Tudor City is an established success; it is not the fancy of a moment. Stop over and see it and learn what is offered you for occupancy now or for the Fall. Take lunch or dinner in the restaurant at Prospect Tower. You will get the agreeable atmosphere of Tudor City, a better knowledge of what it means in the residential life of New York, and you will like it—as has everyone who has been there.

Available suites this year will be 1 and 2 room hotel apartments from $600 to $1300; 1 to 5 room (with dining alcove) housekeeping apartments from $600 to $3600; all varieties of sizes and room arrangements in 8 different buildings. The renting office is at the head of 42nd Street; a representative will be glad to show you over the property and the buildings.

Tudor Tower—the 4th Unit. This is an apartment hotel of 1 and 2 room suites. Coffee House on the ground floor for those who may not care to use the restaurant in Prospect Tower. Rentals as low as $800 a year. Ready May 1st.
